ceiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter.

—Mr. Joseph H. Wheelock is in Europe, the trip being necessary on account of ill health.

—Mrs. George Linder and Miss Ethie Linder have returned from California to their home on Cotton street.

—The choir boys of Grace church will have an entertainment and supper this evening in their Guild hall.

—The Social Science Club will meet at Mrs. John Conkey's, The Hollis, Wednesday, May 8 at 10 a. m. "What can the Clubs do for Newton?"

—Harry Atwood has taken James Kortz's place in the office of the Adams' Express Company. The latter goes to Narragansett Pier for the summer.

—The cover of the "Players' Program" was designed by Mr. William Paxton, and is regarded as quite clever by competent critics. Mr. Paxton is having an exhibition in Worcester, and the Worcester papers speak highly of his work.

—Members and friends of the Unity Art Club filled its charming studio a few days ago, to listen to a paper by Mrs. W. E.
Moore of this city, on "Albert Durer,"
which was a most interesting and thorough research of the life of the celebrated artist and his influence on art and religion in the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries.

—Co. C, 5th regiment, M. V. M., has issued invitations to a camp-fire to be held in Armory Hall, May 9. The newly formed veterans association of the Clinton guard and Charles Ward post 62, G. A. R., will be the honored guests of the evening. Invitations have also been issued to a number of out of town military men, and to members of the city government. It promises to be a notable affair.

—Music at Eliot church, Sunday, May 5,

Hartmann, violinist.

—Mr. Albert W. Rice, a well known resident of this city and a successful business man of Waltham and Boston, died at his residence on Church street, Monday afternoon. He had been ill only three days, death being due to typhoid pneumonia. Mr. Rice was born in South Brookfield 51 years ago, but spent the greater portion of his life in Boston and vicinity.
He was engaged in the sundry ware and men's furnishing goods business on Kingston street, Boston, and in a similar business in Waltham, where he was accounted one of the leading business men.
He also conducted dry goods stores in Warren and Pittsfield. He was formerly active in local affairs in this city, where he resided about 20 years. He served two terms in the common council as a representative from Ward One. A widow and one daughter survive him.

—Frank B. Wetherbee, formerly of this city, had a very exciting experience a few days ago with a lodging house thief.
While getting his breakfast, he left his overcoat in the hall. Happening to be returning, he saw the man entering the dining room, he saw the fellow making his exit from the house with the garment over his arm. He followed him and was joined in the chase by his brother. They grabbed the man after a hard run and then a struggle ensued in which the thief, happily, got worsted. His captors took him to station 10 where he was booked by the officer in charge and then locked up to await trial.
He turned out to be an old offender whose photograph had been taken for the rogue's gallery some years ago. In the municipal court, Monday, he received a four month's sentence.

—Mr. George Agry and family have returned to their home on Hovey street.

—Rev. Mr. Bronson's subject at the Methodist church, Sunday, will be "The Peace between China and Japan."

—Mrs. James H. Moore and family of Boyd street have removed to Crescent street, Auburndale.

—Miss Josephine Trant of Hartford, Conn., has been the guest of Mrs. William Graham of Washington street, the past week.

—Mrs. Henry G. Blair of Philadelphia
is visiting her mother, Mrs. Charlotte Blair, at her residence on Jefferson street.

—Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Farquhar are expected home tomorrow from their trip through the South and West.

—Mr. and Mrs. E. J. H. Estabrook celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary at their home, 102 Boyd street, this evening,
and will receive their friends from 8 to 11.

—The season at the summer resorts is to be the best of any, so real estate men say.
A number of Newton people have already looked over their cottages at the several beaches.

—The first Quarterly Conference for this year will be held in the Methodist Episcopal church by Presiding Elder Rev.
Dr. Eaton, next Monday evening.

—The second illustrated lecture of the course in the Methodist church will be on China, at 8 o'clock, Tuesday evening.
Stuart, M. D., of Nauk, next Tuesday evening.

—Mr. and Mrs. Simeon Lewis have been spending the week at Hotel Hunnewell, superintending the removal of their furniture to their new summer residence at Hyalis.

—Mowry & Temple have the contract for widening J. C. Rockford's house, Hunnewell hill, Mr. E. E. Noble's house, East Watertown, Me. s. W. S. and F. Edmonds, house Ward street, and two new houses at Belmont.

—The funeral procession of Moosk Mur-
vail passed through here Sunday on its way to the Newton cemetery. The cortege consisted of the hearse, one hack and about fifty friends of the deceased who followed
on foot.

—The afternoon Whist club meet with Miss Emily Cutler, at her home on Linder terrace, Wednesday afternoon. There were five tables and prizes were taken by Miss Cutler of Montrose street, and Miss Crocker. After the hands had been played, frappe was served.

—The case of Mrs. Nellie A. Johnson versus the City of Newton, growing out of a claim for damages on account of injuries sustained by a fall on the sidewalk in front of Eliot hall, due, the plaintiff alleges, to a defect in said walk, is on the docket for trial in the superior court, but will not be reached, probably, until Monday.

—In the fine Town hall, at Wellesley, on Monday evening last, was given one of the best entertainments of the season; an Old Folks concert by a chorus of forty young people from Newton, under the leadership of Edward L. Bacon. The old melodies were interspersed by solos
which were well rendered and heartily encored. Miss Truesdell gave several recitations which delighted and amused all present. O. F. Bacon was the accompanist, on the harpsichord and several loud sounding instruments were also played.

—The topic for the Friday evening
prayer meetings of the Methodist society for the months of May, June and July have been arranged and are as follows: May 5,
"God's Farmers;" May 10, "God's Tradesmen;" May 15, "Speaking and Writing;" May 20, "Our Country's Debt;" May 25, "The Comes of Jesus;" June 1, "The I Will of Jesus;" June 6, "The Ye Are of Jesus;"
June 11, "What Christ Has Done;" June 16,
"What Christ Is Doing;" June 21, "What Christ Will Do;" June 26, "Harvest;"
July 1, "Prayer;" Aug. 2, "Promises."

—Rev. Dillon Bronson will give a series of Sunday morning sermons in the Methodist church on the "I am" of Jesus. The dates and subjects follow: May 5, "I am the Bread of Life;" May 12, "I am the Light of the World;" May 19, "I am the Son of God;"
May 26, "I am the Vine;" June 2, "I am the Good Shepherd;" June 9, "I am the Door;"
June 16, "I am the True Vine;" June 23,
"I am Meek and Lowly of Heart;" June 30,
"I am the One that Suffereth;" July 7, "I am the Resurrection and the Life;" July 14,
"I am With You Always;" July 21, "I am the Alpha and the Omega;" July 28, "I am the Bright and Morning Star."

—A Boston paper commenting on Rev.
Dr. A. B. Earle's last work "A Promise Fulfilled," pays a fitting tribute to the great union evangelist. It says: "Dr.
Earle was a pioneer, a gospel carrier to the Pacific coast to the early days. When he returned from there he had seen and enjoyed enough for a whole lifetime. The services conducted were not economical, but union, and were held in all the states but two, and in the Provinces. So robust was Dr. Earle, in health, that he averaged 750 meetings for more than thirty years. During this season of wonderful activity he wrote as well many tracts and religious works, which have had a wide circulation in this and several other countries. His last book, "A Promise Fulfilled," is the record of a useful life, rich in years,
and the good it has accomplished.

—That a great many ladies can keep a secret was conclusively proved by the most complete surprise that was accorded to Mrs. E. B. Hames, the president of the Monday Afternoon Whist club, which closed its season a few weeks ago. At the suggestion of Mrs. Grant, the ladies for the past two weeks have been arranging for the surprise, and last Monday evening met at Mrs. Grant's, with their husbands or escorts, Mr. and Mrs. Hames having been invited to a game of whist for that evening. When they entered the door and came face to face with the smiling countenances of nearly forty people, it was a pity a snap-shot could not have been taken of the group. Not the slightest inkling of the affair had leaked out, and the astounded look on Mrs. Hames' face fairly con-vulsed the company. She finally rallied, however, and the evening passed off very pleasantly with drive whist, the six prizes
being taken in order by Mrs. Greaves, Mrs. Gaffield and Mrs. T. W. Trowbridge.

AUBURNDALE.

—Mrs. Jones has been removed to the Newton hospital.

—H. B. Lovell of the B. & A. is recovering from his recent illness.

—James Vickers has placed a handsome
new sign over his store.

—Mr. Winship and family have removed to Winthrop for the summer.

—Fred Floyd and family have removed from Freeman to Charles street.

—Mr. Geo. B. Knapp has reopened his house here for the summer.

—Mr. J. O. Bishop is occupying his new residence on Woodland road.

—Mr. B. L. Young of Boston has removed to his summer home in Weston.

—The square looks much improved after the cleaning which the highway department gave it last week.

—Master Almon Burton Thorne, the youngest of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Thorne, is quite ill.

—Mrs. Harrington has purchased a house on Maple street and will have it remodelled and refitted.

—Tapley & Co. have been rewarded the contract for painting Plummer's block and will commence work at once.

—Fred White, who has been ill at his home here, has returned to his position in Lenox.

—Mrs. W. E. Thayer was tendered a surprise party by the Rebekah Lodge 100, Friday evening.

—C. G. Tinkham, the stable keeper, sold a valuable pair of horses to Boston
paties this week.

—There are letters in the post-office for Miss Eugenie S. Brown, Mrs. Davis, Miss
Gertrude Gray and Mr. and Mrs. Thurston Patch.

—Miss Minnie Fletcher has opened an attractive flower stand in front of W. P.
Thorne's drug store.

—A number of friends attended the funeral of Fred Curtis at Framingham Sunday. The services were held on the B. & A. R. R., Thursday evening.

—Miss Louise Imogen Quinley has sailed for Europe for a much-needed rest. The plucky little Auburndale postmistress is the guest of kind friends. -Boston Post

—Howard Crandell has been appointed a census enumerator. His place as assistant ticket agent at the depot is being filled
by Joseph Koenig.

—Mr. L. P. Ober was in town this week looking over his summer home at Riverside, preparatory to removing there this month.

—At the Methodist church next Sunday morning, short sermon by the pastor, followed by the reception of members and the Bible Society. In the evening, Mrs. Dr.
G. M. Steele will preside and deliver the address.

—Mr. M. D. Marchessault, who died in Somerville last Monday, was for years a resident of this place, removing from here last fall. He was chief telegraph operator on the Boston Globe, well known and very popular.

—Mr. and Mrs. Hadlock gave a reception to their many friends Thursday evening of last week, the occasion being their wedding anniversary. The affair was a most agreeable surprise to Mr. Hadlock who returned from business that evening and found twenty-four of his friends seated in the parlor. Mr. and Mrs. Hadlock were presented with a handsome picture and faintly expressed their thanks by their hospitality. The evening was passed most pleasantly and a collation was served.

—The boulevard is to be completed to the river. The work will be pushed rapidly forward this summer. The necessary order passed both branches of the city council Tuesday evening, and work will be commenced as soon as the usual formalities have been gone through with. This order provides for the laying out of the boulevard from the portion at present
under construction at Auburn street, along the general line of Rowe street
to the Charles river, near the Weston bridge at Riverside. The boulevard, when completed, will be about 5 1/2 miles in length, and will terminate at the reservoir and at the river park, recently acquired by the city along the banks of the Charles.

—Bankers and merchants of Boston
gathered in large numbers at the Arlington Street church, that city, last Saturday, to pay the last tribute to the memory of Chester Guild, whose body, inclosed in a broadcloth covered casket, rested at the foot of the altar, amid a bank of floral tributes. The services were read by Rev.
E. A. Horton, who later paid a glowing tribute to the memory of the departed.
The pallbearers, all representing the Merchants' Club, were B. F. Stevens, S. B.
Mandell, Montgomery Field, Messrs.
Pomeroy and Williams. The interment was in the family lot at Mt. Auburn.

Mr. Guild was well known and much esteemed in Newton. He resided at the Woodland Park with his family during the summer months and for several seasons occupied
the same apartments there.

—One of the most charming musicales
ever given in Auburndale, was the recital
by the pupils of Miss Maud F. Euler, on Thursday evening. An appreciative and fashionable audience listened to an interesting program by the following performers: Misses Bessie Bancroft, Bessie Dana, Mollie Dana, Mary Hale, Master
Leon Hackett, Misses Kate Lewis, Daisy Snow, and the Masters Whiting. With-all did so well it seems invidious to make distinctions, but we cannot refrain from mentioning the particular expression and delicate rendering of Miss Kate Lewis' performance, while the piano for general style and brilliant execution must be given to Master Hackett. Miss Bancroft played with her usual correctness and animation,
and the duet by the youthful Masters
Whiting was loudly applauded.

—Great interest is felt in the two concerts to be given in the Newton Clubhouse, Tuesday, May 7, and Thursday, May 10,
for the purpose of obtaining an organ for the Church of the Messiah. The group of artists who have kindly consented to appear are of such rare excellence that an excellent and interesting program is assured.
It will include compositions of Schubert,
Schumann, Chopin, Bach, Chelini, Liszt, Gounod and Beethoven, for violin, organ, piano and voice. The artists for the first concert comprise Mr. and Mrs. H. P.
Chelini, Ida Brown Spofford, Mr. Carl
Pelton, Mr. Clarence Ashenden and Mrs.
Carter-Wright. The list of patronesses follows: for Auburndale, Mrs. M. A.
Matteon, Mrs. H. A. Pemberton; for West Newton, Mrs. Geo. Howlett, Mrs.
Perkins, Mrs. E. J. Ehler; for Newton-ville, Mrs. John A. Fenn, Mrs. Wm.
Chapman; for Newton, Mrs. Geo. W.
Shinn, Mrs. E. M. Springer; for Boston,
Mrs. Joseph H. Goodspeed, Mrs. F. H.
Stoddard.

—The death of Mrs. Wm. E. Field, which occurred last Saturday, was very unexpected, even to her family, as she had been ill but a short time, and was not considered to be in a dangerous condition. Death was due to heart disease. Her husband died only a few years ago, and she leaves
three children, two sons and a daughter,
to mourn her loss. The funeral services were held at the house on Waverley avenue, and Rev. Wolcott Calkins officiated. There was a very large attendance of relatives and friends. The interment was at Mt. Auburn.

—Extensive and very important takings
of land have just been made by the metropolitan park commission, the property being situated in several parts of the metopolitan district. Both banks of the Charles river from a point in Boston and Cambridge where the river parkway of the latter ends to the dam at Watertown have been taken. This assures a parkway along the whole stretch of this stream. Newton residents whose estates skirt the river are congratulating themselves and each other.
It is a move in the interests of health and it will be of great advantage, too, from the standpoint of added attractiveness.

—Richard Hammill was arrested early last Friday morning by Patrolmen Taffe
and Conroy, on Park street. He had a canvas jacket and a rubber coat on, and was taken into custody on suspicion, the officers recognizing in him an old offender
who had served time for larceny and highway robbery. He had been out of the jail less than a month. It was ascertained that the coats were stolen from Lewis Fets of Brighton street. In court, Monday morning, Judge Kennedy sentenced the man to a term in the Concord reformatory. He appealed and was bound over in the sum of $100 for his appearance before the superior court.

—The funeral procession of Moosk Mur-
vail passed through here Sunday on its

consisted of the hearse, one hack and about

pupils of the school. A considerable num-

CITY COUNCIL TRANSACT A LARGE AMOUNT OF BUSINESS—ORDER PASSED AUTHORIZING THE COMPLETION OF BOULEVARD FROM AUBURN STREET TO CHARLES RIVER—SUBSTITUTION OF LARGE FOR SMALL TELEPHONE POLES THE OCCASION OF AN ORDER FOR A REVISION OF THE ORDINANCE RESPECTING POLES AND WIRES.

Both branches of the city government met in their respective chambers in the City Hall, Tuesday evening. Mayor Bothfield presided at the session of the aldermen. The first business was a hearing on a petition of the Newton & Watertown Gas Light Company for location for poles and wires on Bradford road, Highland district. There were no remonstrants. Mr. Samuel Shaw appeared simply to ask what the poles were to be used for. The information was furnished by Supt. Welles E. Holmes, who said that the purpose was to supply electric light for the residence of Mr. Spooner. Mr. Shaw said that he had no objections to offer if that was the object of the petitioners. The hearing was closed.

Licenses of the sixth-class were granted to J. G. Kilburn, John F. Payne, Albert F. Wright, S. N. Sears and B. B. Buck. The above all received certificates from the board of pharmacy.

The following renewals of licenses were granted: James Delaney and Harry Snyder, junk; S. M. Davis, Mrs. Leighton, Laura Edwards, intelligence offices; Catherine W. Edes, (Upper Falls) Robertson, et al, Riverside boat house, innholder and restaurateur.

Upon recommendation of the chief of the fire department, the mayor appointed F. A. Barrows assistant foreman of No. 1 engine company to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Benjamin Tripp. The appointment was confirmed.

A petition of George N. March for a private telephone location across Copley street was received and placed on file.

The bill of George E. Bridges for making a canvass of the births and compiling a record of same was approved.

At this point, the hearing was opened on the laying out of that section of Commonwealth avenue, (boulevard) extending from Auburn street to the Charles river.

Prior to the opening of the hearing, Alderman Bullard asked if the hearing for pole locations on Commonwealth avenue was not called for 8 o'clock. "I understand," said he, "that it was, and I believe that it has the preference. I should like an explanation from the city clerk."

Col. K. N. Searcy, the official referred to, stated that owing to the pressure of business and through a slip, the notices had not been sent out.

On motion of Alderman Bullard the hearing for pole locations was, therefore, postponed until Monday, May 6, at 7:30 o'clock.

Mr. Sarell J. Willis was the first remonstrant heard in relation to the extension of Commonwealth avenue to the Charles river. He appeared representing Susanah H. Kimball of Andover and entered a protest in her behalf. He said that her property would be swept away as a result of the proposed improvement. It has been her home for years, he added, and as she is now alone in it, it will be hard for her to make a new one.

A similar protest was entered by Mr. James F. Allen for Miss Annie Kittredge residing corner of Monroe and Seavernus streets.

H. T. Wills appeared for Mr. A. H. Spencer, owner of the three small houses on Seavernus street. I understand, said he, that the houses are to be removed. Mr. Spencer, he added, has been unable to sell or rent them since they were erected because of the general understanding that they were to be disturbed or removed on account of the extension of Commonwealth avenue.

In reply to Alderman Plummer, Mr. Wills said that the proposal to run the boulevard through the section referred to had, undoubtedly, affected the rental and disposal by sale of Mr. Spencer's property.

Alderman Plummer—How long is it, Mr. Wills, since these houses were completed?

Mr. Wills—About a year.

Mr. C. C. Burr—I object to the proposed route because it will take about 125,000 feet of valuable building land owned by me, besides necessitating the removal of the stable now occupied by Mr. C. G. Finkham.

Alderman Plummer—Do you consider that section of your land near the ditch valuable for building purposes?

Mr. Burr—Yes sir.

Mr. P. A. McVicar was next heard. He said that he represented, he believed, the only business interest affected. I have been established in business in my present location, he continued, for 15 years. Everyone is aware of the difficulties in the way of securing a site for a carriage manufactory or business of similar character in Andoverdale. It would be really a serious matter for me if disturbed and obliged to find a new place. I must, therefore, enter my protest on that ground and also because of the cost involved in putting up a new building under the existing ordinances. It would amount to probably $20,000. There is a residence in the rear of my manufactory, which I occupy. I am willing to sacrifice that in the interests of what might be regarded as a general improvement. I was one of the signers of the petition favoring the present route, but I understood that the street was to be only 70 feet in width. If that plan were to be carried out, it would not be necessary to disturb the building used by me for a manufactory. I am willing to put in everything at a fair valuation except my business. That, I cannot afford to sacrifice. It seems to me that the route could be deviated slightly without detriment. There is considerable unoccupied land opposite my place.

Mr. J. F. Ryder entered a protest for Miss Howard, residing on Seavernus street. It was for a sentimental reason, that of being compelled to give up her home and its associations of many years. Alderman Plummer was responsible for a glimmer of relief and his announcement that Miss Howard's house was not to be disturbed will, no doubt, prove agreeable news to its owner.

Mr. Searcy entered a remonstrance. His objection was that he had just built upon the Benson estate and settled there expecting to make it his home for some time. He did not like the idea of vacating and seeking a place of residence elsewhere.

Mr. J. W. Coughlan—I own about 148,

000 feet of land along the line of the proposed boulevard. It is proposed to take the best half of the boulevard extension project is carried out. The boulevard will not benefit me so much as it will others. I have now a street frontage of 1923 feet. Of course, I believe in improvements, but I must add that in this case I expect to be fairly compensated for any of my land taken. The plan of route will convince most any one that it will result to my detriment as it will make a number of very irregular lots difficult to dispose of.

Mr. A. D. S. Bell appeared in favor of the extension. He commenced by saying that the city council would duly consider all those cases where home associations were to be broken up on account of the proposed improvement. I am here, however, he added, as the representative of a large interest and was requested to urge upon you the importance of completing the boulevard at once. Those who originated the improvement, not only gave land to the city, but the promise of a cash offer of $25,000. They expected, of course, that the boulevard would be laid out to the river with as little delay as possible.

You have invested already for the improvement something like $225,000 and the city has got back enough to provide for the full interest on the debt incurred. The boulevard project was assured that the boulevard would be completed to the river without delay, at least of that character that could be possibly avoided. Newton ought to have this grand avenue from the Boston line to the river at the earliest practicable moment. The river is a very important spot for sight and pleasure seekers and is destined to become far more popular as the years roll on. The people want railway facilities and as soon as the whole avenue is laid out they will be provided and thousands of people can be brought to the very shores of the stream. That section of the river reached by the proposed completed boulevard is one of the most noted boating and canoeing resorts in New England and other interests pleasurable and otherwise are concentrating there.

Mr. George H. Ellis—While not an owner of land along the boulevard, it seems to me that the city's experience thus far in the undertaking not only warrants, but forces it to go ahead and complete Commonwealth avenue to the river. The return has provided for the full interest of the debt incurred, as stated by a previous speaker. The boulevard is bringing more money into Newton, and the indirect result will be a healthy increase in taxable property.

At 8:35 o'clock, the hearing was closed. On a petition of the Newton & Watertown Gas Light Company for locations for poles on Hartford, Washington and Grassmere streets, a hearing was ordered for Monday evening, May 20, at 7:50 o'clock.

An invitation from Charles Ward post to participate in the Memorial Day exercises was received and accepted.

A somewhat delayed communication from Gov. Greenhalge was read. It announced that Saturday, April 27 has been set apart as Arbor day.

A communication from the school board was received. It was in the nature of a request for additional school accommodations, for temporary relief of pupils in the lower grades of the Rice building and for the provision of a new room addition to that structure, the same to be ready at the opening of the new term in September.

Mr. E. H. Mason, Mr. Smith and Mr. Ward of the school board were present and a committee representing the Newton Centre Improvement Association. On motion of Alderman Dezen, the gentlemen were given a hearing.

Mr. Mason explained the urgent necessity for the 4 room addition. He said that the temporary accommodations had been already provided, a room having been secured in Bray's block. He referred to Supt. Aldrich's views on the subject, incorporated in his report presented at the last meeting of the school board. That official, said he, called attention to the necessity of providing additional accommodations for pupils in the Rice and Mason schools. In the former, he stated that there were 208 pupils in 8 rooms. He said that in the Rice, there was pressing need for one room now to accommodate one-half of the pupils in Miss Baker's class. Another room, he thought, was needed for housing a kindergarten. While these two rooms would provide for immediate requirements, four new rooms, in his opinion, should be added to the Rice building. No time, he urged, should be lost in bringing this matter before the city council, as the new rooms should be ready for occupancy at the beginning of the school term in September.

In the lowest class in the Rice school, Mr. Mason went on to say, there are 67 pupils and the maximum number in one room ought not to exceed 45. The people of Newton Centre are urgent in their call for more and better school accommodations. A petition signed by 112 parents was presented at the last meeting of the school board urging the provision of relief by the opening of the next school term in September.

Mr. Smith said that the necessity for more school accommodation in Newton Centre was not a new one. It had been recognized as far back as in 1891. The present crowded condition, he added, must be relieved. It is hoped that the city council will give the subject its prompt attention.

Alderman Bullard—Would it be necessary to provide a brick structure?

Mayor Bothfield—As it is an addition to a building that is called for, it would not be necessary to construct it of brick. Mr. Mason in reply to an interrogation said the cost would not exceed $10,000. It will not be necessary, he added, to provide additional land.

Mr. Ward said the residents of Newton Centre were deeply interested in the school matter under discussion and earnest in their efforts to have means devised at once to relieve the overcrowded condition of the Rice building.

Messrs. Frank Edwards, Rice and Copeland appeared for the Improvement society and urged speedy action on the part of the city council in furnishing the relief asked for.

A hearing was appointed for Monday evening, May 20, on the petition of the Newton & Watertown Gas Light Company to attach cross arms to poles of the Newton & Watertown Gas Light Company on Highland street.

The hawkers' and peddlers' ordinance was passed to be ordained.

Alderman Plummer moved that the petition of the Newton & Watertown Gas Light Company for locations for poles on Otis street, and of the Newton & Watertown Gas Light Company to attach cross arms to same, be granted subject to existing ordinances of the city.

Alderman Bullard—After examining the ordinances and making some investigations, I find that rights of land owners are not fully protected in this matter of pole locations. It seems that after a company once secures its location it can later substitute a large pole for a smaller one and that under the existing ordinance, there is no redress. Several years ago, for instance, some inconspicuous poles were put up on Highland street. Within a short time, they have been replaced by hard pine poles, 35 feet in height and 10 feet at the base. These poles are most unsightly and the residents are much concerned because the appearance of the street is certainly not improved. They can't do anything about it, notwithstanding their very earnest desire to do so. It seems to me that if the companies can afford to put up such large poles, (such monstrosities), that they can afford to put their wires underground.

Alderman Green—The street lighting poles are located subject to the approval of the inspector of wires. The member of the board from Ward Three is a member of the street light committee and has an opportunity, therefore, of saying something about the character of poles to be located in the streets of the city.

Alderman Plummer—The opposition to the location asked for on Otis street, which was for the purpose of furnishing electric light for the houses of Mr. Anderson and others, I think was incited by a spirit of selfishness. Those objectors, it seems to me, gave evidence of very narrow and contracted views so far as the large poles on Highland street are concerned; everybody knows that they are what is termed the combination pole, designed to carry all the wires for lighting, telephone and telegraph service. The idea is, of course, to get rid of the multiplicity of poles. These larger poles, straight and substantial, are better, so far as the appearance of a street is concerned, than many smaller poles of all variety, some originally crooked and others bending over and twisted out of shape from the great weight of overhead wires.

Alderman Bullard—The opposition to the pole location on Otis street was not altogether a personal one. Quite a number of real estate owners, whose interests are as great as those of gentlemen desiring the light for their houses, entered a vigorous protest when the matter was first broached. My point is simply that so far as the present ordinances are concerned, it would be possible to put up the same sort of poles on Otis street as those now located on Highland street, which are a source of great annoyance to residents. It seems to me that the city is giving up too much of its streets to accommodate principally private companies. I only hope that some precaution will be taken to prevent any further disfigurement of our beautiful residential streets. If there was any way of limiting the size of the poles, I should have no objection to the Otis street location.

Mayor Bothfield suggested that the board might instruct the inspector of wires to withhold permit to substitute larger poles for smaller ones if the consent of the board had not been given.

The order under discussion at this point was tabled for the purpose of taking up matters requiring concurrent action.

The following orders were adopted: Appropriating $500 for settlement of claims of the city, providing for the laying out of the boulevard from Auburn street to the Charles river, and fixing compensation for damages in the cases of persons last owners affected by the proposed improvement; authorizing the construction of various concrete sidewalks; providing for the issue and sale of eighty $1000 boulevard bonds, bearing interest at the rate of 4 per cent. per annum; providing for the issue and sale of 22 highway bonds of the denomination of $1000 each for laying out and widening several streets, providing sewers, reconstructing a culvert, etc., all of the proposed improvements except the laying out of Appleton street, having been included in the appropriation budget of last year's highway committee.

Alderman Bullard offered an order requesting the committee on ordinances to amend the ordinances relating to poles carrying wires, so that hereafter larger poles could not be substituted for smaller ones until after the parties in interest were given an opportunity to be heard.

The Otis street pole location order was at this point taken from the table. Alderman Bullard said the permit in his judgment should not be issued, he having decided to change the ordinance. After some discussion, Alderman Tolman moved the passage of the order, adding the provision that said poles be approved by the inspector of wires. The order, thus amended, was adopted.

The board at 10:05 o'clock adjourned.

To the Newton Board of Health.

As thousands can testify from unpleasant experience, the strong smoke and odor from the many piles of burning weeds and leaves in the crowded sections of the city are a nuisance as injurious to health as it is productive of discomfort. In some instances the well are made sick by it, and to the sick this pungent smoke is an intolerable burden. Cannot the city authorities provide some other way of disposing of our rubbish, and will not the Board of Health give the subject official consideration and oblige

THE FIRST GERRYMANDER.

MASSACHUSETTS HAS "THE DOUBTFUL HONOR OF ORIGINATING IT."

John Bach McMaster contributes a timely article on The Political Depravity of the Fathers, in the May Atlantic Monthly. He says:

But it is to Massachusetts that we owe the introduction of the most infamous piece of party machinery this century has produced. In 1812 the Jeffersonian Republicans of that state elected not only a Governor and a majority of the House, but, after years of persistent effort, secured control of the senate. By the Constitution of Massachusetts it was decreed that the Senate should consist of forty men, chosen annually from such districts as the General Court mark out, and that until such districts were created the Senators should be chosen from the counties. But the General Court had never used this power, and the temporary provision that each county should be a senatorial district became in time an established usage, with all the force of law. This usage, however, the Republicans now laid violent hands on, rearranged the districts without regard to county lines, overcame Federalist strongholds by connecting them to Republican strongholds, cut Worcester County in two, joined Bristol and Norfolk, attached some of the towns of Suffolk to those of Essex, and in the next General Court had twenty-nine Senators out of forty.

The story is told that a map of the Essex senatorial district was hanging on the office wall of the editor of the Columbian Centinel, when the artist Stuart entered. Struck by the peculiar outline of the town forming the district, he added a head, wings and claws with his pencil, and, turning to the editor, said, "There, that will do for a salamander." "Better say a gerrymander," returned the editor, alluding to Elbridge Gerry, the Republican Governor who had signed the districting act. However this may be, it is certain that the name "gerrymander" was first applied to the odious law in the columns of the Centinel, that it came rapidly into use, and has remained in our political nomenclature ever since. Indeed, a huge cut of the monster was prepared, and the next year was scattered as a broadside over the Commonwealth, and so aroused the people that in the spring of 1813, despite covered control of the Senate and repealed the law; but not before the progeny of the monster had sprung up in New Jersey.

At the October elections in 1812, the Federalists, with the aid of the peace party, elected a majority of both branches of the legislature. The success was quite unexpected, and, greatly elated over their victory, they proceeded to gather its fruits when the legislature met, a few weeks later. As the law then stood, it would become the duty of the people of New Jersey, early in November, to choose eight presidential electors by a general ticket, a manner of election which would surely end in a Republican triumph, for the party majority on a state vote was twenty-five hundred. But the Federalists were determined that their opponents should not triumph, and six days before the election was to take place they repealed the old law, deprived the people of a vote, gave the choice of presidential electors to the legislature, and, when the time came, chose eight Federalist electors.

The next act was to gerrymander the congressional districts. The custom so familiar to us, the custom of having in each state as many districts as the House of Representatives, was not in general use, and the six Representatives from New Jersey were elected by a general ticket. Here again the Republican majority in the state insured a Republican delegation; but it was overcome on the eve of election by a bill which established three congressional districts, with boundaries so carefully marked out that four of the six Representatives were secured by the Federalists.

Moral character cannot really be elevated by external force. People may be awakened, inspired, and helped by their interest, sympathy, advice and influence, but if the character is to be built up into fair proportions, it must be by the personal force of the individual himself.—New Moon.

Some one suggested the advisability of inspecting police uniforms, not on the wholesale plan, but those worn by the Newton guardians of the peace. The why for is that some of our stalwart coppers wear real blue trousers and some prefer that shade which closely approaches black. The latter are on the economic type of citizenship. They can utilize the blue-black neither garments for a street row or possibly a quiet social gathering, provided they are of the hold fast description, a very necessary quality, by the way, for the complete success of the "combination" pants. The fellow who wants the patrolmen's clothes inspected is no believer in variety of colors. He believes in a standard dye, and to complete the proper picture of a policeman's adornment, he suggests the regulation side-seam stripe, a feature of the patrolmen's uniforms in many large cities.

THE PLAYERS

GIVE "ALL THE COMFORTS OF HOME" AT CITY HALL.

The Players gave their last performance for the season at City Hall, Monday and Tuesday evenings, before the usual crowded houses. William Gillette's amusing comedy "All the Comforts of Home" was the play presented, and The Players have never done better work. There was a very pretty stage setting, and as the scenes are not changed in the play there were no waits of any length between the acts.

The cast introduced three of the favorite actors in the recent Cadet Theatre, Messrs. Geo. P. Davis, B. P. Cheney, and T. E. Stutson, and the applause that greeted them on their appearance showed that their friends remembered them with pleasure. An old favorite of The Players appeared again in Mrs. Frederick H. Briggs, who gave a charming impersonation of a singer of the "opéra comique," and her skirt dance and song was encored again and again. Mr. Davis and Mr. Cheney were cast as elderly men, and looked and acted their parts to perfection, while Mr. Stutson was in his drollest vein as "Tom McDow," a sort of general utility man. The mysterious voice that always wanted to know "what time it is" was one of the hits of the play, it was such a pervasive and pathetic voice, and gave such an air of reality to the scene. Mrs. Walter H. Stearns, who has not been seen on the stage of late, made an admirable Mrs. Bender and kept her straying husband in proper subjection. The scene where the husband is ordered to make love to the opera singer, with Mrs. Bender looking on from a transom window, was one of the most effective in the play, and Mrs. Bender's entrance made a capital climax. Mr. Stephen L. Snell as Alfred Hastings had one of the most responsible parts, and sustained it with great spirit; Mr. H. S. Kempton as the nervous old man could hardly have been improved, while Mr. George R. Pulsifer as Victor Smythe concealed his identity so well that his friends hardly recognized him. The minor parts were well taken, and the large number of characters in the cast showed the great amount of dramatic ability in the club. The manager was Mr. Edward C. Burrage, and the stage director, Mr. Wm. T. Farley. The Players orchestra, as usual, gave an excellent musical program, and the applause that greeted every scene showed the appreciation of the large audiences that gathered on each evening. The cast was as follows:

Mr. Egbert Pettibone, a peculiarly jealous man, Mr. George P. Davis
Rosabella Pettibone, his second wife, Miss Elisabeth Wadleigh
Emily Pettibone, Pettibone's daughter, Miss Ethel Perrin
Alfred Hastings, Pettibone's nephew, Mr. Stephen L. Snell
Tom McDow, a Protege of Alfred's, Mr. H. S. Kempton
Christopher Dabney, a broken down Music Teacher, Mr. Herbert S. Kempton Judson Langhorn, a young man of leisure, Mr. Charles W. Cole
Fid Orlanski, from the Opera Comique, Mrs. Frederick H. Briggs Theodore Bender, Esq., a retired Produce Dealer, Mr. Benjamin E. Cheney, Jr.
Josephine Bender, his wife, Mrs. Walter H. Stearns
Evangeline Bender, their daughter, Mrs. Francis Newhall
Augustus McNath, a friend of Pettibone's, Mr. Harry L. Burrage
Victor Smythe, in love with Emily Pettibone, Mr. Geo. Royal Pulsifer
Thompson, a Shoe Dealer, Mr. Louis W. Pulsifer
Katy, Maid at Pettibone's, Miss Ella B. Stearns
Gretchen, F. S. S. Maid, Miss Marguerite Kimberly
Baillif, merely a Baillif, Mr. Harry L. Burrage

DEATH OF A. S. CHISHOLM.

POPULAR MEMBER OF THE BOSTON HERALD STAFF PASSES AWAY IN NEWTONVILLE.

Archibald D. Chisholm died at the residence of his father, Alexander Chisholm, 70 Washington park, Newtonville, Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Deceased was born in Boston and was 42 years of age. Twenty years ago he became an employee of the Boston Herald and later held an important position in its counting room, where he won a high place in the esteem of both proprietors and managers, and his genial manners and uniform courtesy made him a general favorite.

He was a skilled accountant and had more than the ordinary aptitude and ability in business affairs.

About 12 years ago he left the employ of the Herald, and went to New York City, where he established himself in the export trade.

Last summer he returned to Boston and again entered the employ of the Herald, taking charge of its publicity department.

During his earlier connection with that paper he was quite prominent in the state militia. He was a member of the Clifton Guard, Company C, 5th Regt. M. V. M., of Newton, in its palmy days, when its ranks were composed of some of the best of Newton's citizenship. He was also a member of the Boston Tigers.

Mr. Chisholm went to Newtonville to reside with his parents 30 years ago, and their home has always been his home, except during his stay in New York. He was unmarried.

His health began to fail last fall, and during three weeks prior to his death he was confined to the house, and to his room the greater part of the time. The cause of death was bronchitis, which brought on a fatal lung disease.

In Newtonville Mr. Chisholm leaves a large circle of friends, by whom he was greatly esteemed for many excellent traits of character.

Agreeably Surprised.

"I had a very severe cold on my lungs that caused much soreness and gave me considerable uneasiness in regard to the result," says Mr. T. E. Smith, of Billerica, Mass. "A local druggist called my attention to Chamberlin's Cough Remedy, and on his recommendation I gave the remedy a careful trial. The result surprised me; I recovered entirely in three days." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Arthur Hudson, Newton; E. W. Keyes, Auburndale; B. B. Buck, Newton Centre; E. F. Acting through the blood, Hood's Sarsaparilla not only cures scrofula, salt rheum, etc., but gives health and vigor to the whole body.

All Sorts.

The new woman's cause has an inspiring advocate in Mrs. Mabel L. MacCoy, Universalist minister at Mansfield, Mass. Instead of vague notions that the new woman is a masculine, emancipated female who should have all sorts of "rights," so called, Mrs. MacCoy has a definite idea of the new woman's sphere and mission.

The mission of the new woman, Mrs. MacCoy says, should begin at home. "I think," she adds, "that the whole world is before her now. I can see a great necessity that is laid upon her. The new woman is to be the salvation of this government."

"What do I mean? That men have made such a farce of our government that woman's direct influence is necessary to stop the corruption. Men have divorced morals from politics. There is no way but for woman to carry the moral law into politics, and to remain at the polls and in the high places of government till the reform is thorough, till they have so infused men with their moral power that the men will take up the standard and bear it on alone."

"Then I believe that woman will retire from public life. Her position is naturally that of a power behind the throne. Her instinctive modesty makes her take a place behind the veil."

"This is what I believe to be the tendency of the new woman movement."

In a certain little Scottish town, some time ago, they held a temperance meeting. During the proceeding an old man, who was not exactly celebrated for sobriety, got up to address the audience. He said, after a few remarks upon the beauty and advantages of moderation: "My friends, there's just two occasions when I tak' whisky."

Undismayed by the "hums" and "has" which ensued, he continued: "Ay, I just tak' whisky when I hae haggis for dinner, and I tak' whisky when I hae nae haggis."

The rest of the speech was lost in the storm of applause that broke forth.

A fashion writer says that recent costumes of the fair sex point toward the coming of the wicked and much dreaded hoops, inasmuch as the skirt is boldly and imprudently held out with no less than three wire braids! Dress-makers who have hearts in their bodies and brains in their heads, tell us that very much stiffened and wired skirts are no longer the thing; yet every now and then one of these cage-like structures will be foisted upon us.

It was the ghost of Worth that inspired this costume, which came from Paris but a few weeks ago, and is a street toilet in pale brown crepon and palm-leaf silk.

The naughty wire braids, aforementioned, are placed six inches apart in the bottom of the skirt, which is of 10 gores, and has the plainness at present so desired.

The latest fad is perforated cloth. By its use, any girl who desires to can put her "young man" to some use.

All the girl has to do is to take out her last year dress and parasol, look it over, and if she finds some holes in them she need not despair, as she is in the height of fashion.

Down town they sell stencil designs very cheap; she can place the design over her skirt and over her parasol and draw the pattern, and then she must have two sharp pointed scissors.

She hands him one pair of scissors while she takes the other, and thus in one evening they have prepared the skirt and the parasol, cut in the latest style, and the following morning she can buy the lining.

A young gentleman from Toronto, Canada, has been causing a great deal of excitement and comment among the people of San Francisco. The Canadian wore his hair rather long, had a remarkably handsome face, with a pink and white complexion, and rode a bicycle. All these things contributed to the trouble which occurred on a recent Sunday, when the young man, riding in the park, he wore tight on this occasion, and when he was seen the observers gathered the idea that he was a girl, and not a boy. Every one was scandalized, the affair got into the papers, and started anew the old discussion of what constitutes a modest bicycle costume for a woman. When the truth became known the people who had so much to say felt cheap, but it had one good effect, for the young man decided to have his hair cut.

Model 36 For Tourists. For Heavy-weight Riders.

THE Model 36 is an ideal touring machine, capable of carrying heavy luggage, and guaranteed to stand up under the most severe usage. The tourist may coast in perfect safety, for the hand brake is the most effective brake ever applied to a bicycle. To the class of conservative riders and men of heavy weight, this machine will particularly commend itself for the additional comfort and feeling of absolute safety which it ensures.

Built late in the season of 1894, and thoroughly up-to-date in equipment.

Model 36a Many riders prefer a large front wheel, for the added comfort and ease of steering it affords. For these we have made the Model 36 with 30-inch steering wheel, and call it Model 36a. Steel rims only.

We have only a few of these Special Touring Wheels, and prompt ordering is therefore advisable. They are Big Bicycle Bargains. Consult the Columbia Agent.

A GREAT PROBLEM.

NEWTON has a great problem before her in the question of new school buildings, and one that must be met in the next four years. The city has grown so rapidly that none of the older buildings are equal to the demands made upon them. Last week GRAPHIC readers saw the appeal made by the people of Newton Centre, where the school houses are overflowing, and more room must be provided at once.

The same thing might be said of Newton, where the Bigelow school and the Underwood school buildings are overcrowded, and never were intended to accommodate anything like the crowd of children that attend them. The Underwood has had a good deal of money spent upon it to provide means of ventilation, more or less of which has been money thrown away, and the Bigelow building is no credit to the city. It is simply an old wooden barracks, without most of the modern conveniences, and if the people of Newton center were not the most patient and long suffering in the city, they would have demanded a better building long ago.

Newton Highlands has a building which is a credit to the people of that section. West Newton is soon to have one large enough to meet the demands, and Newtonville succeeded in getting one for the Claffin school some years ago, although many say it was not large enough at the time and an addition will soon be a necessity. That ward will soon have another new building on the north side of the tracks, however, and all parts of the city seem to be looked after, save Newton and Newton Centre.

In addition to these demands, there is an imperative call for more room at the High school. The old portion of the building is poorly ventilated and inconvenient, and some pupils have had to be withdrawn on account of ill health, alleged to be due to the poor ventilation. When the wing was built, seven or eight years ago, it was intended to add another extension in a short time, but the years have gone by, the attendance has increased from some 400 to 600, and nothing has been done. The addition cannot be much longer delayed without the interests of the school suffering. Our teachers are of as high a grade as any schools can boast, but our buildings have long been a reproach to the community.

One reason for the lack of interest in the buildings, is that our school expenses have been so enormous that those in charge of the city's finances have felt that we must economize somewhere, and the only way to do it was to get along with what buildings we had, until the city's finances would allow of the additional expense. But the school population has grown so rapidly, and there is every indication that the rate of growth will be larger still in the next few years, so that now something must be done at once. Half a million in new school buildings would be money well invested, and a good part of that sum must be expended soon, or the city will be unable to accommodate its school children.

COMPLETE THE BOULEVARD.

The hearing on laying out the last section of the boulevard from Auburn street to the Charles river, called out quite a number of Auburndale people to the city council chamber, Monday evening. As this section is through a territory already more or less developed, it is not surprising that there were a number of remonstrances, and the only wonder is that there were not more of them. Several of the speakers evidently realized what a great benefit the boulevard would be to their section, and their objections were not as strenuous as they might otherwise have been. Of course many estates will be interfered with, more or less, but the land that remains will be much enhanced in value by having a wide and beautiful street, chiefly for pleasure driving, laid out through it, with a line of street cars running through the centre of it.

Auburdale is the most favored by nature of any of the Newton villages, but its natural advantages have not been improved to any great extent, and the conservatism of the residents has been an obstacle to improvements on any great scale. It has no main streets worthy of the name, and the chief highway to the river is a narrow and generally very dusty street, and its character gives the strangers who drive through it, a very unfavorable idea of the village, which has tended to interfere with its growth.

The more public spirited citizens of the place have long realized this, and have therefore been heartily in favor of the boulevard, which they believe will change all this, and by a proper lay out, will give a fine highway to the river, which is every year growing to be more and more a centre of attraction. It will bring a much to be desired boom to the north side, and lead to a better class of residences on the line of the boulevard, and make that side of the railroad as desirable as the other. The majority of the citizens are very anxious to have the work pushed forward as rapidly as possible, and disposed to help the boulevard along, rather than to place obstacles in its way.

Any one who has watched the great amount of travel over the sections of the boulevard that are already completed, can easily imagine what a popular thoroughfare the boulevard will be when once completed.

THE metropolitan water supply bill has been radically amended, owing to the efforts of Newton, Brookline, Cambridge and Waltham, and is freed from many objectionable features. Boston assumes two-thirds of the cost, leaving the other third to the other cities and towns. This one-third is assessed in a peculiar way, to protect the richer cities, one-third of it according to valuation and two-thirds according to population, and no assessment will be laid until 1900, provided the city or town has not applied for water from the system. The assessment is also figured on one-sixth of the actual population, and it is estimated that in 1900 Newton will have to pay $6,300. The bill is very elastic in its provisions, and applies to all the cities that may come in, and also to any others within a ten-mile radius of Boston. The question now is, why should Newton enter into the system at all? We have a water supply that will be adequate for the next twenty years, at least, and possibly longer, even if nothing is done to increase our supply. Before we should need any water from outside sources, we should have paid nearly a hundred thousand dollars in yearly assessments. Probably when we need any extra supply there would be no trouble in receiving it. If there is any sentiment against the bill as it affects Newton, our representatives could have Newton exempted from the provisions of the bill.

The Leather trust has caused an advance in hides, by which the price of shoes will be advanced 25 per cent, and the trust will pocket several millions, if the thing goes through all right, as all the seventy million people in the country will be affected. The leather trust controls about 80 per cent of the tanneries in the country, and the shoe manufacturers are dependent on the trust for their supply. The people have recently felt the exactions of the beef trust, and the Standard Oil Monopoly, and now another necessity of life is to be brought in line. People can go without meat as the beef trust found, but they cannot very well go without shoes in this climate.

REV. EDWARD EVERETT HALE had a very interesting article in a recent number of the Commonwealth, on what he called "the potato plan," which has succeeded, he says, "to the horror of the scientific philanthropist, and to the amazement and indignation of the political economists," whose fine spun theories are thus set at naught. The plan hardly comes within the scope of scientific methods of providing for the poor, perhaps because it is based primarily upon common sense.

SENATOR LODGE thinks our government was greatly at fault in that it did not pay the indemnity demanded of Nicaragua, and then seize a portion of that country, instead of allowing England to do it. Senator Lodge would make wild work of our foreign relations, if he was in authority, unless he is merely talking for the sake of keeping his name to the front. Some alleged statesmen have that kind of a habit, and they should not be taken too seriously.

At the Monday meeting of Congregationalist Ministers in Boston, Rev. Amos H. Coolidge of Worcester made the address, and commented on the modern woman's tendency towards clubs, and her being everywhere but at home. He caused some laughter by saying that the old song might be changed to "Where is my Wandering Ma to-night."

THE subway repeal bill is killed by a decisive majority and the work can now proceed. But what horrors this "demonstration" of the common brings on the sentimental Bostonian, who thinks that particular spot of ground so sacred that not an inch of it must be touched, above or beneath, for any purpose!

Mortgagee's Sale of Real Estate in Newton

Pursuant to a power of Sale contained in a certain mortgage deed given by Benjamin J. Greeley to Randolph Savings Bank, dated May nineteenth A. D. 1885, and recorded in the Registry of Deeds for the County of Middlesex (So. Dist.), Libro 1719, folio 63, will be sold at Public Auction for breach of the conditions of the said mortgage, on Saturday, the first day of June A. D. 1895, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, on the premises, two certain parcels of land with the buildings thereon, situate in that part of said Newton called Auburdale. The first parcel is bounded and described as follows, to wit: Beginning at the North-Easterly corner of the premises on the southerly side of Emerald street, by and now or formerly of Timothy H. Carter, and thence running South, eight and three fourths (8 3/4) feet East, by land of said Carter, forty-nine (49) feet and six (6) inches, more or less, to land formerly of C. C. Burr; thence southerly on land formerly of said Burr, one hundred twenty-two and fifteen one hundredths (122 15/100) feet, more or less; thence Northerly on land now or formerly of James H. Wright, one hundred (100) feet and eight (8) inches, more or less, to said Emerald street; thence Easterly on said Emerald street one hundred and ten (110) feet to the point of beginning. The second parcel, lot E, as shown on the plan of house lots in Auburdale belonging to C. C. Burr, surveyed by J. F. Fuller December 17, 1866, is bounded Southerly by lot numbered two as shown on said plan, one hundred and eight (108) feet; Easterly by lot marked F on said plan, ninety three (93) feet; North-westerly by the land first above described, one hundred twenty-two and fifteen one hundredths (122 15/100) feet, and Westerly by lot marked D on said plan, forty and one-tenth (40 1/10) feet.

Being all and the same premises described in said mortgage deed together with all benefit and equity of redemption of the said Benjamin J. Greeley, his heirs, executors, administrators and assigns therein.

Terms to be announced at the time and place of sale.

GOLDEN JUBILEE RECOGNIZED.

NEWTON CATHOLICS PAY THEIR TRIBUTE OF AFFECTION AND ESTEEM TO ARCHBISHOP WILLIAMS—INTERESTING EXERCISES BY THE CHILDREN IN THE PAROCHIAL SCHOOL HALL—FLOWERS, ADDRESSES AND MUSIC FEATURES OF THE OCCASION—PURSE PRESENTED TO THE DISTINGUISHED PRELATE.

His Grace Archbishop Williams was tendered a reception Wednesday afternoon by the pupils of the parochial school connected with the parish of the Church of Our Lady, of which Rev. Michael Dolan is pastor.

The affair was planned as a surprise to the distinguished prelate. He is the president, ex officio, of the Newton Parochial School Corporation. There was a meeting of that body Wednesday, and, as the archbishop was to attend, it was deemed a fitting time to recognize his golden jubilee, which is to be observed with appropriate ceremonies May 17. The reception, therefore, was utilized as an occasion of furnishing the members of the parish of the Church of Our Lady an opportunity to offer their tribute of affection and esteem.

The parochial schoolhouse hall, where the exercises were held, was completely filled. The audience was made up of the pupils, their parents, and friends and quite a large number of invited guests, the latter representing all shades of Christian belief. More than 1000 persons were present.

The platform, occupied by the children and the members of the committee in charge of the affair, was tastefully decorated with tropical plants, and adorned here and there with groups of tall palms, amid an environment of beautiful cut flowers.

On either side of his grace, who occupied the seat of honor in the center, were the following:

Rev. Bishop Brady, Fr. Fidelis, Fr. Robert and Fr. Hyacinth. Passionist missionaries; Rev. Fr. Begley of East Weymouth; Rev. Fr. Dolan and Gilfether, pastor and curate, respectively, of the Church of Our Lady; Dr. Thomas F. Carroll and Mr. S. J. Maskell of Newton.

The exercises were initiated by Miss A. Briston, who gave a fine rendering of the march, "Salut a Peste." Then followed the greeting song by the members of the school, and the reading of a poem composed by Rev. Michael Dolan. The sentiment was very beautiful. The vocal work is deserving of especial praise, the voices being of unusual good quality and blending harmoniously.

After the greeting song, the archbishop was presented with a purse of $200, Miss M. Connelly making the presentation address and Miss Blanche Maskell being delegated to convey this tribute of the children to his grace.

The next feature was that of a floral offering from the little children of the school, numbering 50 boys and girls. They filed upon the platform, each depositing a rose in gold and silver vases placed upon the table in front of the archbishop. Those presented by the boys were beautiful Jacks, and those of the girls were pure white in color. A large floral piece, placed in front of the table, was presented to his grace by Miss Mary Stuart, in behalf of the school.

A pianoforte trio by the Misses Maskell, Mullen and Belger preceded the principal address to the archbishop by Rev. Fr. Robert, superior of the Passionist fathers. He said:

Most Reverend ARCHBISHOP: Although not affiliated to your Diocese but laboring simply as a Passionist missionary among your people, yet am I happy in the privilege granted me of addressing you this festival day and mingling my tribute of praise and congratulation with that of the dear innocent children, the outpourings of whose little minds and hearts are but the faintest echoes of those older and more mature years.

As a representative member (though unworthy) of the body of Passionist Fathers throughout the land, I wish to congratulate your Grace this happy day of your golden jubilee as a Priest of God, and in the name of superiors and subjects wish you every blessing from on high, "ad multos annos," permutuque annos!

Although without permanent abode in your great Archdiocese, we are not strangers to your Grace. Long since have we learned to respect, to admire, to love you. In our missionary labors throughout your Diocese, labors that extend back to early days of your priesthood, we have ever found in you not only support and encouragement but the warmest and truest of friends, a kind and tender father. When called to labor for your people, we have always found a hearty welcome and a home in the abode of your priests, who reflect your kindly character. We have found a home beneath your own paternal roof.

Well do I remember from early days how our older Missionary Fathers spoke of John Joseph Williams, whose missionary zeal as a priest, whose firm yet gentle sway as a bishop and archbishop, "fortiter suavitque dissonans omnia" was held up to us as a model for all, whether priests, missionaries or superiors.

Well, therefore, may I take singular delight in congratulating your Grace this day of your Golden Jubilee. Fifty years of a stainless record as a priest of God, twenty-nine years as a faithful and model shepherd. Twenty years with the burdens and cares of an archbishop. Fifty years of untold sacrifices and untold merits. Oh forbear with us, your Grace, if we pour forth with seeming extravagance, the pent up feelings which your long, noble and beautiful life has generated within us, and this golden opportunity permits us make manifest.

May the good God bless the remaining years of your life (and may they be many) with every benediction from on high! May the bright light of that grand intellect never grow dim! May the strength of that noble will never diminish! May the burden of years rest gently on you!

May your beautiful model life continue to mould in the future as it has in the past the career of clergy and laity, and may forever in benediction be held, the name and the memory of John Joseph Williams, our model priest and beloved archbishop.

I am grateful, too, he added, for the words of commendation, if in my humble capacity there has been any record of accomplishment. As archbishop of this diocese, however, that which I can take pride in is such sights as the beautiful one presented by the members of this school, representing as it does a zeal for education and a regard and respect for God's laws. It is a great privilege for me to find a group of children, cared for by an earnest pastor, who gives every thought to your care and spiritual welfare. May God bless you all, my children, your teachers and your friends, and may He be your inspiring influence and example always.

At the conclusion of the remarks of the archbishop, the audience knelt and received his blessing. The clergy then filed from the platform and escorting his grace, left the school building and entered the parochial residence, where a dinner was served.

The event was one of most memorable and noteworthy in the annals of the Catholic denomination in Newton.

AID FOR NEBRASKA.

THE STARVING PEOPLE SEND OUT AN URGENT CRY FOR HELP.

Mr. C. C. Pond, secretary of the citizens Relief committee, of Erving, Neb., sends to the GRAPHIC an urgent appeal for aid and says that the following appeal represents the situation very "mildly."

SITUATION IN NEBRASKA.

The reports of no destitution in Nebraska are irresponsible. The legislature is unable to supply food and provision for our relief.

While the Chicago board of trade can not aid us, and hundreds are at the mercies of charity.

The cold and dreary winter of suffering has passed and the coming of spring has brought the helpless condition of the suffering people more sorely to light and not one farmer in ten has seed grain and feed, or money to buy it with.

Seeding time being at hand, their destitute condition bears forcibly on their minds, as they know that which is in store for them, should they not be able to sow and plant. Their condition is pitiable and only God knows their destiny, should the people of our sister states withhold a generous and helping hand.

The applications for provisions are too great for our supplies, and are rapidly increasing.

Despairing parents look upon their mite of flour, then the pinched and wan faces of their children, and lift their tear wet faces toward heaven in heart felt supplication for the welfare of their little ones.

As the season advances the changeable weather of spring, and the long continued use of food, with no vegetables, fruit, or meat, is causing an alarming amount of sickness, which needs fuel, medicine and proper nourishment. In their state of destitution little might they exclaim, "O God, why hast thou forsaken us!"

Our people are good, reliable, hard working husbandmen, who have toiled and fought hard against cruel fate. But have had to succumb to the ravages of ill fated providence. They shiver with dread as they look forward at their condition. And their restlessness denotes they are anxious to commence sowing, and wrest from mother earth a bountiful harvest. But where is the seed? A mocking question to them in their humiliating dependence.

Most surely could the kind and generous people at large realize our condition in Northern Nebraska they would freely contribute to our relief. Feed and provision must be provided or our last hope is gone.

Dark and cruel starvation stares many in the face and without the aid of a generous and helping hand will actually occur.

The more urgent calls from the sick brings many a heart ache, for we have not the money to properly provide for them. Who could look upon these scenes and proclaim no destitution in Nebraska!

Could you for a few moments, actually see their pitiable suffering it would fill your heart to overflow with sadness.

Kind people, who of you would be pleased to think that in future years your loved ones may be destitute and receive no aid.

Could the fortunate farmers of the East contribute a few bushels of grain each it would lift the dark cloud of utter despair from our now discouraged people.

The cold and bleak winter has gone, but the pangs of hunger are as sharp as then and our condition more dependent. Will you in your homes of plenty, be used in this noble work of relieving the poor suffering women and children? Contributions of the necessities of life are urgently needed. We appeal to all for their kind assistance in our time of need.

Shipments should be made direct to destitute points to avoid delays.

Send contributions of grain, provision and clothing and make billing read, "To Mr. Charles C. Pond, For Nebraska Drouth Sufferers, Erving, Neb., Nebraska." All money contributions should be sent to M. N. Vanzandt, President Bank of Erving, Erving, Nebraska. To whom it may concern.

I hereby notify under national seal, that the above gentlemen are thoroughly reliable and competent to distribute any contribution that may be entrusted to their charge by those extending the hand of charity to the needy.

Was what friends said, but

Hood's Perfectly Cured

Dreadful Case of Chronic Eczema.

Such a testimonial as we give below few medicines can produce. It is one of thousands possessed by Hood's Sarsaparilla, and proves the merit of this medicine.

Reliable, honest, industrious, is what all say of Mr. Bennett. He has been engaged as gas-fitter in Boston for 35 years, with Tarbell, 111 Washington street, and McKinney, Washington st., opp. Boylston.

"O. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.": "Gentlemen:—I am only doing what is just when I tell voluntarily what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for me. I know it."

Saved My Life.

"A year ago last winter, after exposure to storms, I caught a severe cold, after which chronic eczema appeared on the calf of my left leg and spread all over my lower limb from knee to ankle, and the itching and burning was something awful. Added to this was a severe pain, seemingly in the bone. At last it became so that I had to give up work and was unable to walk. I had to have my leg bandaged all the time and frequent changes of the cloths. For nine months I sat with my leg resting in a chair."

Oh, It Was Dreadful!

Friends said I could not live long. In all I had seven different physicians, all to no purpose whatever. I knew the merit of Hood's Sarsaparilla as I had, some years before, taken it with benefit, and decided to try it for my apparently hopeless case. In two or three days after I began my appetite was better and my courage revived. To make a long story short, the eruption entirely disappeared, and the flesh on my leg resumed perfectly healthy appearance. I was soon able to walk about. I cannot tell how amazed my neighbors and friends were. I can now walk without any lameness."

Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures

ness, as well as ever. Have not the slightest eruption or itching or burning, or any sort of trouble whatever with my leg. The gratitude I owe Hood's Sarsaparilla is simply unexpressed. THOS. BENNETT, 172 Sycamore St., Roslindale, Boston, Mass. Try HOOD'S.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

BOSTON THEATRE—The Sandow Trocadero company, headed by the peerless Sandow and an aggregation of vaudeville people, began a two weeks' engagement at the Boston theatre last Monday evening. Sandow, is, of course, the central figure in the company. His extraordinary physical development and marvelous feats of strength have made him one of the most conspicuous as well as one of the most discussed men of the day, both in Europe and this country. Eminent physicians have declared him to be the most perfect man physically that the world has ever known, as well as the strongest man in the world. He will present many remarkable feats, including lifting with one hand above his head a good-sized horse. Sandow's performance is a valuable incentive to physical culture and many persons who have pursued his method of training have sent him grateful letters for the encouraging example he has set forth. The organization includes the Lucifers, grotesques from the principal music halls of London; Tom Browne, the eminent dramatic whistler; musical Dale instrumentalists; Billy Van, for several years principal comedian with Primrose & West; Mlle. Marguerite, the beautiful and accomplished equilibrist; Miss Scottie, the clever calculator and card playing collied dog, exhibiting the highest animal intelligence ever attained; Ben Dunham (late of Mario & Dunham), the premier bat performer of the world; Amann, Europe's greatest facial mimic, giving life-like reproductions of world famous men; the marvellous Jordan family, astonishing aerial acrobats; Wood and Sheppard, in their musical specialty.

THE MUSIC HALL promenade concerts, it is expected, will begin on Saturday evening, May 11. The arrangements will be the same as in past seasons, and there can be no doubt that they will speedily resume their popularity. Unusual interest has been manifested to know who is to be the conductor for the orchestra the coming season. It is safe to assume that general approval will be accorded the judgment of the management in selecting for this position Sir A. De Novelli, whose high standing as a musician and wide experience in important musical enterprises eminently fit him for the place. Sir A. De Novelli came to America from Naples in 1856, under engagement to Max Strakosch, to conduct a series of performances of grand opera in Italian at Philadelphia during the Centennial. Although at present better known to the public as a conductor of light opera, Sir A. De Novelli's greatest successes were made during the eight years of his association with Strakosch in the production of grand opera in Italian and English, with a company including such famous singers as Parnheim, Marie Roze, Clara Louise

Kellogg, Annie Louise Cary, Brignoli, Tom Kiri and George Conly.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE—More than ordinary interest attaches to the engagement of Richard Golden in "Old Jed Prouty" at the Grand Opera House next week, as not only will the farewell performance of the popular star in the grand old New England play be witnessed, but the United Order of the Pilgrims Fathers will be heard during the week. This order and the play both being of distinct New England origin, there should be much interest in their association. The matinees, which are given on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, will afford favorable opportunities for the attendance of lady members of the colonies. The matinee performances will be identical with those given in the evening, and the greatest care will be given to the comfort of ladies and children.

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE—Alexander Salvini will open an engagement at the Hollis street Monday evening, after a notably long absence from Boston. During the week he will present "Hamlet" on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday evenings, and "The Three Guardsmen" on Thursday, Friday, Saturday evening and Saturday matinee. "The Outlaw" the first production of which in English will be given during the second week of Mr. Salvini's engagement is now in active preparation. The regular Wednesday matinees will be omitted.

BOOKS AND MAGAZINES.

THE ATLANTIC.
Conspicuous among the contents of the May Atlantic is Percival Lowell's first paper on Mars. Two papers of unusual historical interest are The Political Depravity of our Fathers, by John B. Moore, and The Three Guardsmen, by Washington, by Paul Leicester Ford. Two other papers which may be spoken of naturally together, are Tramps with an Enthusiast, by Olive Thorne Miller, and A week on Walden's Ridge, a Tennessee sketch, by Bradford Torrey. The second paper in the series, New England in Literature and Art, has for its subject Richard Harding Davis, and there is another paper on Autographs by George Birbeck Hill. Fiction is well represented by installments of the two serials, A Singular Life, by Elizabeth Stuart Phelps, and The Seats of the Mighty, by Gilbert Parker. There is also a short story by Edith Orme White, entitled A Faithful Failure. Among other contributions are A Standard Theatre, by T. R. Sullivan, Christmas Shopping at Assuan, by Agnes Reppier, an anonymous sketch, etc. The Contributors' Club and Book Reviews complete the issue.

Newton A. A. Wins Again.

The Newton Athletic Association team defeated the Nashua's in a most exciting contest in Nashua, N. H., last Saturday. Less than 100 spectators saw the game, which was played in a drizzling rain.

The visitors put up a remarkable game of ball, Hovey, who played second, doing the best work, accepting eight chances without an error.

The feature of the game was a triple play made in the second inning by the Nashua's. With two men on bases, Hovey hit a hot liner that looked like a safe hit. Stokes went up in the air for it, and to everyone's surprise captured it and tossed it to Downes at second, who in turn threw it to Birmingham at first in time to cut off the runner who had left that base.

Gilbert the first man at the bat, opened the game with a home run, and Hubbard the first man up for the visitors, duplicated his hit.

Roche led the Nashua's in batting, getting a single, double and home run.

The home team lost the game by bunching errors in the sixth inning, when the Newtons made five runs.

In the fifth inning, Morgan, who started in to pitch for Nashua, was replaced by Moore, and Fitz, the visitor's pitcher, was replaced by Woodcock.

Innings.....1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9
Newton A. A.....4 3 0 1 5 2 1 1-16
Nashua.....5 2 0 1 1 0 0 3-13
Base hits—Newton, 12; Nashua, 14. Errors—Nashua, 10; Newton, 20. Batteries—Nashua, Morgan, Moore and Lucia; Newton, Fitz, Woodcock and Cushing.

A Humorous Fact
About Hood's Sarsaparilla—it expels bad humor and creates good humor. A battle for blood is what Hood's Sarsaparilla vigorously fights, and it is always victorious in expelling foul taints and giving the vital fluid the quality and quantity of perfect health. It cures scrofula, salt rheum, boils and other blood disease.

DINNER TO SECT. BASSETT.

NEWTON MAN GIVEN A COMPLEMENTARY BANQUET BY L. A. W.

Mr. Abbott Bassett, of this city, secretary of the League of American Wheelmen, and friend not only of organized, but also unattached, wheelmen, was welcomed back to Boston last Friday evening by the Roxbury Bicycle Club, which tendered him a complimentary banquet at Hotel Thorndike.

Other guests of the club were Vice-President George A. Perkins of the national body, Chief Consul Sterling Elliott, Secretary Treasurer Charles S. Howard, Massachusetts division, L. A. W.; President Spencer G. Williams, A. C. C., President C. W. Fournier, Sect. A. J. Ochs of the Press Cycling club, George L. Sullivan, F. P. Sibley, A. K. Peck, W. C. Tarbell, and J. C. Kerrison.

It was a jolly party. The bill of fare was a most elaborate one. When cigars had been lighted, Toastmaster J. J. Feit opened proceedings by proposing a toast to the guest of the evening. Then President Alec Keltie, in a few well chosen words, welcomed back to Boston from the windy city of the West, the Channey Dope of American cycling, "Papa" Bassett.

When the avalanche of applause which greeted Mr. Bassett's name had subsided, and that gentleman was permitted to speak, he said: "Boston is the home, sweet home, for me, and, while there were pleasures and palaces in Chicago, it is a matter of great happiness to me to be at home again."

Mr. Bassett then referred to his connection with club life, saying that since the club he fathered had passed away he thought he ought to adopt the Roxbury Bicycle Club.

George A. Perkins told what he knew about Abbott Bassett and the league, and added his encomiums of Mr. Bassett to those that had been expressed. Chief Consul Sterling Elliott of Newton, related some very funny stories, and getting into a more serious vein, told of the multitudinous duties of the office of the secretary of the league, and believed that, rather than reduce his salary, it ought to be increased.

Spencer T. Williams, president of the Associated Cycling Club, Secretary-Treasurer Charles S. Howard of the Massachusetts division, President C. W. Fournier of the Press Cycling Club, Secretary A. J. Ochs of the Press Cycling Club, ex-President Leo Abraham of the Roxbury Bicycle Club, Capt. E. B. McKim and others added their words of praise.

The Linscott Road Race.

The entries for the Linscott annual road race have closed and among them are A. H. Barnett, winner of last year's Irvington-Milburn; C. H. Peck and Holmes of Chicago, Wiegner of Buffalo, Nat Butler, Pat O'Connor and William Hamilton of Syracuse. Hamilton holds the Western records for 25 miles.

This is the fourth annual race. The first one was over a 12 1/2 mile course, and was won by W. H. Pratt of Chelsea, of whom nothing has since been heard. The second year saw the course changed to Malden and the distance increased to 25 miles. This year the winner was French. A run-off was necessary to award the time prize, which went to Porter. Last year the race was won by Nat Butler, and twenty-one men finished in less than record time.

"A word to the wise is sufficient."

I suffered terribly from roaring in my head during an attack of catarrh, and because very deaf, used Ely's Cream Balm and in three weeks could hear as well as ever.—A. E. Newman, Grubbs, Mich.
One of my children had a very bad discharge from the nose. Physicians prescribed without benefit. After using Ely's Cream Balm a short time the discharge was cured.—O. A. Cary, Corning, N. Y.
Price of Cream Balm is fifty cents.

It Did The Business.

Mr. J. H. Cobb, publisher of the Mirror, at Bröcton, N. Y., says: "For nearly two years the Mirror has been published the advertisements of Chamberlain's Remedy. A few days ago the writer was suffering from a bowel trouble and resorted to an old remedy which did not prove efficacious; finally he tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and two doses did the business, checking it completely. For sale by Arthur Hutton, Newton; E. W. Keyes, Auburn; E. B. Buck, Newton Centre; E. F. Partridge, Newtonville; B. Billings, Newton Upper Falls; J. H. Green, Newton Highlands, Druggists.

[From the Gorton Connecticut Review.]
David Lewis, who has been afflicted all winter by rheumatism, is out again and all due to one of the medicines advertised in your columns. After trying everything possible, he used Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which has relieved him of all pain, from which he was a constant sufferer and promises to make him fit for duty soon. We know David has been a great sufferer and are glad to see him around again. For sale by Arthur Hutton, Newton; E. W. Keyes, Auburn; E. B. Buck, Newton Centre; E. F. Partridge, Newtonville; B. Billings, Newton Upper Falls; J. H. Green, Newton Highlands, Druggists.

SIX O'CLOCK.

WEARY WOMEN WATCH FOR THAT BLESSED HOUR.

Help for our Working-Girls and Women Near at Hand.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

N the stroke of six ends the day's work at stores, offices, factories, mills, where women are employed. But their necessary work at home, sewing, mending, etc., must be done after that time, and "their work is never done."

All women work, some for ambition, some for economy in the household, but the great mass of women work for their daily bread. All are subject to the same physical laws; all suffer alike from the same physical disturbances, and the nature of their duties often quickly drifts them into the horrors of all kinds of female complaints, ovarian troubles, inflammation, ulceration, falling and displacement of the womb, leucorrhoea, and perhaps irregular or suppressed "monthly periods," causing severe backache, loss of appetite, nervousness, irritability and weakness.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the unfailing cure for all these troubles. It strengthens the proper muscles, and cures displacement.

Backache, dizziness, fainting, bearing-down, disordered stomach, moodiness, dislike of friends and society—all symptoms of the one cause—will be quickly dispelled. Write Mrs. Pinkham about your trouble.

You can tell the story of your pain to a woman, and get the help that only woman can give. Mrs. Pinkham's address is Lynn, Mass.

—Mrs. Maxwell of Knowles street is entertaining friends from Brooklyn, N. Y.
—Fred Jones has returned from a three weeks' stay in Nova Scotia.
—A. H. Roffe has purchased a new horse from Valley Stanley, a good runner.
—Mr. H. T. Willis and family returned home last Saturday, after a short stay from town.

—John Lind has opened a shop with Mr. Sauer, the tailor, for repairing shoes and boots.
—Mr. H. H. Matthews is moving into the Gunnison house on Centre street, which he recently purchased.

—Henry T. Hesse is mourning the loss of 9 pet rabbits, killed by dogs Monday night.
—Mrs. O. L. George, formerly of Institution avenue, has taken the house recently occupied by Mrs. Lewis on Sumner street.

—Mr. Stephen Greene of Centre street left here Monday for the South, where he is to make quite an extended stay.
—Mr. Pulsifer of Beacon street has left here for his summer place on the South shore and his family join him there later.

—Barney Cunningham of Ward street, who has been laid up several weeks on account of an injury to his knee, is out and about again.
—The annual May festival at the Unitarian church this evening and tomorrow afternoon and evening. Music, theatricals, refreshments and dancing.

—Mr. and Mrs. Stutson of Dedham street, Oak Hill, entertained a company of their friends, Wednesday evening. It was an affair of a delightful, informal character.
—Mr. E. F. Gardner of the Gamewell Fire Alarm Company, an esteemed resident of this place for quite a number of years, has removed to Hackensack, N. J.

—Rev. George C. Lorimer D. D., pastor of Tremont Temple church, Boston, will preach at the Baptist church here, at 10:30, Sunday morning, May 5.
—A small cat owl on exhibition in W. E. Armstrong's store this week, is attracting considerable attention. It was captured by Daniel Hayes in the Waban woods several days ago.

—There are letters in the postoffice for Miss Mary Curry, Michael Davy, Miss Eva Williams, Mrs. McDonald, Grace Pierce, Sarah McKinnon, Mary Holmes, Mr. and Mrs. Percival Howe, Harry T. Richards and T. J. Sullivan.

—The service Sunday evening next in the Congregational church will be in charge of the Y. P. S. C. E. An interesting feature will be a lecture by Rev. M. C. Ayers of the editorial staff of the Boston Herald, on "Good Literature and Good Citizenship."
—Everybody admires that portion of the boulevard completed from the Boston line to Centre street. The work on the section from Centre street to Washington street, Auburndale, is being pushed rapidly forward and two more miles of the extension of Commonwealth avenue will be opened early in June.

—The wedding of Miss Mills of this place and Mr. Frank Quinn of Brookline occurred in the Church of the Holy Heart Tuesday morning, May 3, at 10 o'clock. The couple received the congratulations of numerous friends following the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Quinn will reside in Brookline.

—At the Unitarian church, Sunday, May 5, the service will be at 10:30; sermon will be "Heuring the Cross," Sunday at 12; evening lecture at 7, on "The future life." Tuesday, May 7, lecture on "Co-operation and Profit sharing." Open to all. Friday and Saturday, May 3 and 4, May festival with many interesting features.

—It is no longer Station street, the name having been changed to Langdon road. It was brought about through the good offices of the city council and those interested are of course, pleased. "Street" is no longer regarded as a bad name, and more up to date, at all events it has the call just now and seems to be entering upon a career of remarkable popularity.

—At the Methodist Episcopal church, next Sunday evening there will be a vesper service with a short address by the pastor, Rev. E. H. Hughes. The musical program will include:
Organ Prelude, "P. storale," Wely
Anthem, "Hear, O Lord," Watson
Supra, "O Solo," the student
Anthem, Hymn, "The Hoe and," Sullivan
Response, "Heart, be still," Warren Duet, "Love Divine," Stainer
Anthem, "Rejoice with joy," Organ Postlude, "Prelude and Fugue in E minor," Bach

—Mrs. Cora Stuart Wheeler gave a recital last Friday morning at the residence of Mrs. Charles Utley Thomas of Beacon street, Boston. It was most instructive and artistic. There was a large gathering of representative society, literary and musical people present, overlooking the spacious apartments. Mrs. Wheeler will read from her own writings for the Wednesday Morning Club at Mrs. Cole's, and will open a course of lectures May 2 here, to be given at Mrs. Charles Utley's Beacon street, Mrs. Ransom's, Homer street, and Mrs. Harry Mason's, Centre street, for the benefit of the Indian Industrial League library.

—The many friends of Mr. Chas. A. Clark, Cypress street, will be pained to learn of his loss by death of his father, Mr. W. H. Ashley of Fall River. The deceased had reached the ripe age of 78 years, being widely known throughout Bristol county and Rhode Island as one of the pioneer men of Fall River, possessing great integrity of purpose and of sterling character. He has occupied many prominent positions in legislative, mill corporations and banks, was a devoted Christian, loved and honored by all who knew him. For several years the trusteeship of a large estate has been his only business, but his interest in the affairs of his native city remained alive to the last. The estate of the deceased is left undivided of outside legacies to the widow and his two children, Mrs. Chas. A. Clark of this place, and Mr. M. A. Ashley of Fall River.

—There can be hardly a doubt relative to the securing of the four-room addition to the Rice school building. The appeal of residents here for more, and needed school accommodations was promptly heeded. Already, the temporary relief asked for has been provided and the excess of pupils in Miss Baker's class are now in comfortable and airy quarters in Bray's block. Mr. Mason, Mr. Smith and Mr. Ward appeared at the meeting of the city council Tuesday evening and were given a hearing on the school board's request for the provision of four new rooms at the Rice school to be in readiness at the opening of the term in September. The Improvement Society was also represented by a committee, comprising Messrs. F. E. Edmonds, Sanborn and Rice. All these gentlemen urged the importance of providing the additional rooms and the arguments were of a convincing character, so far as the necessity is concerned.

—The Newton A. A. base ball team would like to arrange a game away from home with some club paying a reasonable guarantee. Address A. B. Waters, box 203, Newton Centre.

—James Bowlen of Neponsett, while driving a wagon loaded with lumber up Crafts Hill, Beacon street, fell while getting on the wagon and a wheel passed over his leg, crushing it badly. He was taken to the Newton hospital.

—The marriage of Miss Alice Gardner of Worcester and Mr. J. Fred Hawley of this place will occur next Wednesday. Following the ceremony, the couple will depart on a short tour and upon their return will reside here on Pelham street.

—Next Sunday, May 5, the evening service at 7 p. m. at the Congregational church is in charge of the Y. P. S. C. E. and will be a lecture on "Good Literature and Good Citizenship" given by Rev. M. C. Ayers, editor of the Boston Daily Advertiser. All are cordially invited to attend.

—A delegation numbering some fifteen gentlemen from this place attended the ceremonies in connection with the instituting of a lodge of the ancient Essene order in Red Men's Hall, Boston, Tuesday evening. It is the second lodge of its character in the state, one having been established in Waltham when the order was first founded.

—The annual May festival under the auspices of the Unitarian society promises to be a most interesting affair. The opening exercises will be held today. The committee of ladies, under whose direction the success of the entertainment features seems assured, are Mrs. E. F. Melcher, president; Mrs. E. F. Young, vice-president; Miss Wilson, Miss Gunnison, Mrs. E. G. Kirtland, Mrs. F. Parks, Mrs. D. F. Young, Mrs. Lawrence, Mrs. Hutchinson, Miss Martin, Mrs. L. C. Melcher, Mrs. Warren, Miss Sands, Mrs. Widger, Mrs. Crawford, Mrs. W. W. Webster, Mrs. Chas. Everett, Mrs. Harry Mason, Mrs. George S. Rice, Mrs. Foster, Miss Day, Miss Loring, Mrs. O. D. Fellows, Mrs. Carswell, Mrs. Sanborn, Miss Baldwin, Miss Twombly, Mrs. F. Cooke, Mrs. Huse, Mrs. G. M. Rice, Mrs. Coker, Miss Worcester, Miss Crane, Mrs. Herbert Smith, Mrs. McWain, Mrs. James, Mrs. Edgerton and Mrs. Bodge.

—A very pleasant yellow wedding took place at Norwalk, Conn., on April 23, between Mr. George Earnest Merrill of this place and Miss Grace Gassins of Norwalk. The house was beautifully decorated with palms and smilax. The bride wore a simple but beautiful gown of white silk mull and carried a bouquet of white lilies of the valley. The bridegroom was preceded by the little nephew of the groom, D. D. Merrill, 3rd, after which came two nieces of the bride in yellow with daisies. The bridesmaids were Miss Louise Hoyt of Brooklyn, N. Y., becomingly dressed in white with white pinks. Mr. Harry J. Carlson of this place officiated as best man. The bride was given away by her father, Mr. J. C. Mortimer. They will be at home to their many friends at 756 Huntington avenue, Boston, after May 27.

—The funeral of Maj. George S. Worcester took place from the Unitarian church, 130 Monday afternoon. The services at the church were preceded by prayer at the house. The services were attended by many business men and by representatives of various military organizations of which the deceased was a member. The officiating clergyman was Rev. Mr. McDaniel of the Unitarian church, who was assisted by Rev. James H. Huxtable of South Boston. The pallbearers were Messrs. J. C. Smith, Charles Goodwin, Henry Mitchell, Charles Pierce, Albert White and H. H. Aline. The interment was in private, at the Forest Hills cemetery. Maj. Worcester was a volunteer in the 13th Mass. Regt. He later joined the heavy artillery. He distinguished himself in quite a number of engagements and was wounded at the battle of Antietam. He was a man of sterling character, highly esteemed by a large circle of friends. For many years he was connected with the Boston house of Jay, Langdon & Co.

—The West End Literary club of Newton Highlands has just celebrated its fifth annual gentlemen's night, at the home of Mrs. J. R. Smith, its vice-president. The house and tables were beautifully decorated with festoons of yellow, white nasturtiums and tulips of the same bright color were everywhere, and the significant numbers "30" and "35," done in the sweet genesta blossoms, occupied a conspicuous position. The guests were seated at small tables where they found small souvenirs in wood, bearing their names. Supper was served from a large table over which presided the president and vice-president. After supper the evening's entertainment. First the presentation to the club of a fine gavel which was received and acknowledged by the president in a very graceful manner, then followed vocal and instrumental music, recitations and the reading of an anniversary poem, written for the occasion, by Miss Emma E. Brown, who is an honorary member of the club. Charades and a pleasant social hour closed a very enjoyable evening.

REAL ESTATE NEWS.

J. F. C. Hyde & Son have sold a lot of land about 13,000 feet, on Washington street corner of Channing, owned by Mrs. F. E. Hamblin. The purchaser is Annie H. Maher, who will improve the property at once. The price paid was $7000. They have also sold four houses, a lot of land about 30,000 feet, corner of Adams street and Adams court, owned by the estate of Ellen Murphy, to a prominent Newton investor; the property is assessed for $9800.

Henry T. Willis has sold for E. A. Shaw and E. C. Dudley a desirable lot of land near Beacon street, Newton Centre, comprising about 11,000 square feet. The buyer, Herbert Patterson, has already started building a house on the property.

Edward F. Barnes has negotiated the sale and the papers have been passed transferring the estate of Martine E. H. and Mary Ellen Wood, situated on the southwest corner of Highland and Lanox streets, West Newton, comprising a dwelling house of 15 rooms with stable, and a lot of land containing 65,260 square feet. The buyer was Aaron D. Webber of Boston, for a sum very close to the asking price of $25,000.

to the clerical and lay members of the convention.

—Rev. George V. Morris and family have departed for their home in Batavia, Ohio.
—Colonel and Mr. Alexandre M. Ferris have gone to their summer home at Woods Holl.

—The Afternoon Whist Club did not meet this week on account of sickness of the member who was to have entertained.

—The Grand Army Post is to attend service in Grace church on the 20th, the Sunday evening before Decoration Day.

—The stone work of the Memorial Library, which is being erected for Grace church, is a rector's study, has about reached the second story. This addition to the parish house is very beautiful.

—Mrs. W. B. Huff is suffering with trouble with her eyes which has rendered them almost useless. It is thought, however, that her affliction is but a temporary
one and that she will soon fully recover her sight.

—Ascension Day comes this year on the 23d of May. It will be celebrated in Grace church by two services, one in the morning and the other at night. At the night service the choir will have the assistance of a full orchestra in rendering Mendelsohn's "Hymn of Praise."

—Grace church was filled last Sunday night. The occasion was the fifth anniversary of the choir. After the evening service the Cantata of Jauris' Daughter was rendered. Twelve persons were received into full membership with the choir.

—Music for Grace church Sunday night:
Processional, "Forward be our watchword." Stanford Magnificat, "I waited for the Lord." Mendelssohn
Anthem, "Hearken unto me O my people." Sullivan Recessional, "Hark, Hark My Soul." Sullivan
Seats free.

—Last Saturday afternoon quite a little excitement was occasioned on Centre street, by an unexpected turnout. A young man, who evidently had imbibed too much beer, of course obtained outside of Newton, and driving in an open wagon towards Mt. Ida. When near Church street he lost his equilibrium, tumbled out taking the seat with him, landed on the ground and lay there too drunk to get up for some little time. After awhile he picked himself up in a dazed condition, mounted his wagon and rode away.

—Early in the planning of the cup defender it was decided that the blocks must not weigh more than one ton, and at the same time the shafts and struts anywhere
from 10 to 25 tons because of the immense spread of canvas which it was designed that the boat should carry, and the consequent tremendous strain upon the blocks.
The contract was awarded to E. J. & F.
Coleman. All the blocks made by the Colemans will be tested at their shops up to 15 tons, but as they have no machine
for testing above that point, all the others will have to be sent to the United States arsenal at Watertown, for the test. The construction of the blocks has been under way about a week, and they will probably be delivered about June 15.

—What might have been a fatal accident occurred on Waverley avenue, Monday night. Two young men from Boston were coasting down the hill, and in front of Mr.
Geo. S. Bullen's house, one of them took a header and fell into the gutter. He was but a few feet from the gutter, and he fell and lay there for some time. He was picked up by the police and taken to the hospital. The young man who was standing by and Mr. Bullen's family came to his assistance, and he soon revived, and after a time was able to proceed on his way home.

also to delegate their powers to a building committee. The action of the conference gives the right, besides, to acquire more real estate to move the present parsonage
and to perform all further acts in furtherance of the church building project. The building committee selected comprises Messrs. E. W. Gay, J. W. Barber and Geo.
M. Weed. The new church will be completed, it is thought, this summer. Its cost will be about $30,000. The contract for building will not be let until $15,000 has been paid in. That will be soon, probably, for that amount $5,000 is already in the hands of the treasurer and $10,000 in subscriptions and it is expected that all the money required will be in hand July 1.

BOULEVARD RAILWAY HEARING.

IT OCCUPIES CONSIDERABLE OF THE TIME AT THE SESSION OF THE ALDERMEN MONDAY EVENING—NEWTON & BOSTON COMPANY STATES ITS POSITION RELATIVE TO POLE LOCATION ON COMMONWEALTH AVENUE THROUGH ITS ATTORNEY—ORDER PASSED AUTHORIZING A FOUR-ROOM ADDITION TO RICE SCHOOL BUILDING—ROUTINE BUSINESS.

The board of mayor and aldermen met in regular session in the City Hall, Monday evening.

The first session was a hearing given to the Newton & Boston Street Railway Company on its petition for a pole location on Commonwealth avenue, from Walnut to Washington street, to provide a means of running a feed wire to supply power to the Wellesley & Boston Street Railway Company.

Judge Blaney appeared in remonstrance. He represented the abutting land owners and the Commonwealth Avenue Street Railway Company, the latter a petitioner for locations for poles, wires and other necessary fixtures, on the same avenue for the purpose of operating an electric street railway line from the Boston line to the terminus of the boulevard.

As the representative of the land owners and street railway company, Judge Blaney said that he objected to a double line of poles. Those interested, he added, believe that it is unnecessary. They are of the opinion that an amicable arrangement can be made whereby the feed wire desired by the Newton & Boston Railroad Company can be run on the poles which the Commonwealth Avenue Railway Company desire for carrying the wires for the boulevard electric street railway line. The latter company is willing to attach the feed wires to its poles, providing the franchise is granted and it receives a reasonable compensation for the privilege. It certainly would have no objection to offer under such circumstances, for it may wish to obtain power from the same source.

It seems to me, said he in conclusion, that the petition for the poles for carrying the feed wire should not be acted upon until after a decision has been reached in the matter of the proposed boulevard street railway.

Mr. George H. Ellis also appeared to object to a double line of poles. He agreed with Judge Blaney that an arrangement could be easily made that would prevent its necessity.

Mr. Samuel L. Powers, representing the Newton & Boston Street Railway Company, said that the representatives of that and the Commonwealth Avenue Street Railway Company were not so far apart in their views regarding the matter of a double line of poles. The Wellesley & Boston Street Railway Company, he went on to say, has applied for a location from the Lower Falls to West Newton, to provide the connecting link with the electric street railway running from Natick to Wellesley. It desires to go forward with the work of construction in order to open the road for business by July 1. Of course, the important point is to carry a feed wire to supply the necessary power. The Wellesley & Boston management is therefore willing to go ahead and put up a single line of poles through the boulevard, the same to be transferred to the Commonwealth Avenue Company, if it receives the franchise asked for, subject to the carrying out of a mutually satisfactory arrangement.

If the new company constructs the poles, it was thought that they might not be in position in time to provide for the opening of the Wellesley & Boston line on the date named, as it would have a large amount of work to do in laying its tracks and completing the general construction of its road. The company which I represent is willing to leave the conditions relative to the use of the poles and the matter of terms, for whatever privileges accorded, to the board of mayor and aldermen or the street railway committee. Its position is simply this—it desires the matter so fixed that it will not be prevented in opening its line from Lower Falls to West Newton early in July.

Alderman Plummer—Mr. Powers, your company has exhausted every means to secure a location for its poles for the feed wire by route other than Commonwealth avenue has it not?

Mr. Powers—Yes sir. It has petitioned for a location for that purpose on other streets, but has met with a good deal of opposition from owners of land abutting proposed route.

Judge Blaney—I do not think, Mr. Powers, that the Newton & Boston Company need feel any uneasiness so far as any delay in putting up the poles is concerned. The Commonwealth Avenue Company can do that work, I feel sure, as promptly as any other company.

At this point, on motion of Alderman Green, the pole hearing was suspended in order to proceed with the hearing on the petition of the Commonwealth Avenue Company for an electric street railway location. No one appeared in remonstrance.

Judge Blaney appeared for the petitioners asking the privilege. He said that they were ready to proceed at once with the work of construction if the franchise was granted. The plan, he added, has been prepared and is, I understand, nearly acceptable to the city solicitor. Of course, some slight modifications may be necessary.

Alderman Plummer—How many incorporators are comprised in your company?

Judge Blaney—Sixteen, I believe.

Alderman Plummer—How much of the stock has been pledged?

Judge Blaney—The stock has not all been subscribed for yet. I don't understand, however, that that is necessary. We are assured positively that the money will be forthcoming if the location is secured.

Mayor Bothfield—If the location is granted, will your company proceed without delay to put up the poles so that the means of carrying the feed wire will be provided and in season for the opening of the line between Wellesley and Lower Falls, June 1?

Judge Blaney—Oh, yes! The erection of poles in one of the smallest provisions involved in the immediate construction of the proposed boulevard street railway line. We shall proceed with that work as fast as it is practicable.

Mr. Powers—If the location is granted to your company, would it be willing to agree to the condition that the poles be erected on or before July 15?

Judge Blaney—If the location is granted tonight, I should think that it would be possible to agree to that condition. Alderman Bullard asked the consent of the board to give Mr. John T. Prince the privilege of speaking upon the general subject of granting franchises to railway and other companies for street privileges. He said that Mr. Prince did not appear as the representative of any corporation, but merely wished to say a few words from the standpoint of a citizen.

The board voted to hear Mr. Prince.

Mr. Prince—It is my purpose to appear here tonight merely to ask if some policy can not be laid down so that the interests of citizens may be protected in the future where these valuable street privileges are asked for. It seems to me that in a few years our generosity in according rights in our highways will fill us with genuine surprise. These franchises should be either in the control of the municipal authorities or let out to companies in such a manner that the city would derive some remuneration therefrom. In Great Britain, one-third of the entire system of street railways is under the control of the municipal authorities. In Glasgow, one company paid the interest on the outlay, provided a sinking fund to care for the entire cost and paid a rental of $700 per mile. Besides this, fares were regulated and other interests of the public protected.

In Sheffield in 1895, a franchise was let out to a company for a term of 21 years. It paid the interest on the whole cost of ten miles of road and a rental of $500 for each mile. In Huddersfield, a place similar to Newton in population, it has been found that the amount was paid. The time and the conditions may not be ripe for that here, but it certainly behooves us to commence the inauguration of some plan that will be more in accord with our interests. It is not entirely a new thing. Chicago has tried the experiment with one of its suburban companies with a fair degree of success. All poles, I think, are objectionable, and companies should be required, in my judgment, to place their wires underground.

Mr. Prince's remarks caused quite a stir. Alderman Plummer inquired if his plan of percentage of profits for street privileges accorded could be carried out under the laws of this state?

Mr. Prince—I do not know how that may be. I suppose that the necessary legislation could be obtained, if it is impossible under existing conditions.

Alderman Plummer—Do you think a company desiring a location on the boulevard in this city, without prospect of any very profitable return for the investment, at least, for some years, could afford to put its wires underground?

Mr. Prince—I think it could.

Mr. Powers—Are you aware, Mr. Prince that one-half of the street railway companies in Massachusetts are not paying dividends?

Mr. Prince—If that is so, I cannot see any reason for their existence.

After some further questioning and replies to same, Mayor Bothfield ruled the discussion out of order. He permitted Judge Blaney, with consent of the board, to ask two questions bearing directly upon the subject of the hearing. The first was in relation to the proposition to locate the Commonwealth Avenue tracks in the center of the thoroughfare, providing carriage roads and walks for pedestrians on either side. Would that render the railroad a source of annoyance?

Mr. Prince, in reply, said that he did not appear to oppose the granting of the location of the Commonwealth Avenue Company, although he had stated that electric street cars were more of an annoyance, particularly on account of the danger, than the ordinary street vehicles.

The second question was: "Do you know of any mechanical contrivance by use of which overhead and feed wires for the operation of an electric street railway can be run underground?" To the latter interrogation, Mr. Prince's reply was to the effect that it might be possible to devise some plan by which it could be accomplished. In Berlin, he said, all the telephone and telegraph wires were run in underground conduits.

The hearing was closed. A hearing was given on the petition of the New England Telephone Company for locations of poles on Turner street, Mr. E. E. Stiles appeared in remonstrance and read a letter from a resident owning land abutting on that street who, also entered a protest. Messrs. Robinson and Bass objected to the proposed location. The former wanted to know what the poles were to be used for. No one on the street desired them for any purpose, so far as he could learn.

Mr. Aubrey, representing the telephone company said that the location was desired to reach the residence of ex-Alderman Rumery who wanted better telephone service.

Mr. Robinson—Mr. Rumery does not live on Turner street. Is it sufficient for the use of the telephone, (where the poles are not wanted), simply to furnish that accommodation to one having no property interests there?

Mayor Bothfield—Not unless the board should deem it wise. It is your province to convince its members that it would be detrimental to the interests of the Turner street residents.

The resignation of Jerry Saunders of the permanent force of the fire department was received and accepted.

A communication from G. W. Fowle relative to land taken by the city for sewer purposes was referred to the committee on claims.

A petition of residents for concrete sidewalks on Water street was referred to the highway committee. On the petition of Newton & Watertown Gas Light Company for permit to attach wires to 9 poles of the New England Telephone Company on Fountain street, a hearing was ordered for Monday evening, May 20, at 7:50 o'clock.

Alderman Bullard presented a remonstrance of citizens of Highland street, who objected to the tall electric light poles recently placed there. They claimed that besides disfiguring the street, they were injurious to abutting property. They also protested on account of the manner in which the ordinances regulating poles and wires were drawn. They urged that amendments or changes should be made so that large poles could not hereafter be substituted for smaller ones without first, at least, giving residents interested an opportunity for a hearing. The remonstrance was signed by W. E. Sheldon and all the property owners on Highland street except three. It was received and placed on file.

Petitions for one street light on Lexington road and two on Berwick road were referred to the street light committee. A petition for a cross-walk on Walnut, nearly opposite Dudley street, was referred to the highway committee.

Mrs. Fendergast was granted permit to move a building from Chestnut street to a lot on Curve street.

The New England Telephone Company requested permit to use cressote

wood for conduits for underground wires. Mr. Aubrey, representing the telephone company, said that the material had been used exclusively in Brooklyn, N. Y. Its use had been approved, nearer home, by the selectmen of Brookline. It was used also in Lynn and thousands of feet had been laid in Boston (proper). Its life was from 25 to 30 years.

Mayor Bothfield—Is it because it is less expensive that the company desires to use it?

Mr. Aubrey—Not on that account alone. It has been found a very safe material to use.

On motion of Alderman Tolman, the request of the telephone company was referred to the street light committee, that body to report, if possible, at the next meeting.

These petitions were acted upon: Alice C. Kerrigan, for inn-holder's license, referred to committee on licenses; Evert P. Foster, for grave yard and Webster street, referred to highway committee; E. Everett Bird, et al., for widening and improvement of highway at junction of Bowdoin street and Hillside road; referred to highway committee; L. A. Vachon, for licenses for pool and billiard tables in White's block, referred to committee on licenses.

These orders were adopted: Authorizing the public property committee to proceed with the construction of a four-room addition to the Rice school building, cost not to exceed $11,000, and providing for the issue and disposal of a ten-year lease, note to be made for the cost of same; authorizing same committee to advertise for bids for the construction of the four-room addition to the Rice building; appropriating $1345 for laying water mains in Cottage Forest, Watertown streets and Mague Court; authorizing the location of street lights in several streets, including one arc on Valentine, one arc on Park street and six street lights on Oxford road. At 9 o'clock, it was voted to take a recess.

Following the recess which lasted until 10 o'clock, the board assembled, passed a batch of sewer orders and adjourned to next Monday evening. The time during the recess was occupied chiefly in presenting details to committees of the plans formed for the boulevard electric railway line. The location was not granted, however, as there were objections to be arranged requiring further time.

BOWLING AND WHIST PRIZES.

NEWTON CLUB MEMBERS WHO WON IN THE VARIOUS COMPETITIONS THIS WINTER PRESENTED WITH SOME APPROPRIATE AND USEFUL SOUVENIRS.

The final in the series of Saturday evening entertainments at the Newton Club was of unusual interest, for it witnessed the presentation of the prizes in the bowling and whist competitions, which have furnished such pleasant forms of diversion this winter.

At 8 o'clock nearly 300 club members gathered in the assembly hall, and after a concert by a band, mandolin and guitar club, President Samuel Leland Powers made a brief speech preparatory to awarding the trophies. It was a felicitous address containing many witty allusions which "captured" the company, made up of Newton's representative business and professional men.

The prize winners were: Club team bowling tournament—First, silk umbrellas, J. B. Fuller, N. P. Carter, L. H. Bailey, C. A. Cunningham, J. N. Keller; second, gold cuff buttons, A. A. Savage, L. J. Calley, G. W. Shapley, W. A. Hunt, S. L. Powers; third, scarf pins, Joseph Byers, F. M. Copeland, Robert Bennett, C. H. Buswell, C. F. Haskell; fourth, silver mounted cases, J. P. Gray, S. J. Elder, E. L. Clark, E. S. Merchant, J. A. Fenno.

Individual handicap bowling competition—First, a cut glass punch bowl and 12 goblets, E. H. Saxton; second, opera glasses, J. P. Gray; third, opera glasses, C. R. English; fourth, opera glasses, C. F. Haskell; fifth, H. C. Hunt; sixth, cigar box, A. A. Savage; seventh, W. A. Hunt; eighth, A. T. Cooke; ninth, E. S. Phippen; tenth, F. W. Gray; 11th, gold scarf pin, L. J. Calley; 12th, Joseph Byers; 13th, C. E. Richardson.

Fair bowling match—First, Follett and Hawk; silver bat brushes, Gordon, Gray and Whittemore, silver pen knives; other prizes were awarded to Dearborn and Harding, Kinsley and Cunningham, Calley and Schofield, and Raymond and Carter.

Whist tourney—First, F. M. Copeland and A. H. Terrell, opera glasses and a cut glass berry dish; second, C. W. Conway and W. E. Hickox, silver olive fork and spoon, and silver and gilt cologne bottle.

The prize won by the Newton club bowling team in the tri-league competition, a silver water pitcher, was presented to the club on behalf of the team by Mr. W. J. J. J.

After the award of prizes the company adjourned to the cafe, where a lunch was served.

As the strength of a building depends upon the solidity of its foundation, so health depends upon the condition of the blood. To expel impurities and cause the vital fluid to become vigorous and life-giving, Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the most powerful and effective medicine in use.

NEWTON WINS FIRST PLACE.

INTER-SCHOOL TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIP
BANNER A SURE THING.

The Harvard interscholastic tennis tournament went off very successfully Saturday on Jarvis and Holmes fields in Cambridge. All matches up to the semi-finals were played. The semi-final round was played at 10 a. m. and the final at 3 p. m., Monday.

There were no less than 75 entries, which is the largest entry list ever seen in a tennis tournament on this side of the water. In spite of this great, unwieldy mob, however, Mr. A. Codman of Harvard, '94, who managed the affair, ran off the matches in quick order, as he was enabled to do on account of the large number of courts available. Promptly at 9 o'clock, the first and preliminary rounds began. The final match was finished before 5 o'clock.

The warmest match of the day came strangely enough in the preliminary round. Leo Ware of Roxbury Latin, last year's winner, played R. Henderson of Boston English high school. Though Ware won in two straight sets, with a score of 6-2, 6-0, the individual games were hotly contested.

In the afternoon, Champion Ware played three matches. The first was against Edwards of B. E. H. Edwards is a strong player, and in the second set made Ware do some hard work. He returned Ware's hardest drives, and would have made a better showing had he been more accurate in his placing. Ware showed the same coolness which so helped him in his morning matches.

Ware served a hard ball, and his placing was admirable. He checked the semi-finals by beating Seaver of Brookline, 6-0, 6-0.

W. S. Fitz of this city, whose fine work brought him into the semi-finals last May, met Holt of R. L. S. and was beaten after one of the hardest matches of the tournament. Fitz has improved since last year.

In the fourth round he played a hard match with Lee of his own school. They were very evenly matched, and as they have played together in practice, each fully understood the other's game. Fitz won on his hard smashes from the back line and on his steady service.

Among the other matches Saturday, there were several which merit mention. Garrison of Newton and Finch of Belmont had a hard fight in the second round. Garrison kept Finch in the back of the court, and hammered the balls all around him, but Finch was too quick for him, and returned the hardest balls with apparent ease. In the second set both men played an easy game until the game stood 5-2 in Garrison's favor. Then Finch braced up, and brought the score to "games all." Garrison, however, won the next game and set by securing two service aces.

The Stevens-Lally match in the third round was also hotly contested.

In the preliminaries, A. W. Hollis, N. H., beat C. Shaw, B., 6-0, 6-2.

A. C. Whittemore, N. H., beat W. M. A. Warnock, C. L., 6-2, 6-4; S. P. Shaw, Jr., M. A., beat E. O. Childs, N. H., 6-1, 6-3.

In the first round, J. H. Lee, N. H., beat E. T. Gross, P. E. and C., 6-1, 6-4; W. S. Fitz, N. H., beat A. B. Howe, R. E., 6-4, 6-5; S. C. Walworth, N. H., beat W. F. Wyeth, C. L., 6-1, 6-3; R. A. Garrison, N. A., beat H. C. Whitfield, M. A., 5-6, 6-5, 6-3; L. E. Ware, R. L., beat A. W. Hollis, N. H., 6-2, 6-3; A. C. Whittemore, N. H., beat S. P. Shaw, Jr., M. A., 6-3, 6-5; H. D. Montgomery, E. H., beat T. N. Nickerson, N. H., 6-1, 6-2.

The summary of the second, third and fourth rounds is appended:

SECOND ROUND.

J. H. Lee, N. H., beat L. George, R. L., 6-2, 6-3.
P. L. Brown, H., beat C. S. Brigham, P. E. and C., 6-1, 6-4.
W. S. Fitz, N. H., beat C. D. Johnson, Jr., N. H., 6-3, 6-2.
H. Ewer, R. L., beat F. B. Taylor, B. H., 6-3, 6-2.
C. M. Rotch, H., beat E. N. Manning, B. H., 4-6, 6-3, 6-2.
C. Robbins, H., beat S. C. Walworth, N. H., 6-5, 2-6, 6-2.
R. A. Garrison, N. H., beat W. V. S. Finch, B., 3-6, 6-5, 6-5.
M. D. Whitman, H., beat W. L. Holt, C. L., 6-0, 6-0.
E. W. Stevens, C. L., beat A. V. Lally, E. H., 1-6, 6-5, 6-3.
L. E. Ware, R. L., beat A. M. Edwards, E. H., 6-2, 6-4.
R. C. Seaver, B. H., beat D. W. Badger, W. H., 6-3, 6-2.
H. D. Montgomery, E. H., beat W. Edmunds, B. L., 6-3, 3-6, 6-4.
H. Fitzgerald, R. L., beat N. W. Tilton, C. L., 6-1, 3-6, 6-4.
C. C. Butters, C. H., beat H. George, R. L., 6-1, 6-3.
C. P. Adams, C. L., beat W. S. Kendall, C. L., 6-5, 6-0.
M. Bartlett, N. and G., beat A. C. Whittemore, N. H., 6-5, 6-3.

THIRD ROUND.

J. H. Lee, N. H., beat P. L. Brown, H., 6-1, 6-0.
W. S. Fitz, N. H., beat H. Ewer, R. L., 6-1, 6-4.
C. Robbins, H., beat C. M. Rotch, H., 6-1, 6-2.
M. D. Whitman, H., beat R. A. Garrison, N. H., 6-0, 6-0.
L. E. Ware, R. L., beat M. Bartlett, N. and G., 6-0, 6-3.
R. C. Seaver, B. H., beat H. D. Montgomery, E. H., 6-2, 6-0.
C. C. Butters, C. H., beat H. Fitzgerald, R. L., 4-6, 6-3, 6-1.
E. W. Stevens, C. L., beat C. P. Adams, C. L., 6-5, 6-0.

FOURTH ROUND.

W. S. Fitz, N. H., beat J. H. Lee, N. H., 6-1, 6-3.
M. D. Whitman, H., beat C. Robbins, H., 6-0, 6-0.
L. E. Ware, R. L., beat R. C. Seaver, B. H., 6-0, 6-0.
C. C. Butters, C. H., beat E. W. Stevens, C. L., 6-5, 6-0.

The match between Whitman and Fitz Monday morning, caused considerable enthusiasm. The latter put up a clever game. He made some hard earned points by brilliant smashing and good placing, but was extremely unfortunate in landing into the net at critical times. All the games were closely contested, and several of them were long drawn-out deuce game. Whitman gained most of his points by good placing and sharp cross-court drives. The first set went to Whitman, 6-2.

Fitz improved wonderfully in the second set, and it was a very even thing all the way through. Fitz had the score 5-3 in his favor, and apparently had the set well in hand, when Whitman, by his careful, steady playing, took advantage of Fitz's wild drives, and the next three games went to Whitman, giving him the set and match.

Newton High won the championship banner. The standing of the school is as follows: Newton high, 14; Hopkinson, 12; Roxbury Latin, 13; Cambridge Latin, 9; English high, 5; Brookline high, 4; Concord high, 3; Noble and Greenough, 3; Providence English and classical, 2; Milton academy, 2; Boston Latin, 2; Worcester high, 1; Malden high, 1; Belmont 1.

The other prizes are: For the winner, a large solid silver cup; for the runner-up, a Sears special tennis racket; and for the school scoring the most points, a large satin banner.

Abbreviations—R. L., Roxbury Latin; B. L., Boston Latin; E. H., English high; B. H., Brookline high; B., Belmont; M. A., Milton Academy; M. H., Malden high; N. H., Newton high; C. HIS GOLDEN JUBILEE.
REV. FR. DOLAN'S TRIBUTE TO ARCHBISHOP WILLIAMS—POEM READ AT RECEPTION TENDERED HIS GRACE BY CHILDREN OF NEWTON PAROCHIAL SCHOOL.

Now that all nature seems praising your Grace,
And the birds and the flowers of May,
We children would like with the rest to keep pace,
But we know not what's proper to say.

The old folks still speak of a priest whom long since,
They cherished and trusted so fondly of yore,
Who in stature, in mould and in gate was a prince,
Before either mitre or pallium he wore.

In bronze or on canvas, the best of the artists
Cannot reproduce him, they're sure,
That so far to their minds, the attempt of the smartest
Is only an innocent caricature.

His rule, as a bishop, was scarcely perceived
And yet, there was never a doubt that he ruled,
His judgment was seldom called up or deceived,
For it was known that he could not be fooled.

If he tried to be great, they had never been told,
But his mind and his will seemed to work,
Everywhere,
With a hundred hands, like the hero of old,
Each city and village attests he was there.

Churches and schools springing up by the score,
As if by some magic, they cannot tell how,
Priests, laics, religious launch out from the shore,
For the pilot's awake that's in charge of them now.

Fifty years of such life is not easy to find,
And who would live them all over once more,
To rule with that justice, so firm and so kind,
That made us so much that we were not aware.

And if this cannot be the reward of our song,
We ask God, in His goodness, to leave us your Grace,
Until He finds one, and we know 'twill be long,
Who is equal, in all things, to filling your place.

It Did The Business.
Mr. J. H. Cobb, publisher of the Mirror, at Boston, N. Y., says: "For nearly two years the Mirror has been published the advertisements of Chamberlain's Remedy. A few days ago the writer was suffering from a bowel trouble and resorted to an old remedy which did not prove efficacious; finally he tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and two doses did the business, checking it completely. School Foot Ball Leagues.
A meeting of the schools represented in the senior and junior foot ball leagues was held at the Boston Athletic Association last Saturday, the following being represented: Cambridge Manual Training, Boston English High, Boston Latin, Hopkinson, Cambridge High and Latin, Newton High, Dedham High, Roxbury High, Somerville High and Brookline High, and a constitution was adopted governing both leagues. The name of the organization will be Interscholastic Foot Ball Association; all schools in Boston and vicinity are eligible to membership; the president of the association must be the captain of the team winning first place in the senior league, and the vice-president, the captain of the champion team of the junior league, the executive committee to consist of the captain of the Harvard foot ball team, three undergraduates of the schools in the league with the president ex-officio and two graduates of Harvard.

The total number of teams in the senior league is limited to six. The latest that any game can be played is the Saturday after Thanksgiving.

Before the series begins, each school must hand in its list of players for the year, and every player must at least have 12 hours a week at school and not be over 21 years of age. Each scholar in the senior league will have two votes, and those in the junior league one. No officials in a championship game shall be a member or a graduate of either of the competing schools.

Capt. Burnett of the Cambridge Manual training school was elected president, and Cook of Brookline high school, vice-president.

Rheumatism is caused by lactic acid in the blood attacking the fibrous tissues of the joints. Keep your blood pure and healthy and you will not have rheumatism. REAL ESTATE NEWS.

Edward F. Barnes, agent and attorney for Christine Nilsson, Countess De Casa Miranda of Paris, in the republic of France, has sold for her account at Cambridge the property known as "Felton hall" comprising a student's dormitory of 36 suites of rooms, with 24,000 square feet of land, situated on the corner of Cambridge and Trowbridge streets. The property is assessed for $42,000, and was sold for cash to a resident of Cambridge, who buys for investment, at practically its assessed value. The deal is considered one of the largest that has taken place in Cambridge for a long time. The situation of the property is excellent, a fine view of the city and surrounding country being had.

Charles Howard Smith has sold for Margaret F. Morgan a very desirable lot of land on Nantasket beach, on the corner of Beach avenue and H street, near the Bay Side station. The lot contains 7273 square feet. The purchaser was Winfield S. Richards of Newton Highlands.

One of the largest land sales north of Boston for a long time has just been consummated by Arthur H. Taber. The property sold was owned by the Newton Land and Improvement company, and comprises a tract of about 400,000 square feet.

The estate is excellently situated being on a high hill, and north of the Newton boulevard and west of the Bulfinch ponds. The property corners on Walnut, Morse and Hull streets, and Grove Hill avenue, Newtonville, and was purchased by John Pettit of New York.

The total assessed value of the property is about $60,000, or about 15 cents per square foot. The price paid was considerably in excess of this figure. It is Mr. Pettit's intention to cut the land up into house lots, erect a number of houses thereon to cost about $5000 to $8000 each above the land.

The sale of this property to an out-of-town party like Mr. Pettit is proof conclusive that there is a large demand for fine investment property in and around Boston, and unless certain plans on foot fall through, a large amount of building can be expected in Newton this summer.

Frederick W. Foster & Co. have sold for Cruickshank & Murray of this city, a new nine-room house and stable and a lot containing about 5000 square feet of land to Dr. Clarke G. Milhany of Waltham. The purchase price was $5000.

George A. Ward has sold to Mrs. Marie S. C. Robinson of Chelsea, Mass., for G. K. and John Ward, 9410 square feet of land, corner Ward street and Ballard street, Newton Center. The purchaser will erect at once a house costing $4500 for her own occupancy.

George A. Ward has sold for Adams Clinch, a lot of land on Grant avenue to George K. and J. Ward.

Land on West Newton Hill continues active, and several good lots have been sold recently. One is the fine lot on the turn in Mt. Vernon street, a short distance east of Hillside avenue, containing 35,414 square feet. It was purchased by F. F. Raymond, who will build a fine house for himself this season. The house and 15,000 square feet in the rear of this land, facing Butler street, and belonging to Nellie B. Rund, has also been sold.

The northwesterly corner of Stirling and Hill streets, formerly owned by Herbert E. Barrage, has been purchased by Mrs. Eliza B. Hinckley. There are 33,274 square feet altogether on this parcel, and Mrs. Hinckley buys about 23,000 feet. She will divide this into two lots and build two houses, one facing each street.

Another prominent corner has been sold, but a report is withheld for the present.

One of the largest land deals in Newton Highlands for a long time has just been closed. The property sold is situated in one of the best parts of the city, and commands a fine view of the surrounding country. The total area of the land sold is about 100,000 square feet.

Mrs. Charles H. Hale was the owner, and the buyer was Luther Paul. The price paid was considerably in excess of the total taxed value. The deal was negotiated by Eliot J. Hyde of Hyde's real estate agency.

Mr. Hyde has also sold for the estate of George F. Higgins a tract of about 60,000 square feet, situated at Newton Highlands, together with a new house, to Arthur S. Cummings, et al., who purchase for an investment, on private terms.

The estate owned by Mrs. E. C. Denison, situated on Adams street, Weymouth, Melrose, has been sold through Mr. Hyde to Annie A. Higgins of Newton. It is a new house and a lot of land containing about 8000 square feet. The terms were private.

Have you ever noticed how your system seems to crave special assistance in the spring? Just what help required is given by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Newton Horse Shoeing Shop

DELANEY, LELAND & HEWITT,

Successors to

P. A. MURRAY,

Washington Street,

NEXT TO

Murray's Carriage Manufactory

Having purchased the horse shoeing branch of the business formerly conducted by Mr. P. A. Murray, we desire to state that we have worked at his stand several years and established a first-class reputation and we therefore feel assured of a continuation of your patronage. The shop in which we will continue the business is fitted up exclusively for horse shoeing and we can guarantee to give better satisfaction than ever. Special attention will be given to over reaching, interlocking and tender footed horses, and also gentlemen owning trotting horses, can have them shod in any of the various styles of weighted shoes desirable for track work.

A BAD SYSTEM.

The manner in which streets have been laid out in Newton has given rise to a good deal of adverse comment, and there does not seem to be any signs of improvement. The system followed is for every one who has land to develop, to lay out a street as narrow as the city government will accept, with an abrupt end, at the limit of the estate, and without any regard for the public welfare or convenience.

The result is that the city is getting to be filled with blind courts and alleyways
leading nowhere, and such a short sighted policy can not fail to injure, in the long run, the land owners who follow it.

When it was proposed to have a board of public works, and to give them the power held by the Boston Board of Survey, there was a perfect storm of opposition from holders of undeveloped real estate, and the result was that this part of the plan had to be stricken out. Yet such a provision would have been the very best thing possible for the city in general and for the land owners in particular. Land on a well-planned street will always be worth more than land on a blind alley-way. The new boulevard shows what can be done, when there is an enlightened co-operation and sympathy between the holders of vacant land, and all interested have been benefited many times over, compared with what would have been the result, had the usual narrow and short-sighted policy been followed. It should serve as a useful object lesson to those who have land to develop.

Another lesson is furnished by Washington street. It always was a highway between Boston and the towns above, yet those who laid it out seemingly be-grudged every foot of land given for that purpose, when land was only worth a few dollars an acre, and the result is that the city will have to spend towards a half million of dollars to correct the penny-wise and pound foolish policy of former generations. Beacon street furnishes another illustration of a main thoroughfare which would be narrow even for a country road, and which even now might be widened for a great part of its length at small expense, had we some authority in the city with authority to lay it out, and establish the lines, even if nothing more was done for years.

Strangers driving through Newton complain of the great number of streets that go nowhere. They turn down what looks like an inviting street and in a few minutes find themselves at the end of the street, and have to turn about and try some other road. Another complaint is of the difficulty experienced in getting from one section to another, perhaps not more than a stone's throw apart, and yet the unfortunate traveller may have to go a mile or so around, simply because the streets are not laid out with any idea of accommodating the public, but simply with the idea of getting the greatest number of lots into the market. It is going to cost a great deal of money some day to remedy all these defects, and even then Newton will never be as attractive as it might have been had a liberal and intelligent policy of laying out streets been adopted in the first place. Perhaps one way to bring about a reform, would be for the city to refuse to accept any street which has a "dead end," as such streets are really more in the nature of private than of public property.

SECRETARY MORTON'S controversy
with Mr. Armour is a very spicy one.
The head of the beef combination has been posing as a great philanthropist,
who is running his business at a loss,
merely from his great interest in the dear public. Secretary Morton punctured this claim and Mr. Armour complained that he was exciting public prejudice against him, and offered to show his books to the secretary to prove his complete innocence of any complicity in the plot to extort high prices for beef. Secretary Morton very aptly replied that Mr. Armour had better show his books to the newspapers which had been lately printing Mr. Armour's interviews. He added that the department and all of its officials were anxious he should make a fair profit from his business as a slaugh-
terer, but they did not believe in a millionaire making unfair and extortionate profits at the double expense of the men who raise and the men who consumed it.
So far Mr. Armour has not replied. It is fortunate that we have such a courageous man as Mr. Morton at the head of the department of agriculture, a man who is not afraid to expose any schemes for the plundering of the people for the profit of a few very wealthy men.

THE warm weather of the past week
has brought the spring foliage out with a rush, and all nature seems in a great hurry to make up for lost time and swell
that average that the weather prophets have been talking about. It is almost possible to see the leaves grow from hour
to hour, and the cherry trees burst almost without notice into full bloom. We have had days that would have been considered hot in midsummer, and thick
clothing of any kind has been a burden.
Our springs have a habit of loitering along for weeks, and then turning about and hurrying up vegetation so fast that man has hard work to keep up with their growth. A week of such weather would make of this an early spring.
Newton is looking its finest now, with its green lawns, its myriad trees, all bursting into leaf and flower, filling the air with fragrance. The poet's perfect days have come in May this year, and the nights with the moonlight and warm air,
have filled the streets with cycling and driving parties.

THERE were no remonstrances to the petition of the Commonwealth Avenue street railway company for a location on the new boulevard, and all will wish the company success in starting its cars.
They might not meet with much patronage at first, but the way the lots are selling down the boulevard it will not be long before the cars will find a paying patronage. In this connection, it might be said that it is a great pity the boulevard could not be directly connected with the reservoir drive. An extension of only two hundred feet or so would do it, and save the long detour that has to be made now, by parties driving to and from Boston. The extension would be through Boston territory, so probably nothing can be done at present, but it would be of great benefit to the boulevard, and to all who drive over it.

WATERTOWN expects to have a piece of good road within its borders, as the state road commissioners will visit the town next Monday, to look over Main street, from the town library building to the Waltham line, with the idea of giving the town an object lesson in the building of a good road bed. The street in question certainly needs attention, as all who have ridden over it can testify, but the Watertown selectmen could find all about good roads by coming to Newton,
and looking over some of our streets.
Still it is a good deal cheaper to have the state build the road, and Watertown's shrewdness is to be commended.

THE McKinley campaign for the presidency has opened early, and is seeking all sorts of alliances, but Mr. McKinley's record on the silver question is going to be the greatest obstacle he and his friends will have to overcome. Congressman Reed will have a great advantage
in this respect, as he comes from a sound
money section, and has a better record.
Mr. McKinley's early appearance will be apt to result in all the other candidates combining against him, as that has been the usual fatality which destroyed too early booms.

The citizens generally will endorse
the policy of the city government, toward condensing as much as possible
the wires and poles in the streets. One line of poles is enough on any street, and one line of big poles is not such a disfigurement as several lines of small poles, all leaning in different ways. Some of the large poles recently put up, are painted in such unobtrusive colors that they are hardly noticed.

THE Metropolitan Water Bill was not passed in the form indicated by the report of the committee, and Cambridge and Waltham withdrew, and their withdrawal was followed by that of Brookline and Newton. These places do not care to pay the expenses of supplying Boston and the other needy towns with water.

N. H. S. Notes.

At the fifth annual Interscholastic Laron
Tennis Tournament held at Cambridge last Saturday, Newton High distinguished herself by winning the banner for the greatest number of points scored. Fitz made the best showing, but was defeated on Monday morning by Whitman of Hopkinton in the semi-finals. Whitman in turn was defeated in the finals by Leo Ware of Roxbury Latin, the present interscholastic champion.

The E. K. D. '05 enjoyed a theatre party at the Hollis Street Theatre last Saturday evening, when Miss Ada Rehan appeared in the role of "Nancy," in the comedy of "Nancy and Company." A very pleasant time was enjoyed by the whole party, numbering fifteen in all.

The Third Annual Joint Debate with
the Brookline High School will take place
tomorrow night in the lower town hall,

Professor W. W. Goodwin of Harvard University gave a very interesting lecture on "The Recent Discoveries at Troy," in the drill hall last Friday evening. In addition to the stereopticon views, Prof.
Goodwin made some interesting blackboard drawings, showing the situations of the several cities. The proceeds were for the Classical library of the school.

A MISCHIEVOUS CROW.

Not Afraid of a Gun and Liked Being Pelted by Boys.

Strangely enough, there was nothing of which this crow stood so much in fear as crows themselves. Often they would come perilously near and "caw" at him. Helter skelter he would fly to the house, and his relief was painfully manifested when he was safe inside the kitchen. Their wild life evidently had no charm for him. He was in terror of large snakes, too, but small ones he gobbled up as fast as he could. It was a most effectual way of preventing them from frightening him when they grew bigger.

No attention was given to his education, but at last we discovered that he could repeat a word or phrase of a conversation he had just heard. He could laugh like a human being and imitate
the cackling of a hen. "Stop!" "Hello!" "Hold on!" were favorite expressions of his, and generally his use of them was intelligent. He liked to perch on top of the barn and shout out
"Stop!" at the farmers that went by in their wagons. If they reined in their horses, thinking it was some person that had called them, the success of his little joke would cause him to burst into immoderate laughter.

He actually enjoyed being snowball-
ed. He would stand upon an old tree stump and look saucily at the boys, as much as to say: "Come, now, here's a good shot! Why don't you hit me?"
But Jim was always too quick for them.
No boy ever could hit him. He would dodge like lightning, laughing hoarsely
as the ball flew harmlessly past or broke
in pieces on the other side of the stump.
Then up he would hop again, with another challenge, ready for the next snowball.

He was not afraid of a gun. He would stand close by while one was being loaded, and it might be fired off a number of times without having any perceptible effect on him. But he was keenly alive to its danger, and the very moment the muzzle was pointed at him he lost no time in getting out of the way.

Jim was a very mischievous crow indeed. When Grace, the baby, was learning to walk, he would seize her slyly
by the dress and cause her to fall. He would peck at the toes of the barefooted
children that came for water and laugh heartily as he drove them dismayed from the yard. Sometimes he would steal unnoticed down into the cellar. The blows he could give with his beak
had the force of a small hammer, so that it was a very easy matter for him to turn the spigot of a barrel. One was pretty apt to discover after such a visit that all the vinegar had run out on the floor.—Malcolm Douglas in St. Nicholas.

A Mean Trick.

"My husband played such a mean trick on me," said one woman to another on the street car the other day.
"How?" asked the friend sympathetically.

"Why, I found he was smoking 50 cents' worth of cigars a day, and I got him to agree to give me as much pin money a week as smoking cost him. He stuck to it one week."

"And then what?"

"He bought a clay pipe and a pound of 10 cent tobacco and cut my pin money down to 2 cents a week."—Exchange.

Explained.

Two friends, a weaver and a tailor,
became in time enemies, so much so that the tailor spoke much evil of the weaver behind his back, though the weaver always spoke well of the tailor.
Upon a lady asking the weaver why he always spoke so well of the tailor, who spoke so ill of him, he replied, "Madam, we are both liars."—"Humor of Spain."

—W. S. Seaman, the popular clerk at Fitch's market, is one of the men on the civil service list, eligible for appointment on the police force. He is apparently well qualified for intelligent service in that department and it is thought that he will be one of the men selected.

—Mr. A. H. Terrell was one of the members of the Newton club, who was first honored in the whist tournament held during the winter. The prizes were unusually fine this year and were presented last Saturday evening. A description of them with the list of winners will be found elsewhere in this paper.

—Methodist Episcopal church. Preaching by the pastor, Rev. Franklin Hamilton both morning and evening. Morning topic at 10:45, "The Minister and the Song." Bible class led by Mr. J. B. Willis at 12 m. Y. P. S. C. E. 6:30. Evening service with special music at 7:30. Popular subject, short sermon. All seats free.

—Fred Miles, residing on Brooks avenue, was out on his wheel accompanied by his dog, a valuable pointer, Tuesday evening, and while passing through Crafts street encountered a large bulldog. The latter tackled the pointer and pretty nearly finished it. The owner of the bull made no effort to put an end to the unequal contest.

—The brook near Cabot street was dammed up by boys this week and the ground in the vicinity considerably flooded. Upon complaint of citizens an investigation was made by Officer Clay who remedied the difficulty by breaking up the dam. This trick has been resorted to several times and certain youngsters are liable to get into trouble.

—J. W. Cooke had a close call Tuesday afternoon. He was riding in the rear of a heavily loaded wagon that was overturned while crossing the tracks of the street railway. He was thrown under the wagon and pinned to the ground as a result of the capsize. It was thought at first that he was badly hurt, as he received the full weight of the vehicle. His injuries, fortunately, turned out to be less serious than, seemingly, must have been the inevitable result of such an accident. He was severely bruised, but no limbs were broken and there are no indications of internal complications. He was taken to his home and his condition is now reported as quite comfortable.

—The beauties of the White Mountains were portrayed Wednesday evening at the Central Congregational church in an illustrated lecture by Henry G. Peabody. The unique feature of it was that the views were so arranged as to show just what a person could see in a two weeks' vacation trip. Beginning with the peaceful valley of the Merrimack the panorama moved on to Lake Winnepesaukee, where beautiful views of the remote northern peaks were shown. Among the last scenes thrown upon the canvas were life-like reproductions of the famous East Side cowing parades, these views being from instantaneous photographs made by the lecturer last summer.

—A delegation of 42 members of Gethsemane commandery, F. & A. M., visited Cambridge commandery last Friday evening and were royally entertained. The trip to Cambridge and return was made in two of the West End special cars. They are elegantly fitted up. The woodwork of the interior is mahogany, beautifully polished and richly carved. The windows are very large and fitted with heavy plate glass. Graceful draperies form an attractive feature while the seats, extending along the sides, are luxuriously upholstered. The floor covering is a beautiful carpet of appropriate design with colors that are in harmony with the general scheme of decorative treatment.

—The last supper and social of the Universalist Sewing Circle took place Thursday, May 24. The supper was called a O. C. Supper, which proved to mean Corn, Cider, the napkins, menu cards, etc., being of that color, and the names of the various dishes beginning with the letter C. At 7:35 a program of unusual excellence was given, consisting of a very finely rendered piano solo by Mrs. W. F. Kimball, a song by Miss Kyle, a comedietta, entitled, "The Nettle" with the following cast: Gay Charlton, Mr. Stewart Bosson, Dulcie Meredith, Miss Linda Mabel Curtis. Both characters were very well taken, Mr. Bosson's quick changes from an angry client to an eager lover showing his appreciation of his part. Then followed a vocal trio by Mr. and Mrs. Jones and Miss Jones, which was so finely given as to demand an encore from the enthusiastic audience. A recitation and encore by Chester Griswold called forth a bouquet of flowers. The evening concluded with a farce entitled "A Picked up Dinner." Mr. Thompson, Mr. Ralph Procter, Mrs. Thompson, Miss Alice Atwood, Biddy, Miss Linda Mabel Curtis,

The ludicrous situations were appreciated by the audience and Miss Atwood and Mr. Procter made a model modern couple, while Miss Curtis exhibited her power to fill successfully in the same evening two entirely different roles. The social was considered a grand success by those present.

—A notable society event here Wednesday evening was a reception tendered by the young ladies of the Methodist society, to Rev. Franklin S. E. Hamilton, at the residence of Mr. A. H. Soden, Washington park.

Rev. Mr. Hamilton was married recently and upon his return from the honeymoon, it was planned to give his parishioners an opportunity of welcoming their pastor and his charming bride. Mrs. Hamilton is a daughter of Hon. Edward L. Pierce, the literary executor and biographer of Charles Sumner, and an exceedingly beautiful woman. The affair brought out a large company, including the pastors of the several Newtonville churches and quite a number of visiting clergymen. Among those from out of town were Dean Huntington of Boston University, and Rev. Mr. Freeman of Waltham. The apartments were very tastefully decorated with tropical plants, vines and groupings of cut flowers. The grand staircase was completely entwined with feathery asparagus, and there was a beautiful overhead garland.

Mr. and Mrs. Soden received with Rev. and Mrs. Hamilton. Mrs. Hamilton was gowned in white satin and carried a small bouquet of Catherine Mermet roses. Her only ornament was a diamond brooch, the groom's wedding gift. The guests, after being formally presented, were escorted to the dining room where an excellent dinner was served. The tables at the reception were Messrs. Charles A. Soden, R. L. Moorehouse, Frank Westwood and George M. Bridges.

—The members of the Newtonville Woman's Guild on Tuesday afternoon listened to a very interesting lecture by Mrs. Sybil Bailey Crane, her subject being "Around the Mediterranean." Avoiding the topics usually spoken of by tourists, she presented to her audience a picture after picture in glowing and graphic language, but a word or two, and lo! a picture of the varied groups, on a Mediterranean steamer with a brilliant sunset sky, and a calm sea; a street in one of the Oriental or Grecian cities, with its kaleidoscopic scenes; the solemn, isolated grandeur of the pyramids; the sphinx, with its unsolved mystery; the wonders and magnificence of the ancient days of Palmyra, Damascus, Cairo, and Alexandria; the beauty and grace of Athens, the delicate, refined art of the Moorish cities of Spain; a moonlit sea dotted with islands, famous in story and song; a storm at sea; the despair and distress of the passengers on board a steamer, quarantined on account of that terrible scourge, the Asiatic cholera with a hundred wild Orientals threatening the lives of passengers and crew. If they were not allowed to land, for an hour were these wonderful word paintings, rapidly placed before the audience, who sat entranced with the grace, beauty and fine artistic merit of the exhibition. Five delegates, with the president, were elected to attend the meeting to be held in West Newton, May 17th, for the election of officers for the newly organized "Newton Federation of Women's Clubs," the adoption of Constitution and other business. Although delegates were elected, all members of the various clubs are invited to attend. Six delegates were elected to attend for one day the "Pharmacy Fair" in Boston.

—The formal opening of the reconstructed fire headquarters took place Wednesday evening. The observance took the form of a banquet, tendered to members of the city council and other city officials, by the members of the companies stationed in West Newton. It was an entirely informal affair, and only about 100 persons were present. Chief Randlett and Assistant Chief Humphrey were in the company. At 9 o'clock the guests had made a thorough examination of the arrangements of the house, the collation was served. At its conclusion Assistant Chief Humphrey rapped to order, and made a brief speech, thanking the members of the city government, in behalf of the department, for the improved accommodations provided. In the absence of the mayor, City Clerk I. F. Kingsbury spoke for the city, congratulating the department on the new headquarters and complimenting it for its efficiency. President Joseph W. Parker of the common council spoke for the fire committee. The engine house has been entirely remodeled, and it is fitted with the most approved apparatus. The interior finish is in North Carolina pine and the large rooms are made as attractive as possible. The building is used as general fire department headquarters, and is also used as headquarters for Assistant Chief Humphrey. It accommodates besides, engine 2, hose 2 and chemical A.

The building is used as general fire department headquarters, and is also used as headquarters for Assistant Chief Humphrey. It accommodates besides, engine 2, hose 2 and chemical A.

—The formal opening of the reconstructed fire headquarters took place Wednesday evening. The observance took the form of a banquet, tendered to members of the city council and other city officials, by the members of the companies stationed in West Newton. It was an entirely informal affair, and only about 100 persons were present. Chief Randlett and Assistant Chief Humphrey were in the company. At 9 o'clock the guests had made a thorough examination of the arrangements of the house, the collation was served. At its conclusion Assistant Chief Humphrey rapped to order, and made a brief speech, thanking the members of the city government, in behalf of the department, for the improved accommodations provided. In the absence of the mayor, City Clerk I. F. Kingsbury spoke for the city, congratulating the department on the new headquarters and complimenting it for its efficiency. President Joseph W. Parker of the common council spoke for the fire committee. The engine house has been entirely remodeled, and it is fitted with the most approved apparatus. The interior finish is in North Carolina pine and the large rooms are made as attractive as possible. THE MODERN OYSTER STEW.

The Middle Aged Man Contrasts It With the Stead of Before the War.

"When I was a boy, before the war," said a middle aged man, "the price of an oyster stew in a good ordinary restaurant was 12 1/2 cents. The price has gradually gone up until now, in a good restaurant, an ordinary stew costs 25 cents. In the old restaurant there was a cloth upon the table, but this cloth, unless you happened to find it when it had just been put on, was apt to be frescoed with coffee stains. There were catchpans and vinegar and so on, some of them perhaps in bottles in a casket. Perhaps the waiter gave you a pickle or two. The light was not very bright. The waiter brought the stew in an oyster plate, and as the hot broth washed about a little in the plate as he carried it and set it down you were afraid it might burn his thumb. But the oysters were good. Let me pause to remark that the oyster is something to be grateful for.

"Today the table, without a cloth perhaps, is cherry or mahogany, finely polished. For a cloth there is spread before you a napkin of ample dimensions and bright and fresh. The pickle is chopped up celery and very good. You get two kinds of crackers, and plenty of them, and a generous portion of French bread. The butter comes in a slightly little cone. The table furniture is all good—dishes, glass, everything. The spread before you is agreeable to the eye, and the whole scene is brilliantly lighted with the modern incandescent lamps. The stew comes in an oval dish that rests upon a plate. I don't like to eat out of such a dish so well as I do out of a plate, but you know at least there is no danger burning the waiter's thumb. The oysters are good; the whole arrangement is away beyond the stew of before the war. It costs more, but are we not better able to pay for it? For general get up and get dash and style and comfort the old stew couldn't begin to compare with it. The modern oyster stew is one of many things that we do an everlasting sight better than we did."—New York Sun.

Lots of Troubles Ahead.

It is an off day just now that does not bring some new international complication. At the present rate the president may find it as hard to get to Gray Gables this year as he did last.—Boston News.

Newton Cricketers Win.

MEET WITH LITTLE DIFFICULTY IN THEIR FIRST LEAGUE CONTEST.

The Newton cricket eleven won easily from the Waltham eleven last Saturday afternoon. The match was played on the grounds of the former club, and attracted a large number of spectators. It was the home team's debut in the championship series. The visitors were weak in the fielding. McCullough made a favorable impression. He bowled well, bringing down three wickets. Bastow and Jeffs, for Newton, captured four wickets each.

Tired, Weak, Nervous.
Means impure blood, and overwork or too much strain on brain and body. The only way to cure is to feed the nerves on pure blood. Thousands of people certify that the best blood purifier, the best nerve tonic and strength builder is Hood's Sarsaparilla. What it has done for others it will also do for you—Hood's Cures.

Nervousness, loss of sleep, loss of appetite and general debility all disappear when Hood's Sarsaparilla is persistently taken, and strong nerves, sweet sleep, strong body, sharp appetite, and in a word, health and happiness follow the use of Hood's Sarsaparilla.

The strong point about Hood's Sarsaparilla is that they are permanent, because they start from the solid foundation of purified, vitalized and enriched blood.

A Remarkable Cure of Rheumatism.
[From the Groton Connecticut Review.]
David Lewis, who has been afflicted all winter by rheumatism, is out again and all due to one of the medicines advertised in our columns. After trying everything possible, he used Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which has relieved him of all pain, from which he was a constant sufferer and promises to make him fit for duty soon. We know David has been a great sufferer and are glad to see him at home again. For sale by Arthur Hudson, Newton; E. W. Keyes, Auburndale; B. B. Buck, Newton Centre; E. F. Partridge, Newtonville; B. Billings, Newton Upper Falls; J. H. Green, Newton Highlands, Druggists.

There's a Reason For Everything.
[From the Somerville Journal.]
Minister—And so you say your little prayer every night before you go to bed? That's right. And now tell me, why do you do that?
—Because mama says she'll spank me if I don't.

Ayer's Pills are recommended by leading physicians as the most prompt and efficient remedy for biliousness, nausea, costiveness, indigestion, sluggishness of the liver, jaundice, and sick headache; also, to relieve colds, fevers, neuralgia, and rheumatism.

NEWTON UPPER FALLS.

—There are letters in the post office for John Newcomb and Robert A. Pickeny.

—Mr. Woodman has moved his lunch counter from the Taylor estate to the Fanning land.

—Mr. Armstrong has opened a photograph gallery on the Taylor estate.

—Next Sunday at the Methodist church, Rev. Mr. Fellows will deliver a sermon on "Pontius Pilate."

—Miss Cora Cobb led the Y. P. S. C. E. meeting at the Methodist church Wednesday evening. Her topic was "Christ's Yoke."

—The Ladies Sewing society of the Methodist church will hold their monthly meeting in the ladies parlor Wednesday afternoon of next week.

—Thursday afternoon "The ways and means society" of the Baptist church held a very enjoyable meeting at the pastor's home on Chandler place.

—"The White Garland" a cantata, will be given in Wade hall, Tuesday evening, May 21, for the benefit of the Newton hospital.

—Two young children of Thomas Manning are ill with diphtheria and have been removed to the hospital.

—A young son of Mr. F. L. Thurston of Oak street has been taken to the hospital suffering with diphtheria.

—Miss Edith Newell was given a surprise party Monday evening, by about thirty members of Post G. A. R. She was presented with a gift from her many friends and the evening passed most pleasantly.

—The Garden City Improvement society has planted a number of shade trees of different varieties in this place. Some are placed in front of dwellings and on the edge of sidewalks, while others adorn the front of the Wade school house.

NEWTON LOWER FALLS.

—Mr. Frederick Curtis is recovering from a serious illness, of the grip confining him to his home about 3 weeks.

—Mr. M. H. McAvoy and family removed to Lebanon, N. H., this week.

—Officer Herbert Seaver, who is on duty nights on the patrol wagon, has just recovered from a severe illness of one week.

—Mr. Nicholas Delaney and family removed to Nova Scotia last week.

—Two or three new houses are soon to be erected on Cornell street by Mr. Sweet of Auburndale, who recently made a purchase of land there for building purposes.

—Mrs. Rev. Dr. Twombly, who has been suffering from a severe attack of the grip for several weeks past, is slowly recovering and hopes to be in her usual health before long.

—Mr. F. C. Shaw, after a somewhat protracted confinement from an attack of rheumatism, is once more recovering his strength.

—Mr. Adam Beck rescued three children (boys) from a sudden and sure death last Saturday about noon. The two Kerr and Ford boys became drifted in a boat owned by the latter's father, and were at the point of going over the upper dam when rescued.

—The following letters remain unclaimed at the postoffice: Miss Jessie Dean, Colman Deane, Miss Ellen Ford, A. J. Currier, Miss H. M. Johnson, Arthur Long, Mrs. Jane A. McMillen, Dan McLeod, Miss Bridget D. Norton, Thos. A. Ross, Miss Nora Seannell.

—Residents of this village holding in their own names cards of the Penny Savings system worth one dollar or more, whether full of stamps or not, can deposit these cards at the West Newton Savings bank as if they were cash and will receive bank books.

NONANTUM.

—The Y. P. S. C. E. meeting, Sunday evening, was led by Mr. Wentworth.

—Elmer Shields is ill at his home on Faxon street.

Spring Medicine

Is a necessity because the tonic of winter air is gone, and milder weather, increased moisture, accumulated impurities in the blood and debilitated condition of the body, open the way for that tired feeling, nervous troubles, and other ills. The skin, mucous membrane and the various organs strive in vain to relieve the impure current of life. They all welcome to assist Nature at this time when she most needs help, to purify the blood, tone and strengthen the laboring organs and build up the nerves.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"Two years ago I took several bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla when I was in poor health, and it increased my weight to one hundred and ten pounds, the most I ever weighed. Last winter after an attack of the grip I was left in a weakened condition in the spring. I had no appetite and I fell off in weight to ninety-four pounds."

Purifies The Blood

I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla again, and after taking two bottles I have gained eleven pounds in weight." F. E. BENTLEY, BENTLEY, West Milbury, Mass.

SANITARY INSPECTION.

Commencing May 1st, 1895, the Board of Health will make a Sanitary Inspection of the city for the purpose of obtaining an accurate knowledge of the drainage and condition of each dwelling, house and business block.

The inspection will cover the following subjects:

Number of inmates.
Sewer connection.
Condition of premises and cellars.
Disposition of sink drainage.
State and description of cesspools.
Kind and condition of privies and water closets.
Condition and use of out buildings.
Disposal of manure.

The important knowledge to be thus obtained, it is believed will greatly aid the Board in its efforts to improve the sanitary condition of the city.

The ready assistance and co-operation of all citizens to aid the work of the Inspectors in obtaining the above information is respectfully requested and will be greatly appreciated.

Each Inspector will be provided with a badge, which will be his authority for making the inspection.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

BOSTON THEATRE—Sawdow. "The
mighty and perfect man" and his fine
supporting company of Trocadero
Vaudeville gives place at the Boston Theatre to "Tribly," by A. M. Palmer's greatest company. The initial performance is set for next Monday evening, May 13, and the season will probably extend to June. Ordinarily it is a hazardous task to undertake the dramatization of any new and popular novel. No one man ever realized this fact more than Paul H. Potter, when he took in hand George Du Maurier's "Tribly" for the purpose of converting it into a play with an inoffensive theme and artist. Du Potter's dramatization, the story-telling,
dramatic, even melodramatic side, far outweighs all else, and here by its very extension and all-pervasiveness makes an admirable dramatic hinge for the whole plot to turn on. As far as the personnel of the cast is concerned, Du Potter's ideal, as portrayed by both pen and pencil, is fully met. Each character stands forth to the eye of him
familiar with the novel, as a creation worthy of the strong characteristics of the several originals. Mr. A. M. Palmer and Mr. Eugene Hopkins have arranged for the best and most elaborate production of Tribly at the Boston Theatre, with entirely new scenery and new costumes. The company presenting the play is the very best and the realistic effects of the drama are but incidents of a grand production.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE—Mr. Rose gave Boston joy when the curtain went up for the opening of "The Beggar Student" at the Castle Square Theatre.
before an audience that jammed the beautiful playhouse to the most remote corner. Magnificent costumes, beautiful scenery, a great system of electric lights, a flower bedecked theatre and a resourceful company give a steady succession of surprises. The opening chorus, Monday night, was rewarded with a double encore, something unusual, and indicating better than words can tell the genuine merit of principals and chorus. The Castle Square Opera Co. has proved a clever one. With the exception of Comedian Wolff, the faces
and voices were comparatively unknown.
Miss Estling, the prima donna, has shown herself a competent artist. Miss Bell has a charming soprano voice. The leading fun-macuis, Mr. Wolff and Mr.
Beaumont Smith, are a lively team.
Mr. Wolff is making a hit with local variations. The chorus is superb in its songs and marches. "Boscacelo" will be put on next Monday night, to run a week.
It is admirably adapted to the company
and ought to be received with as much favor as "The Beggar Student." Fall houses are the rule at the summer prices
now in force and early application for seats is imperative. There are no Wednesday matinees.

BOWDOIN SQUARE THEATRE—"Special Delivery," a new comedy drama by David H. Seully and under the management of J. J. Coleman, will be presented at the Bowdoin Square Theatre next week for the first time in Boston. As the title indicates, the play centres about the postoffice, and its hero is a postman. The plot is clever and decidedly original, and the details are very skillfully worked out. The dialogue is forcible. Incidental to the play

are said to be some of the strongest situations to be found within the whole range of modern melodrama. The comedy element is refined and a number of musical specialties are neatly introduced. The comic features are magnificent, notably
"Old Harlem Bridge by Moonlight" opening and closing to allow the various river craft to pass; and the interior of the mail delivery department of the New York postoffice in full operation, a very realistic picture. The cast includes such well known people as Miss Tessie Deagle, Miss Emma Dunn, Miss Josephine Crowell, Ralph
Stuart, Harry Beresford, E. L. Duane,
John J. Collins, Joe Daily, and Con Mal-vey.

TREMONT THEATRE—All interest now centres on the summer season at the Tremont Theatre, the second under the management of Harry Askin, which opens on Monday, May 27. Everyone remembers last season, when his great company gave such splendid performances of light opera; the cool, comfortable theatre, doubtless the model summer play house of the country, not resorting to any artificial ventilation yet always pleasant; the courteous attendants, the beautiful lobbies—all these things are fresh in people's minds, and the opening night of this season is sure to create a crowded house. Mr. Askin will depart entirely from the rule of giving time-worn "revivals," and present a new opera by two Bostonians, "The Sphinx,"
by Wm. M. Brown and Lewis S. Thompson. The opera was originally given by the Harvard Hasty Pudding Club, but in entirely new form, with its libretto entirely rewritten. The music is called beautiful and the book wonderfully clever. Mr. Askin has secured a remarkable company, including J. Aldrich Libbey, Walter Allen, Edwin Stevens,
Miss Laura Joyce-Bell and Miss Marie
Millard. The latter is expected to create a great sensation by her marvelous voice. The production will be the greatest given here in many seasons,
the costumes and scenery being magnificent. As opening night will be "Harvard Night" when the University will send a great delegation to give its two favored sons a godsend, and the members of the original Hasty Pudding "Sphinx"
cost will attend in a body.

BOSTON MUSEUM—The attraction at the Boston Museum this week and next is the distinguished and talented actress, Miss Marie Burroughs, who makes her second visit to Boston this season. Few actresses have met with such splendid success in so few years of professional career as has Miss Burroughs. Her advancement on the dramatic stage has been steady and sure. The demand for more painstaking or conscientious actresses on the stage today. Her work shows splendid training. She is sweet and unaffected, and artistic at the same time. Then again, when occasion demands power and dramatic force she is not found wanting in that respect. "The Profligate" is the bill this week. For the second week of her engagement beginning Monday, May 13, Miss Burroughs
will give a varied bill including "Romeo and Juliet," "Leah, the Forsaken." The same excellent company which appeared with Miss Burroughs during her last engagement in Boston, will be seen to advantage in the different plays. The engagement will begin on Wednesday and Saturday.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE—It is seldom
that an attraction can come to this city season after season and be always rewarded with overwhelming success. In the case of Richard Golden's performances of "Old Jed Prouty" this is true, for ever since the opening Monday evening last the vast theatre has been crowded at every performance. The demand for tickets from the various members of the Pilgrim Fathers has been great and it is found necessary to extend the engagement another week, commencing with the performance Monday evening, May 13,
and extending throughout the week
with the usual matinees on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday. An important engagement transpires at the Grand Opera House the week of May 20th in the person of Kate Claxton, the gifted emotional actress, and the distinguished tragedienne, Mme. Janauschek, who will present the popular play, "The Two Orphans," supported by a company of the highest order of excellence. One week only is the time set aside for the appearance of these actresses.

BOOKS AND MAGAZINES.

THE STORY OF SONNY SAHIB.
This fascinating story of child life in the East is published in a very attractive form by D. Appleton & Co., and will be one of the popular books for young people. Mrs. Edward Cotes (Sara Jeannette Duncan) is thoroughly at home in describing life in India, and her young Indian prince is a fascinating figure, and all sorts of adventures, humorous and otherwise. No one can resist the interest of this story and the romantic surroundings and splendor of an Oriental court, with the manners and customs of the natives, are skillfully portrayed. The author has a vein of humor which makes her writings cheerful reading, and this is regarded as one of her best books.

THE NEW MOON.

This is one of the degenerate novels which Dr. Max Nordau condemns as being a characteristic of the age, and is in the form of an autobiography. The hero is a more or less morbid physician, who has an invalid wife who will insist on calling him pet names, and whose chatter is of the most insane kind. She has a pet superstition for every thing that happens,
and the name of the story is derived from her fancying she sees the new moon
through glass, when it is merely a signal light placed in a high window. By the woman with whom the hero is in love.
The author is an English woman, of course, no one else writes such unhealthy books as the literary Englishwoman of today, but it is hardly up to the clever satire by which she first won fame here, entitled "George Mandeville's Husband." The work is cleverly done, and the different characters faithfully portrayed, though the device of using a fire in a continental hotel to bring about the climax of the story is a rather hackneyed one. The writer fails to arouse backwoods ones. The hero falls in love and much sympathy for her personages,

and the general verdict will be that they all deserve the troubles that befall them.
Published by D. Appleton & Co., $1.00.

DOG MYRTLE AND PEAT.

S. R. Crockett, who suddenly leaped into fame as the author of "The Stickit Minister" and "The Lilac Sunbonnet" has gathered together a good sized volume of his shorter stories, which are published by D. Appleton & Co. They are fascinating tales, pure and healthy in tone, and the scene ranges from the highlands of Scotland to the far East,
and all have a local color and enough human interest to make them live in the mind of the reader. It is a charming summer book as most of the stories are short, and will while away many a leisure half hour. The stories that have their scenes in Scotland are the best, and many original characters are presented,
who are well worth knowing. Scott made Scotland the land of romance, and later writers have only to develop the land he introduced to novel readers.
Probably an intimate acquaintance with the people might dispel the romance,
but this is something few of us have, and so we welcome Mr. Crockett's stories, as telling us more about that fascinating country.

HARPER'S WEEKLY.

Some of the special features announced
in publication during May in Harper's Weekly are: A double-page illustration by Rufus F. Zogbaum of the Naval Battle of Wei-hai-wei; Luxurious Yachting, with front and double-page illustrations by Thulstrup; the article by W.
J. Henderson; Ancient New York Market Rights, by Julian Balph; chapters in a new department entitled Life and Letter, by William Donnell; Howells,
Diamond Cutting in America; Soldiers' Homes, a profusely illustrated supplement for Decoration Day; and in the department of sport, The Development of the Amateur Pitcher, by J. A. Tyng; Bicycling Among the Fashionables;
Bicycling in War; etc.

HARPER'S BAZAR.

Harper's Bazar will, during the month of May, publish very elegant fashion designs appropriate to the season. The Worth toilettes are both elaborate and simple, and include beautiful calling and reception gowns, house dresses, called dainty effects in costume for the early summer. Among literary features will be stories by Maria Louise Pool and Duffield Osborne; a practical series, by a practical housekeeper on Laundry Work;
a paper on Breathing, by Lillie Hamilton French, who is again at home, and,
having concluded her Mediterranean
notes, will give us Mrs. Van Twiller's agreeable afternoons in New York once more; and Spectator, always popular and suggestive, will write of The Domestic Problem, of Visiting, and of How to Entertain Visitors.

Agreeably Surprised.

"I had a very severe cold on my lungs
that caused much soreness and gave me
considerable uneasiness in regard to the
result," says Mr. T. E. Smith, of Billerica, Mass. "A local druggist called
my attention to Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and on his recommendation I gave the remedy a careful trial. The result surprised me; I recovered entirely
in three days." 25 and 50 cent bottles

The Flower Mission.

Some of those in charge of the Newton
branch of the Boston Fruit and Flower Mission would like to call attention to the beginning of the annual work Tuesday morning, May 14. All contributions are to be left as formerly at the station
in time to be packed to be sent on the train leaving the Newtons on the main road about 9.30. It is asked that the flowers be tied in loose bunches as they are packed into burlap bags at the mission office. If flowers are small and containing, berries, lettuce, lemons, etc., will be as thankfully received, and any contribution if very small, will help much.
It is earnestly hoped that those who have helped will renew interest, and that others will take interest. The contributions are distributed to the hospitals, large and small, in dispensaries, city missions, schools, factories and work rooms, homes for old people and children, and many other places. The work is impartial, is in interest of Catholic and Protestant, white and colored. It is meant to reach widely and any one wishing to help will be very welcome at the mission room, Appleton street, Boston, Tuesday and Friday mornings, throughout the summer.

According to a recent report, in one summer, thirty-eight different hospitals,
homes, missions, schools, and gardens,
etc., were visited, and flowers were distributed by city missionaries, district
nurses and other special workers.
More flowers, more helpers are asked for.

Important Facts.

If you have a dull and heavy pain across
the forehead, and about the eyes; if the nostrils are frequently stopped up and followed by a disagreeable discharge; if soreness in the nose and bleeding from the nostrils is often experienced; if you are very sensitive to cold in the head accompanied with headache; then you may say you have catarrh, and should (immediately) resort to Ely's Cream Balm for a cure. The remedy will give instant relief.

AMBITIOUS WOMEN

MAKE HEROES OF MEN.

She Will Brave Anything for the Man She Loves.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

When an ambitious woman loves a man she will spur him to heroic efforts.
She will dare with him the rigors of the frozen North, and encourage him
in daring dangers almost unsurmountable.

Women are by nature ambitious according to their physical and mental strength.

Hope and ambition come with perfect health, but vanish before sickness and despair.

American women are, unfortunately,
particularly subject to those painful female diseases that are the cause of so much hopelessness and misery.

Could all women realize the undeniable fact that they suffer unnecessarily,
how much brighter life would be!

Lydia E. Pinkham devoted her life to the study of female diseases and their cause; and she discovered in the Vegetable Compound an absolute remedy. It succeeds in removing the cause of the trouble.

Women who rely more upon their own natural common-sense, rather than on the theories of their physicians, write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., and are soon restored to health.

Here is a living example: "Four months ago I was unable to stand on my feet. I had falling of the womb, kidney trouble, and inflammation
of the bladder; the backache
and bearing-down pains were dreadful. A friend said, try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.
Well, I did. Oh, if every suffering woman would do the same, they would be cured, cured absolutely and entirely,
as I am!" Mrs. Wm. M. MOREY, 20

—The musical evening given by Miss Fannie E. Stevens in Lincoln Hall, Wednesday, assisted by Mrs. Laura Maier Richardson, pianist, Mrs. S. A. Brown, contralto; Mr. Frank Kennedy, violinist, and the Avedale trio, was one of the most enjoyable affairs of the season. Miss Stevens rendered songs by Grieg and Schubert very acceptably. Mrs. Richardson played her pianoforte numbers with artistic expression and shading. Mr. Kennedy won the favor of the audience by his clever execution and very creditable rendering of the Concerto in D Major. The other assisting artists were favorably noticed and altogether the concert was a success, both from the artistic and social point of view.

How He Convinced Himself That It Was His Own Image.
The late Dr. Romanes, in his "Animal Intelligence," gives two stories of cats, on seeing their own reflection in a looking glass, convinced themselves that the reflection was an illusion. In the case of a very intelligent cat of mine, he went, I think, a step beyond this—namely, he satisfied himself that it was in some way his own image. Even if my deduction is wrong, the first part of his proceedings was so singularly like those in Dr. Romanes' accounts that it seems as though it were a uniform law of cat nature to act in this way, and so far it may not be altogether uninteresting.

I put the cat on a table in front of a small toilet mirror. After looking at his reflection for a short while he went behind the glass. Then he returned to his seat in front and again watched it attentively. After a few moments he rapidly dashed behind it. He again returned to his seat in front of the glass, and while retaining his seat and keeping his eyes fixed on the image he struck about behind the glass with his paw in different directions.

His next action was, I fancy, suggested by seeing the image apparently strike with its paw also. Keeping his seat and retaining his eye fixed on the image, he proceeded to (if I may use the word) posture in front of the glass. He raised his paws alternately, licked them, touched the glass, moved his head, etc. I have tried to simply describe the facts and as far as possible avoid drawing conclusions.—Science Gossip.

tion and dance. Mrs. Wheeler will read "The Unfinished Story of Margaret Hanger, M. C." the "Ballad of Miss Blobs," and "Little Tree Whies' Fourth."

—Rev. Frank J. McConnell of West Chelmsford will occupy the pulpit in the Methodist church here next Sunday.

—Ex Gov. Long has been noticed on our street a number of times of late. He visits his nephew, Zadoc Long, who is not quite well this spring.

—All persons interested are cordially invited to attend a lecture on Missionary work in Burmah, illustrated by the stereopticon, in the Baptist church in this village, next Sunday evening. Mr. Sumner R. Vinton of Brown University, whose parents and grandparents were missionaries in this field, describes the scenes and incidents in a missionary's work in this important field.

NEWTON HIGHLANDS.
—The Chautauqua circle will meet Monday with Miss Manson.

—Mr. Charles E. Beckman has returned from Plymouth.

—Fred Lowe of Ashland is the guest of Mr. F. Skelton, Erie avenue.

—Miss Nellie A. Carey has commenced her work for the Census Bureau.

—The next meeting of the Monday Club will be held at the home of Mrs. Robinson, Chester street.

—The West End Literary Club meets Monday with Mrs. Hutchinson, Lincoln street.

—J. E. Story and family have taken the house formerly occupied by C. R. Benson on Columbus street.

—The Harvard Glee Club will give a concert in Lincoln Hall next Wednesday evening.

—A cinder walk is to replace the wooden platform around the depot. Which do you prefer?

—Miss Mary C. Collins of Dakota, for 20 years a missionary among the Indians, will speak at the evening services at the Congregational church, Sunday.

—McMullen's carpenter shop was entered late Tuesday night or early Wednesday morning and tools were stolen from three chests representing considerable value. It is the third time the place has been broken into within two years.

—The Ladies Social club enjoyed the last entertainment of the season in the clubhouse Tuesday. "Hearts" was the game played and the prizes were won by Miss Merriam and Mrs. Tarbell. A lunch was served.

—Mrs. M. A. Davis observed her 86th birthday Wednesday and many friends called upon her. She resides with her daughter, Mrs. M. E. Emerson, and her health is excellent. She walks from the Highlands to the Centre to attend church last Sunday.

—M. E. services next Sunday morning at 10:45, subject "The Inevitable. Sunday School at 12. Epworth League at 6. In the evening the pastor will preach on the topic "The Mouldy Prayer." The topic of one of eight sermons on the Lord's Prayer, to be given on successive Sunday evenings.

—Monday evening the Epworth League of the Methodist church inaugurated the "institutional church" on a small scale by the dedication of a pleasant room over the parlors to be called "The Epworth League Room." This room is to be used principally as a library, reading and game room for members and friends of the league.

—The musical evening given by Miss Fannie E. Stevens in Lincoln Hall, Wednesday, assisted by Mrs. Laura Maier Richardson, pianist, Mrs. S. A. Brown, contralto; Mr. Frank Kennedy, violinist, and the Avedale trio, was one of the most enjoyable affairs of the season. Miss Stevens rendered songs by Grieg and Schubert very acceptably. Mrs. Richardson played her pianoforte numbers with artistic expression and shading. Mr. Kennedy won the favor of the audience by his clever execution and very creditable rendering of the Concerto in D Major. The other assisting artists were favorably noticed and altogether the concert was a success, both from the artistic and social point of view.

How He Convinced Himself That It Was His Own Image.
The late Dr. Romanes, in his "Animal Intelligence," gives two stories of cats, on seeing their own reflection in a looking glass, convinced themselves that the reflection was an illusion. In the case of a very intelligent cat of mine, he went, I think, a step beyond this—namely, he satisfied himself that it was in some way his own image. Even if my deduction is wrong, the first part of his proceedings was so singularly like those in Dr. Romanes' accounts that it seems as though it were a uniform law of cat nature to act in this way, and so far it may not be altogether uninteresting.

I put the cat on a table in front of a small toilet mirror. After looking at his reflection for a short while he went behind the glass. Then he returned to his seat in front and again watched it attentively. After a few moments he rapidly dashed behind it. He again returned to his seat in front of the glass, and while retaining his seat and keeping his eyes fixed on the image he struck about behind the glass with his paw in different directions.

His next action was, I fancy, suggested by seeing the image apparently strike with its paw also. Keeping his seat and retaining his eye fixed on the image, he proceeded to (if I may use the word) posture in front of the glass. He raised his paws alternately, licked them, touched the glass, moved his head, etc. I have tried to simply describe the facts and as far as possible avoid drawing conclusions.—Science Gossip.

THE ONLY WOMAN CLOWN.

"My reason for becoming a clown," said Miss Williams, the only lady clown on earth, according to the circus bills, "was to make money. My father was a clown for 40 years. He had 21 children, and all of them were in this business in some capacity or other, generally as acrobats and tumbler. I was not suited for an acrobat. It is too hard work. I thought that I would become a clown. There are 13 of our family now in the circus business. Every day I try to think out something new, and the management usually gives me pretty wide latitude. I am a fair tumbler and manage to get along all right. I shall probably stop in this business until I get married. Of course I hope to get married some day. Every woman does."

Miss Williams is a rather undersized woman, about 25 years old, with an abundance of health and energy. She rides a bicycle, swings Indian clubs and does everything else that a man does to keep herself in proper trim. One of her favorite tricks as a clown is to put on a bonnet and a long cloak and then sit by some innocent young man in the audience. In nine cases out of ten he is very much preoccupied in the performance and does not pay any attention to her. Suddenly she astonishes him by shouting to the ringmaster for a job. He takes the cue and begins to dicker with her.

"How much will you give me?"
"Ten dollars a performance."
"Oh, no! This young man here that I am engaged to will give me more than that to stop here with him." [Great confusion of the young man referred to, if he does not grasp the situation.]—New York Times.

GREAT EXCITEMENT

19 & 21 Boylston St., Boston.

Almost Given Away. Spring and Summer Clothing.

In conjunction with the A. Bacharach & Co.'s stock, of 429 Market street and 416 Commerce street, Philadelphia, Pa. We have just purchased for spot cash from one of the largest clothing manufacturers in New York, their entire stock of high grade spring and summer clothing. Here is our story:—We have secured the four-story building, Nos. 19 and 21 BOYLSTON STREET, next door to Hotel Reynolds, BOSTON, Mass., and will, under the firm name, The Wholesale Clothing Manufacturers' Outlet Co., run one of the largest clothing stores in the city of Boston. We have lots of ready cash, and have our buyers located in Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Chicago and St. Louis, and on the lookout for manufacturers and retail dealers who are forced to raise money and sacrifice their stocks. No stock is too large for us as long as we get it at once or early.

The Wilson bill, stopping of factories, the scarcity of money, and the terrible strikes all over the country, have done a great deal of harm to the clothing business, and have forced manufacturers to raise money and sacrifice their stocks. No stock is too large for us as long as we get it at once or early.

Men's summer working suits, at $2.98, this suit is well made and all to match, and really worth $3.50. We will allow you to keep this suit five days, and if it does not suit you, bring it back and we will return your $2.98.

Men's double breasted suits, in gray and dark, worth $16, must go at $13.98.

Men's fancy clay worsted and wide wale, made in the best of style, actually worth $25, will go quick at $18.50.

Men's fine imported cassimere and worsted suits, made and trimmed in the latest styles, worth $32, will go at $26.

Men's French cloth suits, ready worth $36.50, will go at $31.48.

Men's fine custom made suits, made from the finest clay worsted and wide wale and fine silk mixture, in recent cutaways, round and square skirts, made of lining and trimming, these suits cost to make as high as $45; will go as low as $14.50.

A lot of extra size men's suits, in gray and dark mixtures, in sack suits only, will be sold at your own prices; sizes from 42 to 48.

A lot of men's spring overcoats, in latest styles and shades; worth as high as $25.50; will go at $16.22.

Men's fine dress trousers, Clay and fancy silk, striped worsted; worth from $7 to $9; will go at $3.40.

Men's dress pants, worth from $7 to $6, will go at from $4.50 to $1.50.

Different kinds of men's working pants; worth as high as $2.75; will go as low as $2.00.

Boys' long pants suits, age from 14 to 18 years, will go as low as $2.97.

Boys' fine dress suits, in chevrons, Clays, wide wale and mixtures, double and single breasted, worth from $6 to $22, must go quick at from $2.98 up to $7.22.

—Rev. Mr. Bronson will preach at the Methodist church, next Sunday morning, and evening. Evening subject "The Wedding Garment." All seats free and a cordial welcome.

—The many friends of Mr. Sam Peck will learn with regret of his serious illness.
He was brought from Mexico on special train to Boston, and is at the St. Margaret suffering from appendicitis.

—Mr. Harry Brooks Day gave an organ recital in Christ church, Quincy, Tuesday evening, assisted by Masters William Poole
and William Clapp, of the Grace church choir, in honor of the new organ fund of Christ church.

—The choir of Grace church, under the direction of Mr. H. B. Day, led the music at the opening day of the 10th annual convention of the Protestant Episcopal churches of Massachusetts, in Trinity chapel, Wednesday.

—An alarm was rung in at 2.30 o'clock
last Friday afternoon for a blaze in a wooden dwelling house off Adams street, occupied by John Hooley. It caught from a fumigating apparatus used by the board of health. The damage amounted to $50.

—At the special service at the Eliot church next Sunday evening, May 19th, will be rendered Gounod's "Missa" and
the "Hallelujah Chorus" from "The Messiah" by Handel. The choir will be augmented and will also be assisted by two French horn players from the Boston Symphony orchestra.

—Mr. George B. Jones arrived in New York, Wednesday, and is expected to arrive home today. He had a very enjoyable time in the Hawaiian Islands, and one of the events was a yachting trip given him by his brother, Mr. Peter C. Jones, in company with a number of prominent residents.

—Beverly Bros. have gained a large trade in Newton by the excellence of their bread, cake and pastry, and many families have abolished baking day, as they claim
it is just as cheap to buy from Beverly Bros.
and they are always sure of having excellent goods. Their order wagons have a large trade about the city.

—Music for Grace church Sunday night:
Processional, "Fight the good fight." Stanford Magnificat, "Nunc Dimittis." Stanford
Anthem, "Praise thou the Lord O my S. Irit." Mendelssohn
Anthem, "All ye that cried unto the Lord." Mendelssohn Recessional, "To Thee O dear, dear Country." Mendelssohn
Seats free.

—John Jovee was before the police court last Saturday morning on complaint of the board of health for keeping without a license more than four horses in a stable. Judge Kennedy reserved his decision. It is probable that the case will be carried up to the higher courts to test the constitutionality of the statute on which the city ordinance is based.

—Ice formed about the city, Monday night, and the ground froze a half inch or so, but it is not thought that very much damage was done in this vicinity. Gardners always expect to find about the middle of May and make their calculations accordingly. If they lose some early vegetables, they knew they took that risk when they planted them. There was also an early heavy frost, this morning.

—The choir of Grace church will give Mendelssohn's cantata, "Hymn of Praise,"
with Mr. George J. Parker as tenor soloist, William Clapp, William Poole, soprano
soloists, and an orchestra of twenty pieces,
on a Monday night, May 22d, at 7.30 p. m.
Mr. Day will direct and Mr. Fred N.
Shackley will preside at the organ. Admission by invitation until 7.30, when the doors will be opened to the public.

—Mr. Daniel J. Gallagher was one of the two successful competitors for orator of the senior class of Boston University Law School, at the competition held in the Bromfield Street Church, Boston, last Wednesday morning. Mr. Gallagher spoke on "The Future of the World," and with Mr.
James F. Creed of South Boston was chosen by the judges from the twelve who contested.

—Mr. and Mrs. Atherton Clark, nee
Gilman, held their second and last wedding reception at their residence in Baldwin street, Tuesday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Clark were assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. Gilman and Mrs. Clark. The reception continued from 7.30 until 10, and was an entirely informal affair. In the dining room the following young ladies presided at the table: Mrs. Morton E.
Cobb, Miss Louise Gilman, Miss Edith Clark, Miss Nellie Waies and Miss Gilman
of New York. Mr. and Mrs. Clark left Wednesday for Europe.

—Mayor Bothwell was one of the guests
at the quarterly meeting of the State Highway Association, Tuesday evening, together with Alder Mr. Deane and Councilman Wing. Superintendent Charles W.
Ross, Mr. C. A. Peck, Mayor Bothwell spoke highly of the profession of road building, and stated that in a measure
some of the difficulties had been overcome
as to street construction in New England.
If the policy of having all the underground service put in before the road is built could be followed a very large item of repair work would be overcome.

—It is proposed that the camp of the state militia this year shall be one of practical work, and an effort will be made to instruct the troops in campaign and emergency duty. A regiment will be sent out each day from the camp ground and will march some six miles, to grounds already secured, and there pitch shelter tents, to do their own cooking, throw out pickets, etc. Wagons will be supplied for camp equipment, but only such as would be used in actual campaign will be allowed.
Commanding officers will not be notified
upon what day they will go out on campaign duty, but they will be expected to have one cooked and one uncooked ration

on hand ready for the emergency call at all times.

—The residents around 'oyd's pond are beginning to think it is about time the improvements begun there were carried out, instead of the bed of the pond being left as a public nuisance. One plan suggested is to have Waban street extended through to Morse street, making a direct way to the street cars, and opening up a good deal of valuable building land. The expense would be returned to the city in the increased valuation of the property,
and it would not cost as much as a park,
and would be of some practical benefit.

—A very pleasing Old Folks Concert was given Tuesday evening under the leadership of E. L. Bacon at the North church, Nonantum. A large chorus very well rendered the "old time songs", while solos,
duets, quartets and orchestral selections diversified the program. Two of the best selections were "Grandma's Advice", charmingly rendered by Miss Alice Butler,
and the pathetic duet sung by Messrs.
Mayell and Foss. Special thanks are due to Mrs. Atwood, Miss Leavitt and Messrs.
Redmond and son for their valuable assistance.

—The musicale at the Hunnewell Hill Club was given Tuesday evening, called on a large attendance of members and their friends. The grounds were decorated with Chinese lanterns, which made a very pretty effect under the trees, until the rain interfered. The ladies of the members' families and other guests were present and it was a very pleasant social affair. Mr. T.
E. Trowbridge had charge of the program,
and in whose of the entertainment
made a witty speech, introducing many of the members by some happy puns. The program consisted of piano duets by Mrs.
Farrington and Mrs. Barrows, songs by Miss Leslie Grant and Miss Cole, and guitar solos by Mr. Marshall. After the music, refreshments were served.

—Some rather startling reports have been current of little girls being accosted by strange men in Farlow Park, and two children were mentioned where the children made a great outcry and got away. The stories hardly seemed probable, as the park is overlooked by houses, and investigation rather seems to intimate that the stories were without foundation. For several years a man has been at work in the park, and is there at all hours of the day. Had any such disturbances occurred
he would have known of it, unless it happened in the evening, when children are not usually allowed out of doors. He keeps a strict watch over the park, as many of the boys know, as if they don't leave the park driven off without money,
and very little happens without his knowledge. Had such a thing occurred, the police think he would have known of it.
Young children have a very vivid imagination, and anything happens to any of their number, they often tell of similar things that happened to them, when such
could not possibly have been the case.
Most parents have found out that truthfulness does not seem to be innate with many children, until they are taught better. The reports had a rather sensational air, and it certainly would have been very strange if Farlow Park, a small space in heart of the city, should not be safe for children. Parents can feel reasonably sure that their children are safe there, at least during the daytime.

CARS WILL SPEED ON BOULEVARD.

LOCATION GRANTED TO COMMONWEALTH AVENUE COMPANY—NOVEL PROPOSITION OF ALDERMAN GREEN TO SECURE SOME RETURN TO THE CITY FOR THE VALUABLE FRANCHISE—PROMINENT CITIZENS DRAWN AS JURORS—NEW ENGLAND COMPANY GRANTED PERMIT TO USE CREOSOTE WOOD CONDUITS FOR UNDERGROUND WIRES—ROUTINE BUSINESS.

Both branches of the city government met in their respective chambers in the City Hall, Monday evening.

In the board of mayor and alderman, the first matter of business was brought up by the mayor who announced the presentation of the report of the city auditor. It was received and placed on file.

Various petitions were next disposed of. One of Carlton street residents opposing the laying of curb stones, one of M. J. Connelly for grading and partial construction of sidewalks on Beacon street and another of J. A. Andrews, et al., requesting the proper filling of Hammond street, Suffolk road and Kingsbury street claimed to have been left in bad condition following the work of laying sewers, were referred to the highway committee.

On petitions of the Newton & Watertown Gas Light Co. for permit to attach its wires to poles of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Co. on Bellevue, Fountain and Valentine streets, the latter having given its consent, hearings were ordered for Monday evening, June 3, at 8 o'clock.

The following persons were drawn to serve as jurors: (superior court); B. M. Katelle, Prince street; Walter C. Ware, Seaverns street; George M. Cox, River street; Dennis J. O'Donnell, Lexington street; Robert C. Bridgman, Newtonville avenue; Lyman W. King, Greenwood street; Allison Burr, Park street; Louis H. Farlow, Waverley avenue; Harry H. Keith, Crafts street; Herbert E. Johnson, Pearl street.

Alderman White presented the petition of the successors of the National Fireworks Company for permit to erect several wooden buildings on land situated on Needham street; also petitions of same concern for licenses for manufacture and store of fireworks and for keeping gun powder to be used in said manufacturing. The number of buildings required for the plant was 19, the largest of which is to be 40x30 feet.

Mayor Bothfield asked Alderman White if he knew of any objections. Has there been any objection he inquired on the part of citizens?

In reply, Alderman White, stated that he knew of no objections. He moved the reference of the petitions to the license committee.

The mayor suggested advertising a hearing as it was a matter of considerable importance.

Alderman Plummer said that in view of the hazardous character of the business, he thought it would be advisable to refer the matter to the building inspector. He informs me, said he, that he had no knowledge of the petitions until tonight and that he has not considered the subject.

It was finally decided to provide for a hearing Monday evening, May 20. The order for hearing was subsequently rescinded on motion of Alderman Plummer who stated that he had been informed by the chief of the fire department that the company owned some 30 acres of land and the plant would be practically isolated. It was then voted to grant the building permits and licenses asked for.

Renewals of licenses for express wagons were granted M. I. Cox, R. Kirk, E. Sands, J. H. Smith and J. W. Martin, employees of Adams Express Company.

Petitions of C. H. Stacy, et al., for sewer in Henshaw street and of E. W. Davis, et al., for sewer in Kirkland street were referred to the sewer committee. A claim of $1890 on account of land taken for sewer purposes between Rowe and Lexington street was also referred to that committee.

Alderman Green reported favorably for the street light committee on petition of New England Telephone Co. for permit to use creosote wood conduits for underground wires, and the board voted to grant the request.

The following orders were adopted: Authorizing committee on military affairs to make necessary arrangements for the participation of city council in the Memorial Day exercises and appropriating $300 for expenses; authorizing the locating of street lights in various localities, including two on Berwick road, six on Brighton street, one on Oak street, one on Washington street in front of Fire Station No. 2; authorizing the city treasurer to pay over to the sinking fund commissioners the sum of $3058, amount collected for certain sewer assessments; appropriating $2040 for water mains in Edinboro street, Kirkland, Winton and Ware roads and Oak avenue.

At this point, prior to offering the order authorizing the street railway location on the new boulevard the agreement executed between the city and the Commonwealth Avenue Street Railway Company was presented. It was satisfactory to all as far as the city's interests are concerned in the history of valuable franchises in this municipality. The company is required to keep the reserved space in good condition, the grass to be cut regularly at its expense. All the work of construction is to be under the supervision of the city's agents and to be made satisfactory to the city. In the event of changing the locations of tracks if the company is so ordered by the city, the latter must pay the bill also the cost of any changes on account of interference with existing locations. The agreement was placed on file.

Following the reading of the agreement, Alderman Bullard presented the order granting to the Commonwealth Avenue Street Railway Company locations for a double line of tracks, poles and fixtures for the operation of a street railway on the new boulevard from the Boston line to Washington street, Auburndale. The order requires the use of a 58 lb rail, that where loam is removed there shall be a filling of broken stone, the keeping of the reserved space in good condition, the exercise of care in preventing avoidable injury to plants or shrubs, the use of paving between and 18 inches outside the rails at all crossings, the putting up of hard pine poles of suitable quality and properly painted between the tracks, the placing of cross arms for electric light or other wires, the reimbursing of the city on account of repairs necessitated by changes in locatations; the use of proper methods to prevent damage through electrolysis to water or other underground pipes; the prohibiting of the leasing of any of the rights acquired under the order without the consent of the mayor and aldermen. It is also stipulated that if the Commonwealth Avenue Street Railway Company fails to construct its road and run cars thereon over the entire route within one year from the date of the passage of the order that the locations granted shall be void.

The construction of a single track with the necessary fixtures shall, however, be deemed a sufficient guarantee of good faith, and the laying of the second track may be postponed until it seems apparent that its use is required by the public. Alderman Green said that he had requested the street railway committee to incorporate as a requirement that the boulevard should be lighted at the expense of the street railway company. I think, said he, that it should provide the electric lights necessary from the Boston line to the end of the route. A great deal has been said, he added, relative to valuable street privileges granted heretofore for which the city has received no remuneration. It is fitting that something in the way of return should find its way into the city treasury. This is a valuable franchise if secured by the Commonwealth Avenue Street Railway Company, and in view of the privileges it gives it seems to me that the city should be compensated, at least to the extent suggested. It seems to me that the company should be required to light the avenue as a means of public safety. It would be quite a saving for the city as the expense to it of providing necessary light would figure up about $3500 per annum.

Alderman Bullard—The reason that the street railway committee did not include the requirement referred to by Alderman Green was that there was a statutory obstacle in the way. Besides that, the gas and electric light commissioners refused to entertain the proposition and the Commonwealth Avenue Street Railway Company refused to accept the franchise if that condition was incorporated. The committee feels that the street railway company has met the city in a liberal spirit and shown a disposition to be fair. It is thought too that the order as drawn is one which does consider the city's interests and that some return is received for the franchise.

Alderman Green—I am aware that there is a statutory provision preventing street railways from manufacturing electricity for lighting purposes. That, however, is not my proposition; I don't want the Commonwealth Avenue Company to manufacture the electricity; I simply want it to furnish the light. My idea was that it could hire the light required of the Newton & Watertown Gas Light Company.

Alderman Hamilton—It seems to me that the Commonwealth Avenue company has been fair. I would like to know, however, whether there is anything in the way of preventing the insertion of some condition that would enable the city to get some return, say when the road became sufficiently prosperous? I think that the city has gone as far as it ever should in regard to giving these valuable street privileges to corporations, practically as a free gift.

Alderman Plummer—It should be remembered that the Commonwealth Avenue company has not asked for a location through a public highway. In this particular case, I think the city should meet the company in the same liberal spirit that has characterized the former's overtures from the first. We must pursue a broad policy. I believe that the railroad on the new boulevard will be of incalculable value in building it up. The railroad, in my opinion, will develop the boulevard, not the boulevard the railroad.

City Solicitor Slocum was asked for an opinion regarding the street lighting proposition. The company under its charter, he said, would not be authorized to light the streets either directly or indirectly.

Alderman Green—Would not the lighting of the street be regarded as a measure in the interests of public safety?

Mr. Slocum—The proposition is a novel one. I am inclined to believe that it cannot be accomplished under existing statutory restrictions.

Alderman Green—Would not the provision of light as a means of safety be regarded as a parallel proposition with mowing the grass or paving from curb to curb?

Mr. Slocum—I think that such provisions as you refer to were secured through special legislation.

After some further discussion, the order in the shape in which it was presented by Alderman Bullard was passed, no votes being recorded in opposition to the granting of the franchise. The standing rule or ordinance relating to propelling of street cars was amended for the purpose of enabling companies running through reserved spaces to increase the speed above the usual limit of 8 miles per hour. The object of the change is, of course, to facilitate rapid transit on the boulevard.

On the petition of the Commonwealth Avenue Street Railway Company for permit to continue a double line of tracks from Washington street over the boulevard to the Charles river, with the right to put up poles and other necessary fixtures, a hearing was ordered for Monday, June 3, at 8 o'clock.

Several petitions from the common council were referred to the appropriate committees in concurrence and it was then voted to adjourn.

Joint Debate in Brookline.

The third annual joint debate between the Brookline high and Newton high schools was held Saturday evening in the lower town hall in Brookline. There was a very large attendance of pupils and friends of both schools.

The subject of the debate was "Resolved, that the United States is pursuing the right policy in building up her navy." The affirmative side was supported by the Newton boys, Messrs. Edwin O. Childs, Jr., Philip Burgess and William S. Barnard. The Brookline boys upheld the negative. They were Messrs. Marshall Sterns, Stephen C. Wolcott and Charles W. Kellogg. The M. I. T. orchestra added to the excellent program a number of selections. Mr. Aaron H. Latham presided.

"What a lovely exhibit!" is a common remark of ladies, as they pass Hood's reception parlors at the Pharmacy Fair, Boston, and the elegantly furnished rooms are alike the theme of admiring comment and the resort of many lady visitors who there find rest and comfort after their tiresome rounds of sight-seeing. The thoughtful-ness of the Pharmacy Fair is evidenced only by pre-eminent merits and popularity of their Sarsaparilla and other preparations, which have become household words.

KITCHEN BAR ROOMS MUST GO. ASSOCIATION HEADED BY REV. FR. DOLAN ORGANIZED TO ROOT THEM OUT.

The house of Rev. Fr. Michael Dolan held a gathering of very interested and enthusiastic men Wednesday evening. The assemblage was there in response to invitations sent by Father Dolan to the leading citizens of Nonantum district, requesting that they meet to form an organization to combat the illegal liquor traffic which has been carried on so extensively and so slyly for the past ten years.

Last Sunday Father Dolan preached a sermon denouncing the illicit sale of liquor as carried on almost under the walls of the church, and defining the duties of good citizens to be to aid the authorities in suppressing the nuisance. After the sermon the before-mentioned invitations were sent out, with the result that more than 100 good citizens interested in the welfare and good order of their town presented themselves.

The special purpose of the meeting was to sign a petition, to be placed before the board of Aldermen, requesting that extreme measures be taken to root out the kitchen bar-rooms from the Nonantum district. The petition requests that officers be stationed at points in the district with authority and warrants for the arrest of any person who may be suspected of running a "speakeasy," or any person frequenting such a place.

Father Dolan, in a few remarks at the opening of the meeting, said that attempts have been made to put a stop to this nuisance for a number of years past, but all such endeavors had, heretofore, proved futile. He hoped that the association just organized would meet with better success than had hitherto been achieved. In case their plans did not prove successful, he was in favor of having a license so that the city would get some benefit from the sales.

Father Dolan is a strictly temperate man himself, and for a number of years has worked hard against the sale of liquor in Newton, and it is hoped that he and his followers will prove effective in ferreting out, and convicting the violators of the liquor laws.

Newton, year after year, gives an overwhelming majority against license, but despite this fact the police have found it exceedingly difficult to put a stop to the illegal sales in the kitchen bar-rooms. Notwithstanding constant raids, and the utmost activity, new ones constantly spring into existence and flourish for a time.

The population of the district is largely foreign in its origin, and is constantly changing. These facts make the work of detecting illegal sales unusually difficult, but it has been found that the chief obstacle in the way of a severe enforcement of the law is the absence of the strong public sentiment against the trade, which has helped to free other parts of the city from the illegal sellers. The gentlemen whom Father Dolan has interested in the work to create, and good results are confidently looked for.

Literary Notes.

"Familiar Flowers of Field and Garden" is the title of a new popular book on flowers which seems to have originated by the omissions and errors of preceding essays in this direction. It appears that the author, Mr. F. Schuyler Mathews, is a botanist and artist as well as a writer, and his drawings have a peculiar value. Some special points of the book are the illustrations of the commonest flowers, and an elaborate descriptive index showing at a glance the botanical names, seasons, and habits of the familiar flowers. The publishers are D. Appleton & Co.

A popular but authoritative book on birds has been needed for some time, and a warm welcome awaits the "Hand-book of Birds of Eastern North America," by Frank M. Chapman, of the American Museum of Ornithology. This book, which is most profusely illustrated with pictures from Nature, contains keys to the species and descriptions of the plumage, nests, etc., of all birds found east of the Mississippi, and most of those in the extreme West. The author's position has enabled him to learn the special requirements of amateurs and beginners, and the problem of identification, either in the field or study, is reduced to its simplest forms. Advance sheets of the book have been read by Prof. Allen, editor of The Auk, Olive Thorne Miller, Bradford Torrey, and other ornithologists, who have welcomed and recommended the work to all amateurs and students. D. Appleton & Co., the publishers, will issue a pocket as well as a library edition.

A Remarkable Cure of Rheumatism.

[From the Groton Connecticut Review.] David Lewis, who has been afflicted all winter by rheumatism, is out again and all due to one of the medicines advertised in our columns. After trying everything possible, he used Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which has relieved him of all pain, from which he was a constant sufferer, and promises to make him fit for duty soon. We know David has been a great sufferer and are glad to see him around again. For sale by Arthur Hudson, Newton; E. W. Keves, Auburndale; B. B. Buck, Newton Centre; E. F. Partridge, Newtonville; B. Billings, Newton Upper Falls; J. H. Green, Newton Highlands, Druggists.

THE WHIST FIEND.

HE KNOWS IT ALL AND MAKES EVERYBODY WEARY.

There is one variety of the whist fiend I do not like, says a writer in the Pittsfield Sun. It is the man who sets himself up as an authority on that noble and much-abused game. All one has to do in order to be a self-made authority on whist is to be able to repeat the formula, "ace, king, queen, jack," the maxim, "never trump your partner's ace," and to have once seen a copy of Hoyle.

Any one possessing this data and a strong pair of lungs can shine as an authority and reformer at the various neighborly whist parties, where the neighbors meet informally to have a good time, where whist is merely discussed, and you're supposed to play just to pass away the evening, where the women gather together to enjoy the game and compare household notes, where the men meet to forget their cares, chat with the ladies and enjoy themselves.

In such places the whist authority comes like a wet blanket over the joy of the evening. He has been invited in to help the game on. Poor, misguided company.

Before the evening is over he has nearly broken up the party by merely airing the valuable knowledge he possesses on the subject of whist.

He calls the ladies down on their method of playing, rebukes the men because they do not know as much as he, and before the evening is over gets himself thoroughly disliked.

But he does not care. He holds forth during refreshment time on the duties of playing whist properly, brings up little personal reminiscences of the evening, calling the attention of the whole company to the fact that little Mrs. Brown doesn't know a heart from a spade, Mrs. Brown blushes, and Brown gets so mad he threatens to leave. But the hostess prevails on him to stay, and after the refreshments the game goes on.

But the interest flags, and all of the company, except the authority, play in a sulky, half-hearted manner. But the authority doesn't care. He is having a splendid time, and he holds forth on correct playing and calls down every one who throws a card. He is the show of the evening, but he is not popular.

The women hate him for showing up their mistakes, and the men despise him for being a cad. He is shunned. His invitations grow fewer and fewer. People do not dare invite him. He wonders why he is not invited out to play whist any more when he tried so hard to bring about a correct mode of playing.

He wanders about from one club to another, but ends in being dropped by all. Wearily and listlessly he spends his evenings, his life refusing to play with him. Poor, misguided man, like many another reformer, you have struck 12. You have thrown a pall over the innocent joys of your neighborhood. You have gotten yourself disliked for so doing.

Now you can either stay at home nursing your knowledge, or else throw it away, get a new birth and come humbly and repeatedly, and as the rest of us, for a good time only in our whist parties. We will take you back, and you can play with us once more, if you'll only drop "what you know about whist."

Zingari, 103; Newton, 38.

The Zingari club visited Newton last Saturday afternoon and played with the home team defeating it in an easy manner. The fielding was good, but the feature of the game was the batting of Villiers and Howard. Lambert of the Zingaris had four wickets to his credit for four runs.

The Newton Athletic Association nine had little trouble in defeating the Harrison of Cambridge on the Newton Centre playground Saturday afternoon.

The features of the game were the batting of Hubbard, the catching of Cushing and Allen and the fielding of Hovey and Farrell.

Jack Highlands was in the box for Newton the latter part of the game, and pitched in his old-time form.

It Did The Business.

Mr. J. H. Cobb, publisher of the Mirror, at Boston, N. Y., says: "For nearly two years the Mirror has been published the advertisements of Chamberlain's Remedies. The state solons are evidently becoming alarmed at the number of international marriages contracted of late, to which American girls have been parties. That they propose to discourage the practice is evident by a resolution submitted to the house today, and referred to the committee on federal relations.

The resolution was as follows: Resolved, That the members of the 30th general assembly of the state of Illinois do hereby request the daughters of Illinois not to accept the hand in marriage of any person who is not a citizen of the United States by right of birth or naturalization, as we are of the opinion that the daughters of Illinois should be patriotic in their views, and to disregard the title of any foreigner, and marry none but citizens of the United States.—Philadelphia Press.

An important conference was held in the Bell telephone building a few days ago, some of the head men in the company from other large cities having gathered to discuss a new switch-board, which it is understood the Bell company has patented.

It involves a complete change from the system now in use, but is a return in some ways to first principles. The present switchboards are built on the multiple principle, by which each wire can be connected with any other wire on the same switchboard.

The multiplication of telephones has made this arrangement very complicated and requires an enormous number of wires, and it is sought to simplify matters and reduce the size of the switchboards by arranging the wires in groups, each board caring for one group, and a trunk line being used to connect one group with another, something on the same principle as the several exchanges are now connected.

The introduction of this system and the arrangement of the new board are based on a series of statistics as to the connection of one line with another, gathered during several years.

At Zsombolga, a village in Bonat, (Hungary), Johann Szathmari and his wife celebrated the other day the 100th anniversary of their wedding.

Up to recently the couple, who have no relatives, were compelled to work for their living, but the parish council of Zsombolga, at a special meeting, resolved to allow the aged pair a pension for the remainder of their natural existence.

A trial in Italy of an amusing scene occurred the other day. One of the witnesses was a very pretty servant maid of the name of Giovannina Galardi.

On entering the witness box she was received with signs of admiration by the jury, by counsel, and by all present. She stood facing the judge, who said to her:

"I beg you, my pretty girl, to turn also toward the jury, as I do not wish it to be said that I alone have the privilege of admiring your beauty."

On leaving the witness box, at the end of her examination, she was followed by murmurs of admiration. In an account of the trial given by a leading local newspaper it is stated that she was a great success, and should have the first prize for beauty.—London News.

It is possible that during the close, hot nights of the summer New Yorkers may enjoy a few hours' cool breeze when he could walk into the breath of winter, where there were neither mosquitoes, flies nor uncomfortable overcoating?

Where blistered noses and sunburned faces have been the rule during the summer, frostbitten feet and chilblains must become popular, and swaggy young men and women who have given themselves to the pleasures of golf will now turn to the equally transatlantic pastime of curling.

The rules which govern good masculine dressing in town are very easy to follow. A man has only to be neat and conventional, and avoid all foppishness and affectation, and the object is practically attained.

In the country it is different, and much greater individuality is allowable, and a man's country outfit is even more elaborate and varied than that of a woman.

This summer the "knickerbockers" will probably be the most popular rig (or most occasions, as they are worn for both golf and bicycling).

White trousers, either flannel or duck, a cheviot shirt, a dark blue or light gray sack coat, and a leather belt make a correct and gentlemanly costume for hot weather.

Flannel shirts, except for athletics, are quite obsolete, and if cheviots are worn they will generally have white collars and cuffs.

A striped shirt with stiff, high, turned-over collar and white cuffs is now much esteemed.

Newton's Memorial Hall.

Oh where is that Memorial Hall?
That structure I would fain see,
Stop stranger, do not further seek,
That hall is in the mind.

Yes, in the pigments of the brain
Memorial Hall looks fair,
But like the castles built in Spain
Its walls rest on the air.

But when it gets to Bothfeld's mind,
"His honor's" as it oughter,
You'll see that wall in tawny rise
In solid brick and mortar.

Then Cladin Guards and tough old vets,
With pleasure and surprise
Will have an armory and a hall,
Wherein to swap their lies.

MILL PROPERTY BURNED.

BRISK EARLY MORNING BLAZE IN LOWER FALLS—LOSS $5000.

The Finlay toilet paper mill, situated on Washington street, Newton Lower Falls, was the scene of a brisk conflagration early Monday morning. The fire occasioned two alarms. The first was rung in at 2:05 o'clock and the second just 5 minutes later. The overturning of a kerosene lamp, the watchman claims, was responsible for the blaze. He says that he was getting everything in readiness, to start up the machinery when the lamp was accidentally upset and exploded. The flames, he asserts, spread with alarming alacrity and burst through the roof two minutes after the explosion. When the first piece of fire apparatus arrived on the ground, the tall iron stack fell and soon all that remained of the structure was the charred ruins.

The building was constructed of stone and wood. The plant was not very valuable. It is estimated that the loss on building and contents is about $5000.

And This Was in Newton!

To the Editor of the GRAPHIC:—

Last Saturday while riding on an electric car from Watertown to Newtonville I was compelled to witness an instance of brutality that seemed incredible here in this good city of Newton.

A horse attached to a buggy got frightened at the car and stopped.

If the driver had been patient the terrified animal would have gone ahead all right as soon as the car passed, but he lashed the horse most savagely. Then, when the horse, bewildered by the beating, did not rush ahead to suit him, the man jumped out of the buggy, caught the head bridle with his left hand and then, with his closed right fist plied blow after blow upon the head and neck of the horse!

This was on one of the public highways of Newton, within sight of the spires of three churches, near a public school house, and in the midst of comfortable homes!

This man was not a drunken teamster but a well dressed person, driving out with a lady.

There was no chance for any of the disgusted passengers in the car to expostulate with him, nor was there any way to get his name and turn him over to the hands of Mr. Angell's society.

It seems proper to call attention to this matter here because we have advanced a very short Christian religion, leaving the duty of kindness to the lower animals, if such a scene is possible in Newton.

More copies of such publications as "Our Dumb Animals," should be circulated among us, but above all there must be a clearer recognition of the fact that tenderness and pity are essentially parts of the Christian religion, and that the merciful man will not be merciful only to men but to his beast.

GEO. W. SHINN.

ALDERMAN GREEN presented a very ingenious scheme, Monday night, in the discussion over granting a location to the Commonwealth avenue Street Railway company. He thought that the city ought to get some return for valuable franchises, and in this case he thought a fair return would be that the company should light the avenue, which will cost the city about $3500 a year, if the city has to do it. It was objected to this, that electric street railway companies cannot under the statute engage in the business of manufacturing or distributing electric lights, but Alderman Green thought it would be easy to get around this, as the company will have to put up poles along the avenue, and by allowing the Newton and Watertown Gas company to use the poles, they would probably be willing to furnish the electric lights at a low figure. The city solicitor was hardly prepared to say that such an arrangement could be legally made, so it was not insisted on, but the scheme is a good one, and calls attention to the foolishness, to call it nothing worse, of giving away valuable franchises, without receiving any equivalent. The Commonwealth avenue company may not be a good one to begin with, as it will probably have to scratch for its nickels for some time to come, but it will in time have a large income, and in some future time could afford to pay for its privileges. A city ought to derive revenue enough from its franchises to go a long way towards paying its yearly expenses, instead of giving them to any corporation that asks for it. After incorporation once gets a franchise, it immediately puts a large valuation upon it, as has been found many times when the franchise is offered for sale, or a city wishes to assume the ownership of it. Cities in other parts of the country get a revenue from such things, but here in Massachusetts there are so many statutory regulations that it looks as if the corporations had made the laws in their own interests, without much regard to the interests of the public.

THE action taken by Father Dolan, towards breaking up the illegal liquor selling in Nonantum, will have the approval of all good citizens, and all will hope that his efforts will be crowned with success. He has called to his aid 100 of the prominent Catholics of the district, and the influence of the public sentiment will doubtless be felt. Perhaps if those who rent buildings to these illegal kitchen bar-rooms could be induced to join the movement, it would prove more effectual. There are some houses with such an unsavory history that they seem to lead every occupant to engage in the rum business.

THEY are having a great time in Waltham, over the construction of the Newton Street Railway's new line on Moody street. The city government has been quarrelling for weeks over the matter, the city engineer has given the wrong grade, or the railway engineer has adopted the wrong grade and the air has been quite heated, in spite of the cold wave. It is said that city policies are at the bottom of most of the trouble, and judging from the Waltham papers, the statement is not far out of the way.

IT is reported that work will begin on the connecting link between the Boston and Newton ends of Commonwealth avenue within 30 days. The mayor of Boston has authorized the two million loan, which is to provide for the building of this and other street extensions. This will be good news to those interested in our boulevard.

THE Appraisers, Messrs. Edward F. Barnes and James W. French, are to begin work next Monday, on the property on that section of Washington street, between Nonantum square and Harvard street. This looks like business, and people will begin to believe that Washington street is really to be widened.

ADMIRAL MEADE has won a national reputation by his capacity for getting himself and other people into hot water. He has quarrels on hand with about half a dozen men, besides his little affair with the government. The hot climate of the gulf must have spoiled his temper.

A REMARKABLE discovery has been made in Newton Centre, as some one there claims to have seen several "scarlet tangles," according to a local paper.

THE Fitchburg Railroad East Bound Limited Express with through sleepers from Chicago, due in Boston at 10:30 P. M., will on and after May 19th arrive in Boston at 9 P. M., a saving of one and one half hours in time from all principal points in the West. This change will be greatly appreciated by tourists enroute from the West to the mountain and sea shore resorts of New England.

legislature has done a good deal to educate the people up to the need of this reform.

THE weather has been the principal topic of conversation the past week. The wheelmen and others who did not place faith in the weather predictions last Sunday morning, came home with sadly dragged plumage, and as it was the third successive Sunday that has been stormy, it caused great disappointment to those who have only that day for an outing. The fall in the mercury that followed the storm brought the coldest weather for May that we have had in many years, and following so closely upon the extreme heat, it was very uncomfortable, and colds are more fashionable than ever. The harrowing tales that come from the west of snow storms and great damage to crops and fruit, should be taken with some allowance for the vivid imagination of the western newsgatherer, but there seems to be no question, unfortunately, that the loss will be very large, and the western farmers, who have had so many bad years, will be about discouraged.

THE apple tree worm is making its appearance again, and the old fight will have to be renewed with promptness, if the pest is to be kept under. Nests are already appearing on the trees, and the best way to get rid of them is to cut off the branches on which they cling and burn them. Trying to burn them on the trees with a torch is never very effective, as after a little time the nest is built again and the work has to be done over. The warfare against these pests has been so general for the past two or three years that it ought to be an easy matter to keep them from doing much damage this year.

THE Commonwealth avenue street railway has now got its location from the Boston line to Washington street, West Newton, and it has already made application for an extension to the Charles River, although the street is not yet built. It shows the faith of the railway people, however, that the boulevard is to be extended without delay. They say that they intend to begin laying their tracks without delay, and possibly we shall see cars running this summer. The railroad people are to take care of the space reserved for cars, and are to be allowed to exceed the eight miles an hour prescribed for cars that run in the streets.

THE action taken by Father Dolan, towards breaking up the illegal liquor selling in Nonantum, will have the approval of all good citizens, and all will hope that his efforts will be crowned with success. He has called to his aid 100 of the prominent Catholics of the district, and the influence of the public sentiment will doubtless be felt. Perhaps if those who rent buildings to these illegal kitchen bar-rooms could be induced to join the movement, it would prove more effectual. There are some houses with such an unsavory history that they seem to lead every occupant to engage in the rum business.

THEY are having a great time in Waltham, over the construction of the Newton Street Railway's new line on Moody street. The city government has been quarrelling for weeks over the matter, the city engineer has given the wrong grade, or the railway engineer has adopted the wrong grade and the air has been quite heated, in spite of the cold wave. It is said that city policies are at the bottom of most of the trouble, and judging from the Waltham papers, the statement is not far out of the way.

IT is reported that work will begin on the connecting link between the Boston and Newton ends of Commonwealth avenue within 30 days. The mayor of Boston has authorized the two million loan, which is to provide for the building of this and other street extensions. This will be good news to those interested in our boulevard.

THE Appraisers, Messrs. Edward F. Barnes and James W. French, are to begin work next Monday, on the property on that section of Washington street, between Nonantum square and Harvard street. This looks like business, and people will begin to believe that Washington street is really to be widened.

ADMIRAL MEADE has won a national reputation by his capacity for getting himself and other people into hot water. He has quarrels on hand with about half a dozen men, besides his little affair with the government. The hot climate of the gulf must have spoiled his temper.

A REMARKABLE discovery has been made in Newton Centre, as some one there claims to have seen several "scarlet tangles," according to a local paper.

THE Fitchburg Railroad East Bound Limited Express with through sleepers from Chicago, due in Boston at 10:30 P. M., will on and after May 19th arrive in Boston at 9 P. M., a saving of one and one half hours in time from all principal points in the West. This change will be greatly appreciated by tourists enroute from the West to the mountain and sea shore resorts of New England.

Y. M. C. A.

The Boys' meeting next Sunday afternoon will be conducted by Roger Shapleigh, beginning at 3 o'clock.

The meeting for men at 4 o'clock will be one of unusual interest as five workers from the People's church, Boston, will be present and will conduct the service. Special music will be rendered.

Rev. Dillon Bronson will give his illustrated lecture on Japan to the members of the Junior department, Thursday evening, May 23. Every member is welcome.

At a special meeting of the Board of Directors, held last Wednesday evening, the following chairmen of committees were appointed by the president—Devotional, F. M. Morton; Membership, W. H. Weston; Reception, W. H. Doane; Athletic, George Mason; Boys' work, D. J. Mc Nichols; Finance, George C. Dunne; Nominating, J. Myles Standish. The vacancy in the Board of Directors was filled by the election of Mr. F. M. Morton of Newtonville.

Choice Trees

Shrubs, vines, flower and vegetable seeds can be found at the Wellesley Nursery Co., Newton Lower Falls. They attend to the laying out, planting and care of grounds, and have a fine stock of trees and shrubs of all kinds, which will repay inspection as their plants are fine ones and their prices very reasonable. They will attend to all orders sent by mail to Lower Falls, and if desired will call upon you. See adv.

Since 1861 I have been a great sufferer from catarrh. I tried Ely's Cream Balm and to all appearances am cured. Terrible headaches from which I had long suffered are gone.—W. J. Hitchcock, Late Major U. S. Vol. and A. Gen., Buffalo, N. Y. Ely's Cream Balm has completely cured me of catarrh when everything else failed. Many acquaintances have used it with excellent results.—Alfred W. Stevens, Caldwell, Ohio.

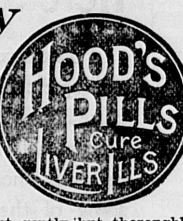

Price of Cream Balm is fifty cents.

June 17 is going to be picturesque far beyond the ordinary this year, for the Boston Masons will then celebrate the 100th anniversary of the dedication of Bunker Hill monument. They expect to make a grander display than the Hub has seen since the dedication of the Massachusetts temple, 30 years ago. Gov. Greenhalge is booked for an oration.

IN great variety at Chandler & Co's, Winter street, Boston. Prices from $2.50 to $21.00, for very desirable garments. Waists in all desirable styles, both cotton and silk.

Easy

To buy, easy to take and easy in effect, are characteristics peculiar to Hood's Pills. They are small, tasteless, and purely vegetable. They act gently but thoroughly and satisfactorily. They do not irritate or inflame the intestines, but leave them in natural, healthy condition. 25 cents.

NEWTONVILLE.

Pianos rented and tuned, Farley, Newton.

Russell Wheeler of Pittsburg, Pa., is here this week visiting relatives.

Members of the Newtonville Cycle club enjoyed a run to Medford last Sunday.

The Misses Morse have returned from a visit to Andover.

Mr. W. B. Page and family of Washington park removed shortly to New Hampshire.

Mr. Stephen Thacher and family, formerly of Lowell street, have removed to Cambridge.

Newton high defeated Belmont easily in a game in the latter place, Tuesday, winning out by a score of 23 to 4.

William Pressey of Gardner, Me., a former resident, was in town this week visiting friends.

Capt. C. E. Davis is in charge at police headquarters during the absence of City Marshal Richardson in Washington.

Miss Savory and Miss Ide of Troy, N. Y., are the guests of Miss Winifred Pulsifer of Walnut street.

Mr. John Carter is soon to take possession of his house here on Highland avenue, at present occupied by Dr. Whiston and family.

There are letters at the postoffice for John S. Byrne, Mrs. J. C. Hyde, S. F. Heath, Miss Mary McLean, Miss McLean, Miss Mary L. Miner and E. F. Owens.

Gordon H. Rhodes has received a certificate from the Massachusetts Board of Registration of Pharmacy, having completed successfully the prescribed course.

The new police station and court house is positively an assured fact and it may be located close to Homer street and near the boulevard. It is a central site and easy of access from all points.

Ralph Gullow is the mascot of the Garden City Wheelmen. He is a son of Lieut. Gullow and a diminutive chap who rides well and certainly makes a smart appearance.

The inquiries are now coming in pretty regular relative to the town square, when will it be thrown its spray about and become a realistic thing of beauty again?

The boys who dammed up the brook have had sense enough not to try the experiment again. A repetition of that style of fun may bring some youths behind the bars.

Mr. W. F. Lunt, who broke his leg recently as a result of being thrown from his bicycle, is getting along as well as could be expected. Like all active business men, he is a bit restive to be out and about again.

Turner street residents are evidently opposed to pole locations. They protested vigorously when it came to their knowledge that the telephone company was seeking that privilege there.

Mr. Frank E. Chagnon, the upholsterer, is very seriously ill with "La Grippe" at his home in Springfield and it is not probable that he will be able to resume his work here for some time, due to the fact of which will be given his patrons.

A matinee musicale under the auspices of the Newtonville Woman's Guild will be given in the Universalist church parlors next Thursday afternoon. A fine program will be presented and the "Treble Clef" new ladies' double quartet will be heard in the public for the first time.

The president, secretary, and five other delegates of the Newton Associated Charities will attend the National Conference of Charities and Corrections, held in New Haven from Friday, May 24, to Thursday, May 30, and the office of the Society will be closed during that period.

The Newtonville Woman's Guild branch of the Boston Flower and Fruit Mission began its work for the season on Tuesday, May 14th. Donations may be left at the Newtonville station, Tuesdays and Fridays between eight and nine a. m. until October.

Methodist Episcopal church. The pastor, Rev. Franklin Hamilton, will preach both morning and evening. Morning topic at 10:45, "The Anvil of God." Evening topic at 7:30, "God's Voice in Municipal Rule, with a word for Newton." Special music with solo in the evening. All seats free.

Alderman Green made a big fight for the city Monday night at the session of the city council. He wanted the city to purchase Commonwealth avenue made a condition of the street railway franchise on that thoroughfare. There are legal obstacles in the way, but they could have been easily got around in the opinion of many citizens.

The Ladies' quartet organized by Mrs. J. W. Dickinson made its first appearance in public at the annual supper of the West Newton Educational club. The selections of song were received with enthusiasm and the debut of this new organization may be considered most successful and promising much pleasure to future audiences.

The annual meeting of the Newtonville Women's Guild will be held Tuesday, May 21, at 3 p. m., in the Methodist vestry. A full attendance of members is desired as business of great importance is to be transacted. The annual outing of the club will be during the second week of June at Salem.

Newton chapter, F. A. M., exemplified the Royal Arch degree at Natick last evening upon the occasion of the district exemplification of the organization in Masonic Hall, that place. The work was performed by the chapters of the ninth Masonic district under the direction of R. E. Compans, Charles C. Henry, D. D., G. H. P., and Harry Hunt, grand lecturer.

The second concert in the Newton clubhouse in aid of the organ fund, was a social success. The principal soloists were Miss Gertrude Franklin, Miss Agnet Lund and Mr. Clarence Ashenden. The choir boys of the church, who were chosen to render the kinder symphonies, "The Merry Sleigh Ride," and "Electric Polka."

The last in the series of informal Saturday night entertainments for club members was held in the Newton clubhouse last Saturday evening. Straight whist furnished the evening's entertainment, and partners were selected at random. About 60 gentlemen were present. The prizes were awarded to the following pairs: Chapman and Shattuck; Folger and French; Perkins and Glover; Copeland and Carroll; Kimball and Copley; Lowell and Brackett.

Newtonville patrons of the First National bank are greatly pleased with the accommodation provided through the location of one of its representatives at J. F. Payne's pharmacy. Each morning from 9 until 11 o'clock, deposits are received and checks cashed. The bank authorities have placed a fine cashier's desk in position in front of the north window on Walnut street. It was made especially by the Payne Furniture Company of Boston, and is a model of exquisite workmanship, ornamental but also perfectly adapted for its distinctive uses.

A party of Boston business men were in town this week looking for a site for a manufacturing plant. They were favorably impressed with the section of land off Watertown street, comprising what is known as the Magnolia grounds. No overtures in the way of purchase have been made yet, simply because the precise location has not yet been definitely settled upon and because there is some doubt in the minds of those interested relative to the possibility of securing the Watertown street lot for a manufacturing plant. The business, it is claimed, requires only the services of high grade operatives and would be free from many objections on that account. The deal now is only in the initiative state and those chiefly concerned are not saying much about it or the character of business to be engaged in.

The work of the census enumerators is progressing satisfactorily in both precincts and the same may be said of the other wards of the city. Now is a good time to make a guess on the population of the city and get a magnificent diamond ring—not. It will surely reach the 30,000 mark. The figures will probably be in the hands of the bureau of labor statistics about the middle of June.

Mr. Hamilton is about to deliver the third series of his popular Sunday evening addresses for young people. The announcement of the topics will be made next week. The first of the course however, will be a Decoration Day address on the evening of May 20th. The address will be "My Country." The address is by request and will be the same as the one delivered before the Grand Army in several places. There will be patriotic music and several solos. All will be welcome.

In return for the hospitality shown them by the young ladies of Lasell at their reception to the Post in March, Charles Ward Post handsomely entertained the battalion last evening. At exactly eight o'clock when the fair girls and the "Old Vets" were lined up on each side on the large hall in true military order, Commander Whitney spoke a few words of cordial welcome for the Post, each "Grand Army Boy" selected from the ranks of Lasell, a partner, and was her gallant escort throughout the evening. Each young woman received as a souvenir, a badge representing a bean pod and the girls in return gave each vet a decorative emblem in bronze, the chief feature of the design being a flag. Miss Marion Osgood's orchestra accompanied the music and later on the Lasell battalion gave an exhibition drill. The spread was quite an elaborate one, and the supper room handsomely decorated, the stars and stripes being conspicuous in the ornate. Following the musical exercises, Commander Whitney called on Comrade Bradshaw who read an original humorous poem which was most amusing. Remarks were made by Captain Scott, Chaplain Alden D. Dwyer, Alderman Deane, Councilman Ober, Alderman Plummer and the First Commander of the Post, Hon. W. B. Fowle. The ceremonies closed with Lieut. Inman's cornet solo, "An Air for the Blue Guard." To say that the affair was a success is putting it mild and there would be little surprise if the Lasell battalion were made associate members of Charles Ward Post 62.

WEST NEWTON.

Miller pianos, Farley, Newton.

Mr. George Cook of Waltham street has returned from a trip south.

Rev. Mr. Daniels of Watertown street has returned from India.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Leatherbee of Hillside avenue have returned from Florida.

The members of the police department don their white helmets on Memorial day.

City Marshal Richardson is in Washington attending the national convention of the chiefs of police.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Mayo of Chestnut street have returned from Europe after an absence of three months.

Mr. I. H. Snow, the druggist, and Mr. J. Chace, dealer of Shaw street, are in Virginia for a ten days' stay.

An alarm was rung in from box 27 last Saturday afternoon for a brush fire off Alpine street. No serious damage resulted.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Rich of Henshaw street contemplate a trip to New Hampshire about June 1.

The house formerly occupied by Michael Pendergast on Chestnut street is being moved to a lot on Curve street.

Mr. Waldron of Boston, a missionary, gave an address in the Congregational church last Sunday evening.

Rev. Samuel M. Crothers of Cambridge will preach Sunday morning at the Unitarian church. Services at 10:45.

The Newton Ladies' Home Circle will hold its next meeting in the Unitarian church parlor, Wednesday, May 22 at 2 p. m.

Mr. Thomas B. Fitzpatrick delivered the address on behalf of the lady at the exercises in recognition of Archbishop William's golden jubilee.

An interesting game of ball last Saturday, the Allen school nine defeated the Chauncy Hall school team of Boston, by a score of 36 to 16.

Mr. H. H. Hunt has the contract of altering a building situated in Park Square, Boston. The structure is to be almost entirely remodelled.

Mr. Henry Hunt has bought a pair of blacked from Mr. Reynolds, who closed his place here this summer and will depart with his family soon for the seashore.

W. H. Mague has commenced work on the third section of the boulevard, taking in the stretch from Washington street to the Charles river.

The millinery store in Central block has closed up as a trade was not satisfactory. It takes a long time to build up a business in Newton, but when it is built up it is worth something.

The resignation of T. W. Czaizay as captain of J. Wiley Edmunds Camp 100, S. V., necessitated a special election last Friday evening, at which the officers were chosen. Captain Fred Ramsdell; First Lieut., A. E. Haynes; Second Lieut., H. L. Kimball.

At the last meeting of J. Wiley Edmunds Camp 100, S. V., a special election was held. The following are the officers elected: J. T. Ramsdell, captain; A. E. Haynes, 1st Lieut.; H. L. Kimball, 2nd Lieut.

Mr. Harry L. Ayer of the Neighborhood club is making preparations for the annual tennis tournament scheduled for June 26. It is rumored that Mr. Ayer has a big surprise party up his sleeve for the patrons of the club.

Henry Jones is 53 years old and a veteran of the war. Twenty years ago he sailed to have run from West Newton to Newtonville and return in ten minutes. He tried to do it again last Friday in the presence of 300 friends. He covered the distance in 18 minutes and 15 seconds.

City Treasurer Kenrick has advertised for bids for a $25,000 highway loan, $400 school loan and $80,000 boulevard loan. They fall due April 1, 1915 and bears interest at the rate of 4 per cent per annum, payable semi-annually. Proposals will be received up to 5 p. m., Thursday, May 23.

The idea seems prevalent here that too many patrolmen are required for service on the "hurry-up" wagon. Some of the men should be utilized, it is thought, for routes where additional police protection would be a source of gratification to the residents. The idea has been suggested of getting one or more men at a smaller salary to run on the wagon, but there is an obstacle in the way, the law requiring that they shall be regularly appointed officers.

The annual meeting of the Newton Equal Suffrage will be held on Wednesday, May 22, at 7:45 p. m., in the parlors of the Unitarian church. After the reading of the annual report, there will be a debate open to all, on the general question of Woman Suffrage, led by Miss Mary A. McIntire of Brookline, an opponent of the cause, and Miss Alice Blackwell, advocate. A cordial invitation is extended to all persons interested in the welfare of humanity. A social hour will terminate the meeting.

evening, upon the occasion of his 71st birthday. He received many congratulations and was the recipient of some valuable gifts, including a banquet lamp. Mr. F. A. Metcalf made the presentation speech and Mr. Seaver responded in his usual pleasant vein, expressing his grateful appreciation of his friends' mark of good will and esteem. Social features made the affair a very pleasant one. Mr. Metcalf favored the company with readings, tenor solos were rendered by Mr. Will Rice and Miss Nettie Lamm of Boston, and delightfully. About twenty-six members of the Legion of Honor, of which Mr. Seaver is an officer, were numbered among those present. A collation was served.

John Luskin, John Seary, Frank Flaherty and Edward Miller, whose ages range from 10 to 14 years, appeared in the police court yesterday morning to answer to a charge of larceny. The evidence was to the effect that the quartet had stolen a quantity of lead pipe from John Corcoran's storehouse in the Nantum district. The witnesses against the boys were Mr. Corcoran and Officer Tapley, who made the arrest. Judge Kennedy gave the boys a severe reprimand which was well deserved, especially against Miller, who, although but 10 years of age, is regarded as one of the most persistent offenders in the district. He has been before the court about half a dozen times for offenses ranging from disturbance to larceny. He has been arrested twice within the past year for larceny and is still on probation for one offense. The three elder boys were fined $5 each, and Miller was committed to the Lyman school.

The First National Bank has issued a valuable little book entitled, "Hints on Banking for Ladies." It is finely printed, attractive in make-up and contains information that will be greatly appreciated by the fair sex. "Women," it says, "are becoming important features in the business world. They are recognized as most efficient helpers in counting houses, offices, stores and other places where patience, ability and good judgment play an important part. There are women, however, who do not understand the details of banking and to them everything connected with financial transactions seems to be enveloped in mystery. There is nothing mysterious about a bank. It is simply a place where money is deposited, either with or without interest, and from whence it can be withdrawn, either with or without notice, according to the rules of the institution." The book, of course, offers some important pointers and suggestions such as first find out when completing opening an account, if the bank is safe, what kind of directors manage it, what to do on entering a bank, how to deposit money, the character of a check and how to write one, all about bank bonds, coupons, discount, endorsements, letters of credit, the clearing house, etc. There is a big demand for the book and a large number are being distributed free of cost.

One of the speakers at the anniversary of the Women's Educational club told a very funny story. The audience had been listening to a good deal about the New Woman, her ability, intellectual qualities, and so on, and there were no men present. One of the last speakers said she wanted to tell of something she had seen recently. A lady came into a street car with her handbag, her pocket book and her handkerchief and she seated herself and placing the articles in her lap in the most orderly in which they were named, she took a comprehensive view of the car and its occupants. Soon the conductor came along after fares. The lady opened her bag, fumbled over all its contents and then a grab for her pocket only to remember that she had none, and after looking in the bag again, told the conductor that she must have left her purse at home. "What is that in your lap?" asked the sharp-eyed conductor. "Oh," said the lady, and fishing out a dollar bill, she passed it over and received back her change. After counting it several times she appeared to be in great distress, and signaling to the conductor, charged him with making a mistake. The long suffering man pointed to the little pile of silver and said, "50 and 25 makes 75, and two tens makes 20, and I kept 5 cent for your fare." "Oh," said the lady, while the conductor turned to a sympathetic male passenger who sat near and in a half audible aside said, "and they want things to vote." The story was told with such expression that it was received with shrieks of laughter, which seemed to disprove Mr. Howell's charge that women have no sense of humor.

At F-mous York Beach.

York Beach has always been one of the most famous summer resorts along the Maine coast, and people return there year after year for the magnificent ocean views, fine fishing and summer sports. The ball nine was defeated by the Malden High at Newton Centre, last Friday afternoon, in a very interesting and well played game. Tucker was in the box for Newton and did very creditable work, striking out seven men. The work of the infield was rather ragged and the score was 11 to 0.

The A. Y. P. '06, met last Monday afternoon at Miss Mary Barbour's at her home in West Newton.

The ball nine went to Belmont on Wednesday and succeeded in defeating the High school nine of that place by a score of 20 to 2.

The schedule of the ball nine for the week is as follows: May 18, Dean Academy, at Franklin; May 21, Boston Latin, at Newton Centre; May 25, English High, at Newton Centre.

Co. F. (Fifth Regt.) Gossip.

The camp fire Thursday evening was a big success and the boys appreciated the words of commendation. Everybody missed the genial smile of Frank Barrows, and wondered where the "Doctor" was.

The Company has been invited to attend the services, Memorial Day evening in Grace church. The dress uniforms, with fatigue caps, will be worn.

Extra drill for the new recruits are held every Wednesday evening. They commenced this week, under Lieutenant Inman.

Everybody is hustling to make a good showing at camp. Captain Scott is bound to have full ranks at Muster.

A word of praise is due Lieutenant Inman, Musician Hanley and Private Stearns for the excellent musical portion of the program rendered at the camp fire.

THREE THRILLING TALES.

The Liar's Club Awarded Prizes to These Short Stories.

After his narrow escape Zeb Vaughan of Pasadena fell on his knees and thanked heaven for a miraculous deliverance from certain death. So would any one else who had been grasped in the iron clutches of a 1,400 pound grizzly while ten miles from a gun or a cabin. Zeb never lost his presence of mind and began tickling the bear's ear with a feather he had picked up absentmindedly, and the bear began laughing so hard that he could neither close his arms to squeeze nor his mouth to bite. Zeb continued tickling until the bear laughed so hard that he burst a blood vessel and fell down, dying.

A couple of Montana turkeys recently killed had taken into their aristocratic craws to assist in deglutition 13 valuable sapphires, several ounces of gold and just enough silver for change. It is now fashionable among Montana poultry to have jeweled interiors, and it is estimated that the emulous fowls of the new state have within 11 months of 1894 scratched up and swallowed $11,637,614.65 worth of gems and precious metals.

A girl in Kalamazoo who was not satisfied with squeezing a 36 inch waist into an 18 inch corset of the ordinary construction, devised one of rope yarn ribbed with clothesline. Thus arrayed she took a bath, when the wetted and contracting fiber brought the measurement down to 9½ inches. In delight she gasped: "Oh, haven't I got—a just lovely figure now! And it's—so loose—and comfortable."—New York Advertiser.

EDUCATIONAL CLUB.

THE WEST NEWTON WOMEN HOLD THEIR 15TH ANNUAL MEETING.

The fifteenth annual meeting of the West Newton Women's Educational Club was held on Tuesday, 14th, and the following officers were elected:

President, Mrs. Electa N. L. Walton; vice presidents, Mrs. Kate A. Mead, Mrs. Ellen M. Pratt, Mrs. Sarah Davis, Mrs. Mary R. Martin, Mrs. Kathleen M. Phipps, Mrs. Adelaide L. Gilman, Mrs. Jane M. Hastings; rec. sec'y, Mrs. Anna L. Bailey; cor. sec'y, Mrs. Susan D. Crockett; treas., Mrs. Ellen P. Perrin; directors, Mrs. Annie D. Almy, Mrs. Harriet G. Paine, Mrs. Abbie E. Davis, Mrs. Thirsa B. Sands.

The annual reports of secretary and treasurer were read, and also the reports of committees and classes, all showing the club in a flourishing condition. After the business meeting, supper was served many of the members responding to the question, "What is my hobby, and why?"

A double quartet of young ladies furnished music for the occasion. A pleasant feature of the after-supper program was the presentation to Mrs. Walton of a handsome parlor cabinet, and a lovely vase holding fifteen roses, as a token of the love and esteem of all the members of the club, and their appreciation of her fifteen years of faithful service as their president.

ANNUAL REPORT.

Looking back over the year that has passed, we find the condition of the club very gratifying. The programs have been excellent, and have been received with enthusiasm, and there is a bright outlook for the future. The club closes its fifteenth year today, a year not eventful but prosperous and happy.

The club has become one of the most important factors that has entered into the lives of women, as it has taught them to be more kindly and forgiving, and less critical towards each other, which is perhaps the best object of women's clubs.

In looking over the program for 1894-1895 a varied bill of fare presents itself. One afternoon was devoted to summer outings, when several members entertained us with sketches of summer travels; another afternoon we went "gypsying," and saw the gypsy in his native haunts; another member took us to Hawaii, and the volcanoes Kilauea, and Mauna Loa.

We have been travellers also in the realms of history, philosophy, art and music. Charles Lamb was the subject of a delightful essay by a member; and a novel afternoon with "the sibyls," illustrated with stereoscopic views, was conceived and executed by another; while "socialism" was presented in several interesting papers by other members.

Prof. Black, of Edinburgh, spoke to us of "Barrie," and read selections from "The Little Minister." A delightful trip was taken through Mrs. Crane's interesting paper on "Mediterranean Days," and by the aid of photographs, places and scenes were much enjoyed. Prof. Bailey, of Brown University, told us "The Relations of Insects to Plants," and Mr. Yotchiff, the Bulgarian refugee, of "Life under the Turks." We spent some charming "Bohemian Days" on a house-boat with Mrs. Chaloner, and admired the sketches made by her husband. Supt. Aldrich spoke to us of "Some Recent Changes in Public Schools," at a special meeting, when guests were invited. "The Woman of the Renaissance and the Woman of Today" were compared in an able manner by the gifted young lawyer, Miss Mary Greene, of Providence, R. I.; and "Marlowe and His Times" was discussed by Miss Emily Wetherbee, of Lawrence, who gave selections from his principal tragedies with much dramatic power.

Music has been an unfailing accompaniment at each meeting, and has been one of the pleasantest features, and thanks are due the music committee for the fine programs provided.

The social features of the club have not been neglected, and our occasional club teas have done much towards promoting sociability, and true sisterly interest in each other.

Our gracious vice president opened her home for our first reception. The rooms were attractive with plants and flowers, and the spirit of hospitality reigned while the members flitted about, making themselves generally agreeable.

Only once a year do we have the pleasure of welcoming and entertaining our gentlemen friends, and our "Gentlemen's Night" is an ideal meeting, the guests evidently enjoying the occasion as much as the members.

Our annual meeting and supper closes the season, and is a gala time for those who are fortunate enough to be present at this double feast, the feast material, and the feast intellectual. Contrary to our usual custom, no guests were invited this year, the occasion being a special reunion for members, with delightful music, much joviality, and good-fellowship.

It seems appropriate at this time to speak of the courtesies extended to our club from many of our sister clubs during the year; the pleasant opportunities of meeting and talking with club women of other towns; the free and cordial interchange of methods and plans of work; and encouragement gained therefrom. Let us hope that another year we may have the privilege of extending our hospitality to these sister clubs.

As we celebrate our fifteenth anniversary, and note the continued prosperity of our club, it seems fitting that we should express our gratitude for the fifteen years of gracious and faithful service of our president, who has been a wise leader, an earnest worker, and has endeared herself to all; and whom "the years have only touched to mellow her wisdom." ANNA L. BAILEY, Recording Secretary.

Mrs. Bailey, the secretary, read the report of the year's work, and Mrs. Perrin gave an account of the Club's financial standing, and the spoke of the meeting of the Current Events class. Mrs. Abbott, on account of the illness of Mrs. Baker, indicated the direction which the studies of the Art Class had taken, and plans were mentioned for the formation of other classes when the club shall come together in the Autumn. Possibly, a Browning, a German, and a section of the study of Parliamentary drill will be among the number.

Mrs. Warren Davis read a letter from Miss Amelia Davis describing a day at Pompeii, graphically depicting the interesting features of the buried city.

THE AFTER SUPPER EXERCISES.

After the business meeting, the club adjourned to the dining hall where a number of well spread tables awaited them. These were beautifully decorated with flowers, under the charge of the efficient hospitality committee, with Mrs. Peabody at its head. After supper, Mrs. Walton began her sixteenth year in the presidential chair, by announcing the topic for discussion to be "What your hobby and why?" Mrs. R. was announced her favorite cause to be that of temperance, and gave an interesting account of the work of the W. C. T. U.

Woman Suffrage has recently been made obligatory in every branch. Mrs. Walton spoke of the change in public sentiment since the time when she was president of a branch of the W. C. T. U., when any reference to woman suffrage was received with ominous silence or marked disfavor.

Mrs. White was called upon to describe the baby club of the W. N. E. C. She said it was a small, but energetic infant, of oodles of babies, born with teeth, and able to talk well. It amuses itself with a magazine, the topics assigned to different members being Progress of the World, Home Circle, Book Reviews, Character Sketches, Poetry, Stories, the Woman Question, and News of the Day. A composite novel to which each member contributes a chapter is an entertaining feature, and the funny column is well supplied with original conundrums.

Mrs. White's remarks were greeted with applause, and Mrs. Walton presented her with a gavel in the form of a rattle, the gift of the W. N. E. C. to its offspring.

Miss Porter read some very funny nonsense verses, an aesthetic burlesque, which was the cause of uproarious laughter. This well known disciple of Browning, a very intellectual woman, has a fund of dry humor, which is the source of great enjoyment to others.

Mrs. Abby Davis said she had several hobbies. She was brought up among abolitionists, she marched in the ranks of the cold water army, proudly bearing a banner inscribed, "Tee total or no Husband." She was taught to think that men and women should be punished alike for wrong doing; she believed in equal rights for both sexes, and she was elevated to hydropathy. Her motto was "Throw physic to the dogs," and use plenty of water; and she believed this method was responsible for the good health which she had always enjoyed. (If bright eyes, quick intellect, abundant energy, and remarkable executive ability are the product of devotion to hydropathic treatment, perhaps it would be well for club women to add Mrs. Davis' hobby to their own assortment.) She read some funny verses, "A Lute of Long Ago," in her own inimitable style, which as usual brought down the house.

Miss Rider responded for the Abundant members, proving that one might "rest" with "the saints," and yet be lively and witty.

Mrs. Crockett said good housekeeping was her hobby. That over which she sometimes presides at the club proves that she can ride this hobby thoroughly well.

Mrs. Allen gave an amusing account of the definitions of the word hobby to be found in the dictionary, and of the flesh and blood steeds, which had carried her through life, stating that her busy days prevented her taking many ideal excursions.

Mrs. Dunbar said that one of her pet hobbies was economy, though in one instance her thrift proved thriftless. She gave a funny story of her hobby mounted on a bicycle, when it rode the road to ruin. Mrs. Warren Davis said fresh air and sunshine were her hobbies, and plenty of light, especially the light of truth, which illumines the soul. Mrs. Bailey said her hobby was women's clubs and she considered the W. N. E. C. the best of them all.

Mrs. Paine, Mrs. Elliott, and Mrs. Martin spoke briefly, the latter referring to Maria Edgeworth as being the main spring of her hobby. Mrs. Sampson recommended the making of scrap books as an entertaining amusement for club members, and thought many of their bright sayings might be preserved in this way for the enlightenment of those who should come after them. She too, like Mrs. Davis, had been brought up among abolitionists and woman suffragists, and had belonged to the cold water army down the Old Colony. Mrs. Perrin said she had a hobby and the wonder was that she was alive to tell of it. It was mushrooms of which she was very fond, and it is evident she must be a person of great discrimination, though she did not say that, but all the club knew it.

Mrs. Anders being called upon by the president to give an account of her hobby, responded with an apt speech, assuring Mrs. Walton of the love and esteem of the club, and asking her acceptance of a token of their affection. The dining room door opened at this moment and a beautiful curio cabinet was impelled forward, taking the president so much by surprise that for a few moments she seemed unable to speak. When she found her voice, she responded in a few fitting words and related a similar experience in the past when she had been one of the conspirators.

The laughter and applause attending this pleasant incident having subsided, a double quartet of lovely young ladies sang several beautiful selections under the direction of Mrs. Stutson, the accomplished musical director of the club. Too much cannot be said in praise of the successful efforts of Mrs. Stutson in this direction, good music having been a regular feature at every meeting, adding greatly to every one's enjoyment. No more regular meetings will be held this season, but the club has invited the proposed city federation to meet with them on the 17th of May, when representatives of women's clubs in the city are expected to be present and to which all members of women's clubs in Newton are invited.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

BOWDOIN SQUARE THEATRE—"Oliver Twist" will be given the week of May 20th. Miss Elita Proctor Otis assumes the role of Nancy Sykes. Charles Barton will be the Bill Sykes. The title role is played by little Catherine Dooling who has familiarized herself with the traditions surrounding Dickens' "good little boy" and plays him accordingly. Albert Lang, the justice Fang of the organization, H. G. Barton who plays Fagin, Charles B. Hawkins, the Artful Dodger, and James R. (Windy) Smith, the Bumble, are not unknown in this city. The other parts are in competent hands. The scenic embellishments are claimed to be delightfully correct and the costumes, of the period, are said to be reproductions from the celebrated illustrations of Cruikshank, whom there is no better commentator of Dickens and his meanings.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE—Beginning next Monday, Stephenson and Collier's comedy opera "Dorothy" will be produced for one week on a scale of equal magnificence. This opera is a comparative stranger to theatre-goers. The lyrics of Mr. Stephenson are excellent. Mr. Collier, who is to be credited with no small share of the earlier successes of Sir Arthur Sullivan in the comic opera line, gave his best work to the music of this opera and there are half a dozen numbers which are gems. Miss Essing will sing Dorothy; Miss Bell, Lydia Hawthorne; Mr. Wolff, Lurcher; and Mr. Smith, Squire Bantam. The march of the 24 young women of the chorus, which evokes a double encore every night, will be repeated, with new figures. It is costumed with great beauty and the play of electric lights on the marchers is rapid and varied. A new opera every week taxes the talent and resources of any organization heavily. Mr. Rose's company is moving with dash and brilliancy and acquiring itself most creditably. After "Dorothy," "The Black Hussar" will be sung.

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE—"1492" comes to the Hollis on Monday for a brief stay. This brilliant extravaganza has been very much changed and brings several novelties which are most delightful, for instance, the first presentation of the original Klugey living pictures, and a most amusing burlesque on Trilby with Miss Vaughn in the title role and Walter Jones as Svengali. The cast is practically unchanged and all the old favorites will be warmly welcomed. The regular Wednesday and Saturday matinees will be given.

"Ten people out of a dozen are invalids," says a recent medical authority. At least eight of these ten, it is safe to allow, are suffering from some form of blood-disease which a persistent use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla would be sure to cure. Then, don't be an invalid.

A MARVELOUS MIRROR.

Dr. Peate's Magnificent Gift to the New American University.

At his home in Greenville, Pa., in a shop to which is attached a testing gallery 60 feet in length, the Rev. John Peate, D. D., is preparing to fashion the speculum of the great telescope for the American university, an institution of the Methodist Episcopal church, now taking to itself a local habitation on the heights near the national capital.

A dozen years ago the doctor conceived the project of grinding the principal mirror of a reflecting telescope, and, to use his own phrase, "groped" his way to success in a field where the angels of science tread lightly, if at all, and in which a single incautious touch may result in hours of retrieving toil.

He has produced specula 6, 8, 12 and 20 inches in diameter, and a year or two since finished a disk of 30 inches for presentation to Alleghany college. If he shall succeed in the incredibly difficult task of imparting a perfect figure to the present disk, which is 62 inches in diameter, it will be a remarkable triumph of skill and a prodigy of labor.—Philadelphia Ledger.

A Curious Coincidence.

The Living Church of Chicago prints the following: "A Paris special says: The year 1895 will be a remarkable one, both from the astronomical and religious point of view. On Good Friday (April 13) the heavenly bodies which gravitate around the sun will be in exactly the same position they occupied the day Christ died on the cross. "It will be the first time such a thing has occurred since that great day, just 1,863 years ago. That was the thirty-third year of the Christian era, which dates from the birth of Jesus Christ. At 4:20 in the morning, Paris time (about 11:20 p. m., New York time, April 11), the moon will pass before Virginia (Spica) and hide that star for over an hour."

Doctor Galapins.

Set up on the corner of a house, at the juncture of two streets at the old north end of Boston, is a bust of Esculapins. For many, many years it has been the visible sign that there is a drug store below.

Some time ago two visitors to the city went prowling about this ancient and historic ground once so aristocratic and now so squalid, and they came upon the time worn bust, for the presence of which they were not prepared. Still it seemed to them noteworthy, and they went into a shop to ask about it.

The clerk was most obliging and courteous. "Oh, that?" he said. "That's old Dr. Galapins. I don't rightly know who he was, but I've an idea he used to practice down here!"—Youth's Companion.

Superiority of American Labor.

Exporting American boots to England is an achievement to be proud of, but it is an accomplished fact. The labor cost in American boots is less than in England, though the per diem earnings of the American workman are larger than those of his English brother. The American superiority is in method and energy. American superiority in boot-making is only the forerunner of much more that is coming.—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

A Suggestion For Britain.

It has been suggested that it would be more humane for Great Britain to take care of some of its old colonies rather than be hunting after new ones. Just now New England is sending $20 to relieve the distress in Newfoundland where Great Britain furnishes $1.—Indianapolis Journal.

Money, Banking, and Currency.
(From Harper's Weekly.)

The price of silver began to fall about 1866, and it has kept on falling ever since. In 1879, three years before the demonetization "crime," it had fallen 1.8 points below the 100 standard of 1890. But every other commodity had advanced. Meat was 174.3 when silver was 98.3; other food was 146.3; clothes were 139.4; while wages were 162.2. Therefore at this time, at all events, the prices of food, of clothes, and of labor did not fall with the price of silver, inventions, labor-saving machinery, and the great industrial progress that has marked the nineteenth century had cheapened production. There was no silver in circulation, as there is now, and the changes in the price of silver had not affected the general market. Then as now, also, the purchasing power of wages was increasing. Not a necessary life was so cheap in this country in 1870 as it had been in 1880, but the labor that could have purchased $60 worth of goods in 1885 purchased more than $114 worth in 1870.

Silver continued to fall. In 1875 it was 92.2, compared with the scale of 100 in 1860. At the same time all other prices had gone down, and they have continued to go down, until within the last few months, when they are rising again. But it is to be noticed that while the cost of commodities decreased, the purchasing power of wages increased, until it had risen from 114.1 in 1870 to 172.1 in 1890.

The fall in prices has not been confined to this country. It has taken place in Great Britain as well. It is due to better and cheaper methods of production and transportation. The tendency of silver countries. The amount of money has had no influence upon them, but modern progress is accountable for some of it. How much the inventions of cheaper and better methods of production has accomplished in bringing about a reduction of prices is shown by the decline in the cost of metals and implements to the producer, to which the inventive genius of the world, and especially of this country, has chiefly directed itself. Representing the gold price of metals and implements in 1800 by 100, in 1870 it was 127.8 in paper, and in 1890 it was 74.9 in gold. In England, at the same time, the price fell from 100 to 87.4. The causes that bring about reductions in price are shown by these statistics of production: In 1860, less than 7,000,000 tons of iron were produced in the world. In 1892 the production of iron had increased to 26,000,000 tons, the United States alone producing 9,157,000 tons. What wonder that iron is cheaper than it was? Silver has grown cheaper for the same general reason that has governed the price of iron. In 1873 the world produced 63,267,000 ounces of silver. It was worth $82,120,000. If it had been coined it would have made only $81,800,000. In 1893, the world's product of silver was 161,776,100, and it was worth $126,135,300. But if it had been coined it would have made $200,165,000. Can any one imagine a greater swindle than such a creation of false values would have been? Iron that was worth $100 in 1860 could be bought for $75 in 1890. Suppose that the law had compelled every farmer to pay for the iron in his agricultural implements at the price prevailing in 1860? Would there not have been a revolution? Why should the laws treat the silver-miners any better than they treat the iron-miners?

Agreeably Surprised.

"I had a very severe cold on my lungs that caused much soreness and gave me considerable uneasiness in regard to the result," says Mr. T. E. Smith, of Billerica, Mass. "A local druggist called my attention to Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and on his recommendation I gave the remedy a careful trial. The result surprised me; I recovered entirely in three days." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Arthur Hudson, Newton; E. W. Kewes, Auburn; B. B. Buck, Newton Centre; E. F. Partridge, Newton; B. Billings, Newton Upper Falls; J. H. Green, Newton Highlands, Druggists.

Good For the Druggists.

The Massachusetts pharmaceutical association listened to a report by its president, Frank M. Harris of Worcester, on Tuesday, which sustained the state board in its policy of weeding out run-selling druggists and yesterday a special committee reported upholding Mr. Harris. This is as it should be. Here is an extract from the report of the committee, Messrs. William C. Durkee, S. A. D. Shepard and F. H. Barton:—

We cordially agree with the expression of our president when he says the strict which the enforcement of the recent law has created is the best evidence that it is a long step in the right direction, and your committee believes it desirable to place on the enforcement of the law. The portion of the address in which he says, "The abuse of the liquor part of this business is being, and must be, slowly crowded out," is a statement of fact which the association has earnestly advocated for many years, each succeeding convention more and more strongly placing itself on record to that effect.

IN DESPAIR.

A PEN PICTURE.

Many Women Will Recognize It.

"Oh, I am so nervous! No one ever suffered as I do! There isn't a well inch in my whole body! I honestly think my lungs are diseased, my chest pains me so; but I've no cough. I'm so weak at my stomach, and have indigestion horribly. Then I have palpitation, and my heart hurts me. How I am losing flesh! and this headache nearly kills me; and the backache—Heavens! I had hysterics yesterday. There is a weight in the lower part of my bowels, bearing down all the time; and there are pains in my groins and thighs. I can't sleep, walk, or sit. I'm diseased all over. The doctor? Oh! he tells me to keep quiet. Such mockery! Inflammatory and ulcerative conditions at the neck of the womb can produce all the above symptoms in the same person. In fact, there is hardly a part of the body that can escape those sympathetic pains and aches."

No woman should allow herself to reach such a perfection of misery when there is positively no need of it. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound acts promptly and thoroughly in such cases; strengthens the muscles of the womb, heals all inflammation, and restores that unruly organ to its normal condition. Druggists are selling carloads of it. Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., will gladly and freely answer all letters asking for advice.

Mrs. E. Bishop, 787 Halsey Street, Brooklyn, N.Y., suffered all the above described horrors. Now she is well. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cured her. Write her about it.

—Miss Lizzie Barnes of Station street died Saturday morning after a long illness. Deceased was well known and highly esteemed here. The funeral took place Monday from her late residence, Mr. Cook of the seminary officiating. The interment was made in the Newton cemetery.

—The neighbors met at the residence of Mr. E. H. Mason, 441 street, Monday evening. Rev. S. L. B. Spear gave a paper entitled "Foreign Glances," picturing travels in Jerusalem, Constantinople and the far East. It was the club's final meeting of the season.

—An illustrated lecture on Burn's was given by Mr. Victor of Brown University in the Baptist church, Sunday evening. It was very interesting, both from the descriptive and historical standpoint. The religious customs of the people formed one of its conspicuous features, and some thrilling incidents were given concerning the work of Christian missionaries.

—G. B. Sherman, Arthur Muldoon and perhaps some others here with about 100 of Boston and vicinity, members of the Grand Canton Shaver, No. 1, 2, M. I. O. O. F. of Boston, will leave Boston Sunday evening at 7 o'clock to assist in the dedication of the Odd Fellows Temple in Philadelphia, May 21st.

—Newton Centre can boast of a young lad, cyclist who can climb the steep grade on the new boulevard from Centre street to Hammond, as easily as a man, and can coast down as safely and as gracefully as the best of them. The long climb up the hill is a good test of the staying powers, and most of the new riders give out before they reach the top.

—The sixth annual concert given by the Young Ladies Double Quartet of this village for the benefit of the Fresh Air Fund will be held in the small hall of Bray's block on Thursday evening, May 23d, at 7:45 o'clock. Tickets may be obtained at Noble's drug store or of any member of the quartet. The concert promises to be one of unusual merit, and a liberal patronage is earnestly solicited.

—Some of the wagonettes used for pleasure riding at the World's Fair are to be utilized for the delightful boulevard drive here. Regular trips commence Monday. The vehicle is what is technically termed a park carriage, having seats on the side and of attractive appearance. The horses will be handled by colored drivers in livery. The wagonettes will run up to about Nov. 1, or until the street railway is completed. The projectors of the enterprise are Messrs. Dana Estes, A. D. S. Bell and George A. Ward.

—A well known member of the city council is being joked a great deal by his friends on account of his love for fancy matches. He regards himself as a connoisseur of that variety and when a salesman with a particularly fine brand dropped into his business place a few days ago he found in him an interested auditor and a more than eager purchaser. He bought a gross and paid $3.70 for it. It was a pretty stiff price, but he didn't mind that until he learned that he had squandered just $3 too much. The dealer's price was 70 cents, subject, however, to a discount of 10 per cent. A Newtonville friend, who also bought some of the matches at the high figure quoted, was ashamed to tell his wife what they cost and represented to her that they were a present. He was jewed, just the same.

—There are letters in the post office for Katie Shields, Mary Allen, Emma McLeod, George S. Allen, Carrie Graham, O. S. DeRose, John Hoar, Nellie Galvin, Daniel Kefe and M. R. Johnston.

—Mr. Cook, one of the seminarists, who has filled the pulpit at the Thompsonville chapel for some time, has been called to another field. Last Thursday evening he was given a farewell reception and the chapel was thronged with those with whom he has been so closely and pleasantly associated since his assumption of the duties of pastor and spiritual adviser. Entertainment features were provided in his honor consisting of vocal, pianoforte and cornet numbers. Several songs were finely rendered by Miss Forbes. Mr. Cook was presented with a purse containing a goodly amount. Following the exercises and entertainment, a collation was served.

—A large party of society people of this place attended the Harvard Glee Club concert at Newton Highlands, Wednesday evening.

—Rev. Mr. Fellows will exchange pulpits next Sunday morning with Rev. B. J. Johnson of Highlandville. The other services will be as usual.

—The Y. P. S. C. E. met Wednesday at the Baptist church. Alonzo Leonard was the leader and his topic was "pure thoughts, pure words and pure deeds."

—Miss Carrie Hale of Wellesley Hills gave a most enjoyable whist party at her home, Wednesday evening of last week. Among her guests were a number of young people of this village.

—The Royal Arcanum met Wednesday and one candidate was presented for admission. The affairs of the society are in a flourishing condition and an increase of membership is soon expected.

—Postmaster Billings has made arrangements with the weather bureau whereby he receives, weekly, a weather-crop bulletin of the New England weather service. It is devoted to the interest of agriculture in all the New England states and contains some very valuable information.

—The works of the National Fireworks Company which have been closed nearly two years, are about to be reopened under a new management. The property of the company has recently changed hands and work will be resumed on a larger scale than ever before. The property is situated off Dedham street, near the Pettee machine works and comprises some 30 acres of land on which are situated a score of small buildings. It is now proposed to enlarge the plant by the erection of 19 more buildings, the largest to be 300 feet. These are to be constructed of wood and sheet iron, and are to be equipped with the most improved machinery for the manufacture of fireworks. The plant has a large capacity, and will employ from 50 to 100 men.

NEWTON LOWER FALLS.

—The stone wall along the Heckle property is being removed and the ground to be graded.

—The destruction of the Finlay Paper Co's mills by fire early Monday morning, throws about 15 hands out of employment.

—A corp of cadets have been organized among the pupils of the Hamilton school with Waldo Leland of the High school as instructor. Their purpose for organizing is to parade Decoration Day.

—Rev. O. R. Miller, the new pastor of the M. E. church, delivered a very interesting and instructive sermon last Sunday morning before a large congregation; the subject was "The Power of the Gospel."

—An alarm was rung in from box 51 at 2:10 Monday morning, closely followed by a second alarm, for a fire at Finlay's Paper mills. The fire started by the overturning of a lamp in the hands of one of the employees, who tried to quench the then insignificant blaze before sounding an alarm, but could not. The fire gained great headway from the start and in five minutes time when a second alarm was pulled in it looked as though the whole plant was doomed to destruction. Hose 6 had streams directed on the blaze quickly after the first alarm was sounded, but the fire raged steadily until the sixteen street, three of which were from the Wellesley side subduing the flames, after over one hour's steady deluge of water. The main structure and machinery is a total loss and is the most valued department of the plant. The boiler and steam engine are also a total loss, being located very near where the fire first started. The night was fortunately rainy and from this fact and also that the building was supplied with a tin roof is undoubtedly the reason that other property was saved. Steamer Two did valuable service drafting water from the river. The loss will probably reach $4000 or $5000, insured.

NONANTUM.

—Rev. Mr. Lewis preached to the congregation at the North Evangelical church, Sunday evening.

—Miss Maude McKenna of Chapel street sailed for Nova Scotia, Wednesday, to visit her mother, who is very ill.

—So few attended the teacher's meeting at the North Evangelical church, Monday evening, that a postponement was deemed advisable.

—The old folks' concert, held in North Evangelical church, Tuesday evening, was indeed a big success. Solos were most acceptably rendered and the concerted singing was also good.

WABAN.

—Five houses are already contracted for to be built here this summer.

—Mrs. B. S. Cloutman is now fully recovered and is able to be out again.

—We understand that the Collins estate is leased for a term of three years.

—Owing to the inclemency of the weather Sunday there was no service in the hall.

—Rev. and Mrs. Frederick Billings, the latter a sister of Mr. Warren, the architect, are receiving congratulations upon the birth of a son.

Excursions to Denver and the West.

A magnificent opportunity is offered to see Denver and the Rocky Mountains, Utah, the Yellowstone National Park, the picturesque Puget Sound country, and even far away Alaska, in connection with the approaching annual Convention of the National Educational Association to be held at Denver early in July. Unusually low rates have been made for all who attend, and the tickets may be obtained by the public generally as well as by teachers. Such opportunities to see the Great West have never before been presented. The Alaska trip will be made on a special steamer, and many other advantages are offered. It is not likely that Eastern people will neglect the golden chance to see the wonders of America when the trip may be made so cheaply, and especially when such an opportunity may never again occur. There are three dates of departure from the East—July 1, 3, and 5. Apply to the ticket agent at the Boston & Albany Railroad for a descriptive circular.

A REAL ENOCH ARDEN

MORE REMARKABLE THAN EVEN THE FAMOUS TICHBORNE CASE.

A Union Soldier Killed in Battle Returns After Nearly Thirty Years and Is Recognized by His Family—Claimant Not Sustained in Court.

The United States supreme court has just handed down final decision in a long dispute over a question of identity, which is the most remarkable in the history of law, outdoing even the famous Tichborne case. It is the story of a Union soldier who was killed and buried on the field of battle, yet who was resurrected and rejoined his family and friends.

Few tales of fiction approach in interest this romance of a real Enoch Arden, whom cruel fate relegated to a penitentiary.

On April 6, 1863, William Newby, private in an Illinois regiment, was killed and buried on the field of Shiloh. At all events, no question of the fact was raised for nearly 30 years. He left in the town of Carmi, Ills., a widow and a mother.

Nearly four years ago a man walked into Carmi, hatless and by no means well clad, and announced that he was Newby, the lost soldier. Nobody recognized him at first, and this was not surprising after such a lapse of time. But he talked with old residents of the place and recalled so many antea-war incidents, with reminiscences of persons and places, that finally they were convinced of his identity. He explained that he had been shot in the head and left on the battlefield. Afterward he recovered consciousness and was made a prisoner, being taken to Libby prison.

Being partly deprived of reason by his wound, he spent many years in southern poorhouses until at length he landed in the almshouse at Taylorsville, Ills., where he came to himself again and remembered who he was.

Now, it is quite true that he was for a time in the almshouse at Taylorsville. There he met an old man named Joseph Newby, brother of the William who fought at Shiloh.

This aged pauper was rather garrulous and had many stories to impart about his brother William, the history of the family, incidents respecting old residents of Carmi and its neighborhood, etc. Incidentally it was made to appear that William, if he were alive, would be entitled to $30,000 in pension arrears.

The new acquaintance listened until he was chock full of information. Then he declared to the astonished Joseph that he was in very truth his long lost brother, William Newby.

This part of the story did not come out until later. Meanwhile friendly citizens of Carmi sent to Tennessee for William Newby's wife. She came, but at first repudiated the alleged lost soldier. Nevertheless he succeeded in persuading her fully of his identity, while his supposed mother recognized him almost immediately as her son.

Presumably there would never have been any further dispute in the matter, and the said Newby would have received the $30,000 pension money for which he at once applied had it not been that he was accidentally recognized by an ex-convict, who declared that he had met him in the penitentiary at Nashville, where he was known as Ricketty Dan Benton and was serving an 18 years' sentence for horse stealing.

This caused an investigation. Thomas H. McBride, one of the most expert officers in the employ of the pension office, was sent to look the matter up. He traced the history of Dan Benton back to his earliest childhood, accounting for every year of his life.

He was born in Tennessee and was rickety from infancy. His wife and son were found and recognized him without hesitation. In short, the meshes were woven about him so closely that there seemed to be no possibility of escape.

But the other side was equally strong. The alleged Newby was recognized with as great positiveness by his supposed wife and mother. Many of the best citizens of Carmi and its vicinity were entirely satisfied of his identity, including men prominent in the G. A. R.

The case came up for trial. The proceedings occupied 11 days. The defense used 200 witnesses, the government about 60.

There was almost a riot in and about the courtroom. Attempts were made to intimidate the jurors. Nevertheless Newby, or Ricketty Dan, was found guilty of perjury and of making false claim for pension.

Motion for a new trial being overruled, an appeal was made to the supreme court of the United States. This was dismissed on technical grounds. Again on —The second Baerman concert will be given in Eliot church, Thursday evening, 30th inst. Those who attended the first concert were charmed by the playing of this celebrated artist. We bespeak for him cordial support from his townsmen, especially the many lovers who seldom have such an opportunity in our own city.

—The choir of Grace church has been highly complimented by musical experts upon their rendering of the music at the Convention in Trinity church, Boston, last week. Notwithstanding the structural difficulties, and the distance of the organ from the singers, the music was rendered with great precision and sweetness.
—It would not be a bad idea for the city to have a cart and a couple of men to go about the streets, picking up the loose stones that have worked up to the surface, or been dropped by gravel teams. In some places good sized blocks of stone have been dropped from teams and left for days in the middle of the street.
—A horse belonging to one of the local business men stumbled and fell, breaking its knees badly. The cover was nearly four inches above the street level, and such accidents are liable to happen to any horse. It is hoped that the highway department will get around to fixing these up before the summer is over.
—Hon. Thomas Weston was chosen one of the executive committee of the Home Missionary society Wednesday night. Theodore P. Prudden of West Newton, read a patriotic paper, urging the support of home missions. Mr. Henry E. Cobb made an address in the evening for the American Board of missions. Rev. H. A. Hazen of Auburndale was chosen one of the publishing committee.
—The Newtonian Cycle club has organized and taken a suite of rooms in Warner's block. It starts off with quite a large membership, and numbers some fleet riders in its list. The rooms have been tastefully furnished and are well adapted for club purposes. The officers are: Pres., Charles W. Lord; sec'y., Albert W. F. F. F.; treas., Walter E. Marrs; Capt., John Shaughnessy; First Lieut., Robert McAnnamon; Second Lieut., John Shaughnessy; color bearer, George Johnson.
—A young gentleman was carried into Mrs. N. P. Coburn's house, Monday night, unconscious, and with a bad cut on his head. He and a friend had ridden out from Boston to call on some Newton friends and were on their way home, when he took a header in going down the hill on Waverley avenue, opposite Mrs. Coburn's residence. It was some time before he regained consciousness, and even then he fainted away again and again. Everything possible was done for him, and after a time he recovered sufficiently to be taken to the depot in Mrs. Coburn's carriage, and he and his friend went home by train. Waverley avenue seems to be a dangerous place for cyclists, as a number of accidents have happened there this season, mostly in the evening and to those not well acquainted with the street.
—At the invitation of the Social Science club, the annual meeting of the Massachusetts state federation of women's clubs will be held in the Channing church, on Tuesday, June 4, at 11 o'clock. The first hour will be devoted to business reports, election of officers, etc. The subject of the day will be "The Influence of Women's Clubs." On society, Mrs. Julia Ward Howe; on education, Mrs. Kate Tannatt Woods; on intermission, on business, Mrs. Barbara N. Galpin; music on the home, Mrs. Emma Edmott Mearns. The papers will be followed by a free and general discussion. All members of the clubs forerunning the state federation may attend this meeting, but only delegates can vote on business matters. Box lunch. Tea and coffee will be supplied to all club members. By the hospitality of the Social

NEW PIERCE SCHOOL HOUSE AT WEST NEWTON.
ANOTHER NEW SCHOOL HOUSE.
FINE BUILDING TO REPLACE THE OLD PIERCE STRUCTURE.
The new grammar school building, which is soon to be erected at the corner of Chestnut street and Hillside Avenue, West Newton, to replace the old Pierce schoolhouse, will be the largest and most completely appointed grammar school building in the city.
It has been the aim of the public property committee, of which Alderman Henry Tolman of Ward 7 is chairman, in choosing the plans, to provide for the future growth as well as the present needs of the school district, and the result is that the new building will accommodate nearly twice the number of pupils now attending the Pierce school.
Work will be commenced on the new structure as soon as the necessary order can be put through the city council. It is hoped to have the building ready for occupancy by December.
The new schoolhouse will cost about $75,000, and will stand on the Julius Clarke estate on Hillside Avenue, which was recently purchased by the city at a cost of $21,000. The site is on the side of West Newton hill, and is nearly in the centre of the school district.
The plans are for a brick schoolhouse to contain 12 school rooms and to accommodate about 500 pupils.
The building will face towards Hillside Avenue, and will also have an entrance on Chestnut street. In architectural details it will be of the composite type.

The exterior will be relieved by trimmings of terra cotta and by decorative effects in brick in the second and third stories. The plainness of the structure will be still further varied by a wide overhanging roof.
The entrances will be through broad, open vestibules, which will open directly into wide corridors, which will run through the centre of the building. At either end broad flights of stairs will lead to the second story and the basement.
On the first floor will be six class rooms with the usual coat and dressing rooms attached, and a large reception room for visitors, and a dressing and retiring room for the teachers.
It has been the aim of the designers to secure the maximum amount of light and sun to the pupils, and accordingly four of the six class rooms on each floor will be on the south side of the building. The remaining two will be the corner rooms on the north sides.
On the second floor the arrangement of class rooms will be the same as in the lower story. Here will also be situated a private room for the principal, and two recitation rooms and a larger room designed for a library.
In the third story there will be a large hall.
All the rooms will be provided with the most improved appliances for the comfort and convenience of pupils and teachers.
Ventilation will be secured by the fan system, and the rooms will be heated by steam.
The heating plant and the sanitary arrangements, which will be of the most approved pattern, will be located in the basement.
depend on merely local trade, while the north side stores will be convenient for the whole city.
NEWTON UPPER FALLS.
—Alfred Temperly is ill at his home on Chestnut street.
—Mrs. Crowley lost a valuable cow Wednesday.
—George Tambo and family have removed from High to Chestnut street.
—Mrs. McKim and Mrs. Glass have removed to Chelsea.
—Cornelius Corkery has taken a position in New Haven and left for that place.
—Frank Daly of Woonsocket is visiting friends here.
—Harry Edmundson has left the employ of the silk mill and has gone to Whitehall, N. Y.
—At the Methodist church next Sunday morning Rev. Mr. Fellows will deliver a sermon on "Thomas."
—Mr. Smith of the Boston and Upper Falls express lost a valuable horse Tuesday.
—The Gamewell Fire Alarm Co. has purchased a new horse and have employed a new teamster.
—Miss Abbie Barrows who has been the guest of Mr. W. O. Coleman, has returned to her home in Sumner, Maine.
—Mr. and Mrs. James Hurley are receiving the sympathy of friends on the loss of an infant child.
—Among the crowd of cyclists who visited "the bridge" Sunday were the Massachusetts and Rhode Island clubs, consisting of over 150 members.
—The silk mill is employing a number of new hands, who are late arrivals from Whitehall, New York, and Lakewood, New Jersey.
—Rev. Willard T. Perrin of South Boston, who attended the Methodist church of this place when a boy, will lead the Y. P. S. C. E. meeting next Wednesday evening.
—Nearly all the children of this place who have been ill at the Newton hospital, suffering with diphtheria, have been discharged and are very much improved in health.
—Mrs. Walter Palmer, a former resident of this place, died Saturday at the Newton hospital. The funeral was held Monday morning from St. Mary's church and the interment was at Holyhood.
—Miss Martha Newell entertained a large number of her friends at the home of her nephew, Mr. J. B. Newhall of Oak street, Wednesday afternoon from 3 to 8, the occasion being her eightieth birthday.
—The Newton and Boston street railway have purchased ten handsome open cars from the Jackson & Sharp Manufacturing Co. Some of them have already been removed from the freight yard to the car-house, and the others will be taken thither as soon as convenient. It is probable that some of the new cars will be put on the road for the first time next Sunday.
—Judging from the large audience present "The White Garland" must have netted a neat sum for the Newton hospital benefit. It was given in Wade hall Tuesday evening. In the first part the cantata "The White Garland" was given with Miss Emily Phillips as the queen, Miss Elinor Mills and Miss Annie Galvin as her attendants, and twelve pretty costumed little maids and three "naughty" boys who were afterwards reformed by the queen and her good influences, as her attendants. Part second consisted of the following numbers: Duet and chorus, "Let us say our little prayer," which was sweetly sung by Miss Emily Phillips and Miss A. Galvin. A recitation by Miss May Gauthier; readings by Prof. Frye; piano solo, by Mrs. J. H. Walton; reading and tableau, "Nobody's child" by Miss May Percy and Little Temperly; solo, by Miss Philps; chorus singing, "My Country is of thee," Miss Jennie Billings presided at the piano and to her efficient accompanying the success of the entertainment is partly due.

THE CITY GOVERNMENT.

MORE TELEPHONE AND ELECTRIC LIGHT POLE HEARINGS—DISCUSSION OVER CLINTON STREET SEWER—CLAIMS FOR DAMAGES ON ACCOUNT OF STREAM ROLLER ACCIDENT.

The board of mayor and aldermen met Monday evening. The session commenced with a hearing relating to the construction of various sidewalks. A remonstrance was read from G. R. W. Scott who objected to the laying of a concrete walk in front of his premises on Waverley avenue. He said that it would be an injury rather than a benefit so far as his interests were concerned. The hearing was closed.

A hearing was given on the order providing for a sewer in a private way off Clinton street. P. H. O'Brien appeared. He stated that he was provided for, having some time ago connected with the Adams street sewer, the object being to take care of his back land abutting on Clinton street. I don't object to the sewer, he added, but I should object to being taxed for it, as it would not benefit me in the slightest degree. There is no entrance to my back land from Clinton street.

Mr. Jones asked if it would take away his rights on the private way, and if a building on his land, used for a grocery store, would be removed?

Mayor Bothfield in answer to the first inquiry stated that the building of a sewer there would not in any way sacrifice his rights. The city engineer replied to the second question informing Mr. Jones that the laying of the sewer would not necessitate the removal of any buildings.

Alderman Hamilton—Do you think that a sewer is necessary there, Mr. Jones?

Mr. Jones—That is more than I can say. I don't object to it. The hearing was closed.

A hearing was given the Newton & Watertown Gas Light Company on its petition for permit to attach wires to poles of the N. E. Telephone Company on Grasmere, Elmwood and Washington streets. Mr. J. W. French asked the object of the Grasmere street location. In reply, Supt. Holmes of the Gas Light Company stated that residents of Grasmere street desired electric lights in their houses. It would not, he said, necessitate the putting up of any additional poles. The hearing was closed.

Hearings were given on the petitions of the New England Telephone Company for locations for poles and wires on Hartford street and for permit to attach cross arms to the poles of the Newton & Watertown Gas Light Company on Highland and Fountain streets. The consent of the latter company had been given. The hearings were closed.

A hearing on the order authorizing the taking of land for sewer purposes on Prospect avenue, from Walnut street westerly, was closed, no one appearing in remonstrance.

A hearing was given the Newton & Watertown Gas Light Company on its petition for locations for poles and wires on Commonwealth avenue from the Boston line to Washington street, to attach to the poles of the gas company and the Commonwealth Avenue Street Railway Company. Judge Blaney appeared in the interests of the latter. He commenced by saying that he understood that it was the intent of the city to permit only one line of poles on the boulevard. A location for a single line of poles, he added, was granted to the Commonwealth Avenue Street Railway Company a week ago. I have no doubt but that a satisfactory arrangement can be made whereby the wires of the gas company can be run on the poles which the street railway company will soon locate there. I would suggest, therefore, that action on the petition be suspended until an opportunity is afforded the parties in interest to make the necessary contracts.

Several remonstrances were read protesting against a second line of poles on the boulevard. Among the objectors were Jerome A. Bacon, Rev. Alvah Hovey and C. O. Stearns.

Mr. J. B. Goodrich, representing the gas company, stated that it did not expect to be granted a permit to put up an additional line of poles on the boulevard. The petition was put in, said he, simply to provide for the protection of the rights of the gas company. We expect, he continued, that an arrangement will be made with the railroad company to take care of our wires and that they will be run on its poles. The suggestion of Judge Blaney that action be suspended on the petition so that the contracts referred to can be properly signed, it seems to me, is a good one.

Alderman Degen stated that Judge Bishop and Messrs. Rutcliffe and Gilbert had requested him to enter their protests against locating a second line of poles on the boulevard. The hearing was closed.

The mayor appointed to serve as patrolmen, H. F. Tibbets, W. S. Scamman and W. F. Compton. The appointments were confirmed.

On recommendation of the chief of the fire department, George S. Holmes was promoted from the call to the permanent force, to serve as driver and hoseman, dating from May 15. R. F. Mills and C. F. Jones were each granted an honorable discharge. John Murray and A. B. Hayden were appointed foremen and F. H. Bozau, assistant foreman. John W. Cook was appointed truckman; Owen S. McQuirk and Frances Turner, horsemen.

A communication was received from the Commonwealth Avenue Street Railway Company accepting the locations granted for the operation of an electric railway on the boulevard in accordance with the terms and restrictions agreed upon. It was placed on file.

A communication was received calling attention to alleged open violation of law in Nonantum district by the illegal sale of liquor. The city authorities were urged to take active measures for the suppression of the kitchen bar rooms in that locality. The communication was signed by Rev. Michael Dolan, pastor of the Church of Our Lady, Stephen Maskell and about 100 others. Referred to committee on police.

These petitions were referred to the highway committee: Residents of Bowens street for sidewalks, (graded), with edgestones; D. W. Farquhar requesting the city to provide for the removal of snow and ice from sidewalks and to lay taxes therefor after the method applied for watering streets; Auburndale residents for the watering of Auburndale avenue from River street to the city stables.

An order was adopted authorizing the issue of notices to Mellen Bray and others of the intent of the city to widen Institution avenue and the taking of the necessary land for the improvement and appointing hearings for Monday, June 3, before the board of mayor and aldermen and Monday, June 10, before the common council.

Hearings were ordered for Monday, June 18, on the laying of sewers in Wintonia street, Ware road and Walnut terrace, from Central avenue westerly. Alderman Bullard offered an order directing the Newton & Watertown Gas Light Company to change the location of its poles on Washington street from the Wellesley line to Margin street, to conform to the positions to be taken by the poles of the Wellesley & Boston Street Railway Company.

Mr. Goodrich, representing the gas company, expressed the hope that the order would not be passed until the two companies had signed the contracts which had been drawn up fixing the conditions and compensation for the joint use of the poles. I expected, said he, that Mr. Parker would be due to the contracts could be signed to-night. I understand that he is in Waltham, but it is possible that he may put in an appearance later.

The order was laid on the table on motion of Alderman Bullard.

An order offered by Alderman Degen was adopted authorizing the board to spend a sum not exceeding $2200 for the purchase of an auxiliary pump for the pumping station. Alderman Hamilton read a communication from the attorneys of Fannie L. Gilman claiming damages in her behalf on account of injuries alleged to be due to the carelessness of an employee of the city. It stated that her horse was frightened by the steam road roller near the boulevard and as a result Miss Gilman and a companion were thrown from the carriage and badly hurt. A communication of the same tenor and referring to the same matter was received from the attorneys of Miss Lucy Cobb; also a communication from the latter's father, Mr. Henry E. Cobb. All referred to the committee on claims.

At this point, the order directing the Newton & Watertown Gas Light Company to relocate its poles on Washington street was taken from the table. On motion of Alderman Bullard, it was passed conditionally, it being understood that it would be rescinded provided the terms of agreement between the railroad and gas companies could not be satisfactorily fixed upon.

An order was adopted granting locations to the Wellesley & Boston Street Railway Company for tracks, overhead wires, etc., for the operation of an electric line on Washington street from Wellesley to Margin street. It is provided that the wires shall be attached to the poles of the Newton & Watertown Gas Light and New England Telephone companies. The telephone wires will be on one side of the street and the electric light and electric railway wires on the other. The order was passed with the same reservation as in the one requiring the gas company to relocate its poles on Washington street.

On motion of Alderman Hamilton, W. S. Austin was granted a license to run wagonettes on the new boulevard from the Boston line to Washington street. The wagonette will be permitted to make trips until the completion of the Commonwealth avenue electric railway.

At 9.02 o'clock it was voted to adjourn.

A Remarkable Cure of Rheumatism.

[From the Groton Connecticut Review.] David Lewis, who has been afflicted all winter by rheumatism, is out again and all due to one of the medicines advertised in our columns. After trying everything possible, he used Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which has relieved him of all pain, from which he was a constant sufferer and promises to make him fit for duty soon. We know David has been a great sufferer and are glad to see him around again. For sale by Arthur Hudson, Newton; E. W. Kyles, Auburndale; B. B. Buck, Newton Centre; E. F. Partridge, Newtonville; B. Lovely Newton.

The writer of the "Entre Nous" column of the Sunday Herald gives Newton a great compliment and also some pertinent advice:

The suburbs are taking on their accustomed summer loveliness, although last week's winterish temperature has been somewhat of a setback to the fulfillment of all their charms. Whatever may be said of Boston proper, or, indeed, proper, there is but one voice concerning the "country" surrounding our Hub. Take for instance all the Newtons. A veritable city that touches the elbow of this older one, snuggling up, as it were, while being so mightily independent of its own rights, and offsetting bricks and mortar with its shady highways, studded with every variety of suburban architecture. What Newton's ambition will ultimately accomplish in civic importance is a tale for the future, but today the whole of that richly varied land along the banks of the Charles seems capable of realizing almost any degree of metropolitan improvement. The one error American city builders labor under is trying to wipe out the element of country, to transform a section at once into an ugly town, by cutting away trees and making "business" the most conspicuous feature. It is well enough to hustle, only hustle in the right direction, and do not overlook the natural attractions, or rather hold on to them, and make them serve the purpose that the Twentieth Century Club is now nobly advocating. However, it would take a great deal of unscientific "improvement" to spoil lovely Auburndale and Riverside. The country is too beautifully disposed; it "lies too admirably under the sky line," as a well-known architect once said of a site for one of Massachusetts' country palaces, to lose the charm that at present makes this group of towns remarkable even among the famous suburbs of Boston. Certainly Riverside, with that fair imitation of the Thames, is about as attractive a summer pleasure ground as the state may boast of. Keep it so?

It Did The Business.

Mr. J. H. Cobb, publisher of the Mirror, at Brocton, N. Y., says: "For nearly two years the Mirror has been published the advertisements of Chamberlain's Remedies. A few days ago the wife was suffering from a bowel trouble and resorted to an old remedy which did not prove efficacious; finally he tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and two doses did the business, checking it completely. THE SCHOOL BOARD.

REGULAR MONTHLY MEETING—MR. BRECK THINKS THE SALARIES PAID TEACHERS ARE TOO HIGH—THE USUAL ROUTINE BUSINESS.

The school board met in the Clafin building, Wednesday evening, Mayor Bothfield occupying the chair. It was the annual meeting for the nomination of teachers and, as usual, questions relating thereto were considered in executive session. There were no changes made in the corps of instructors. Some resignations were received, but the vacancies were not filled, there being no necessity for immediate action, as the resignations of those retiring do not take effect until the close of the present school term.

Mr. Smith, for the committee on accounts, presented the report of department expenditures for the month of May. The report was received.

An order offered by Mr. Hollis was passed authorizing the adoption of the High school course of studies as submitted in print. The list of studies referred to was approved by the High school committee and by the committee on courses of study.

Orders offered by Mr. Hollis were adopted providing for the closing of the High school, Tuesday, June 25, and the primary and grammar schools, Thursday, June 27; also authorizing an expenditure not exceeding $100 to defray the expenses of the June military drill exhibition.

An order offered by Mr. Smith was adopted appropriating $13,633.84 for the department expenses of May.

The following order offered by Mr. Breck was, under the rules, referred to the committee on finance and accounts; Cutting down the salaries of all teachers receiving $1200 or over per annum 10 per cent, from Sept. 1, 1895. This is a proposition of a pretty radical character and one that it is thought will hardly meet the approval of a majority of the members of the board. Mr. Breck in support of the proposition said that he thought Newton was paying more for salaries of teachers than many other cities. It paid 18 per cent. more than Somerville, 24 per cent. more than Malden, 11 per cent. more than New Bedford and 8 per cent. more than Chelsea. It seems to me, continued Mr. Breck, that Newton can secure efficient teachers at a less cost. If those employed in the schools here now are unwilling to accept the reduction, their places could be readily filled.

Mr. Smith gave notice that he should offer an amendment to the rules at the next meeting of the board, having in view the provision of a committee on teachers, that a committee report on all nominations of teachers, and to make the recommendation relating to the amount of salary to be paid. The amendment was to provide also for the submission of a written report by the superintendent to the committee relative to the qualification of teachers.

The resignation of Miss Clara M. Woodward, assistant in the Oak Hill school, was received and accepted. The same to take effect at the close of the present school term.

The following special teachers were re-appointed: Ellen L. Bond, Sarah L. Dix, Sarah Ayles, sewing, salary at rate of $500 per annum; H. Grace M. Walton, instructor of music in primary and grammar schools, salary at rate of $1500 per annum; N. L. Berry, supervisor of drawing, salary at rate of $1800 per annum; Jennie E. Iveson, education and physical culture in high school and supervisor of physical culture in primary and grammar schools, salary at rate of $1000 per annum; Clara W. Miggins, head kindergarten, salary at rate of $1000 per annum.

Mary G. Collagau was appointed an unassigned teacher and her compensation fixed at the rate of $420 per annum. Arthur L. Benyon, J. W. Howe, David F. Clarke and J. C. Newcomb were re-appointed transient officers and their compensation fixed at the rate of 50 cents per hour for actual service.

Newton High, 27, Wellesley, 2.

Newton high easily defeated Wellesley high in a game too one-sided to be very interesting on the grounds of the latter club last Friday afternoon. The batting and fielding of the home players were rather weak. Tucker pitched for the visitors, and only a few scattering hits were made off his delivery. Newton found the ball readily and lined it out for four home runs.

MUST WIN ON THEIR MERITS.

VETERAN FIREMEN PLEASED WITH NEW RULES FOR HAND TUB COMPETITIONS—THE NONANTUM INCLUDED IN LIST OF CHACK ENGINES.

Firemen's tournaments and musters in New England this season will be greater in number and better managed than ever before. Most of the hand engine musters will be held under the rules of the recently organized New England Firemen's Union, which will prevent many of the evils existing at past musters. These rules have been prepared by the firemen, and not by the inexperienced managers of musters, as most of the rules heretofore used.

The new rules prohibit contestants from using any artificial contrivances or means of any sort to assist them. Under these rules, engines must win on their merits. They also classify engines, which allows the smaller ones to contest for special prizes. This makes the conditions fair and equal for all; consequently a larger number will attend musters this season than ever before. This will be the first season when engines have been classified, except in Maine, for many years.

A wind shelter for the streams will also be used at union musters, which will prevent engines from winning or losing by wind assistance or interference.

There will be three new engines in the field this year, all 10-inch Cowen engines owned by the Lowell Veterans and the River Point and Natick (R. L.) active companies.

A number of old engines with big records will be in new hands. The Phoenix Veterans of Marblehead have recently purchased the old Okomakka Meist 2, a first class Button engine of Marlboro, a machine with several big records and capable of holding its own with anything now in the field.

The Hyde Park veterans have leased for the season the Hancock 1, a 10-inch Cowen engine of Brockton Heights, originally of Charlestown.

The Nonantum engine company of Milford, N. H., has recently purchased of Waterville (Winchendon) the old Fountain engine, formerly at Brattleboro, Vt., originally at Lynn, Mass. This is a large Hanneman machine with two sets of cylinders. It has a number of big records, its best 225 feet.

None of these engines are any better or any more competent to make big records than a majority of the old ones, such as Bow Beese, Red Jacket, Watch City, Nonantum of Newton, Volunteer, Torrent, Hay Cart, Butcher Boy, Watch emoket, or other prize winners of the past, or the last year's new White Angel of Salem.

The Bow Beese of Gardner is still the champion, with 230 feet 9 1/2 inches, as it has been since 1881.

POLICE CHANGES.

KITCHEN BAR ROOMS IN NONANTUM DISTRICT MUST GO.

The police department had what may be termed a shaking up Wednesday. It came in the nature of a transfer to other parts of the city of the officers located in the Nonantum district. The men were notified in the afternoon of the change, which went into effect yesterday.

There has been a strong feeling on the part of the police committee that there was a lax condition of affairs in Nonantum, particularly regarding the methods employed in ferreting out places where liquor is illegally sold. The mayor has been giving the matter his personal attention for the past three months and a thorough investigation has been made.

It was finally decided to put new men into the territory, selecting the best officers available, and to make a persistent effort to rid the district of all kitchen bar-rooms and places of like character.

The men assigned for this important work are Sergt. John F. Ryan, and Patrolmen Harrison, Purcell, Quilly, Burke, Dolan, R. D. Conroy and N. F. Bosworth. The latter is assigned for duty at the Nonantum station nights, being transferred from station 1. Sergt. Ryan is in charge of the squad and is to be entrusted with the responsibility of carrying out to the letter the instructions of the police committee—briefly to close up every place in the district selling liquor in defiance of the no-license law.

The men to assist him were picked out because of their good records. Some of them are transferred from routes where they have performed faithful and intelligent service. While the transfers may involve disagreeable removal to new and strange scenes, it may be regarded as an acknowledgment of their special fitness for the task. They will probably be restored to their old routes when it is completed.

The men transferred from Nonantum district are Patrolmen C. O. Davis, J. W. Conroy, Tappin and Mullen. C. O. Davis is assigned for duty nights at station 1, Conroy goes to the station one district, Tappin to Newtonville and Mullen to Auburndale.

Some of the residents of the city have thought that the condition of affairs in Nonantum district has been considerably exaggerated. It has been discovered, however, to be nearly as bad as represented. Liquor in considerable quantities has been delivered daily by wagons and it has been sold from some of these wagons in the public streets. It has even been peddled out in this way by the glass. The police committee is authority for these statements and bases them on evidence secured by the committee during its recent investigation.

There is some reason for believing that houses of ill-repute have been run in the Nonantum district, and young girls have been seen coming out of suspected places in an intoxicated condition.

The mayor is apparently determined to have matters cleaned up in Nonantum. It will be good news for the law-abiding citizens and will be gratefully received by Rev. Michael Dolan and those gentlemen who recently organized with a view to inaugurating a needed reform.

CLING TO WHAT IS PROVED.

PRESIDENT HOVEY'S ADVICE TO SENIORS OF THEOLOGICAL INSTITUTION.

The baccalaureate sermon before the faculty and students of the Newton Theological Institute was delivered last Sunday morning by President Alvah H. Hovey, D. D., in the First Baptist church, Newton Centre.

The main auditorium was crowded with the friends and relatives of the graduating class, and the musical service was conducted by the choir of young men from the seminary.

President Hovey took for his text, "Test all things; hold fast that which is good," and he said in part:

"The early Christians were without an authoritative text of the word of God. Some of the churches founded by Paul had the benefit of his personal instruction, but those of a slightly later date were without even this. But in place of a written statement of his truth, God revealed himself through the holy spirit. Thus naturally it came to pass in process of time that there were false prophets and these words of the text came to be a needed injunction.

"It is much the same in our day. Teachings must first be tested and then trusted. Every religious doctrine should first be proved, and if found to be true should be steadfastly maintained.

"The leaders of thought today belong to three classes—those of a critical, sceptical spirit, unrestrained by reverence; those of a speculative or credulous spirit, unrestrained by prudence, and those who are reverent and sober-minded and who move forward slowly but surely.

"It is well, in view of these facts, when a new doctrine comes forward, to test it. But I am morally certain that we will finish our earthly careers before we will know any other religion than this perfect one for simple men.

"Do not question the characters of men who differ from you. It is well to call in question their beliefs, not their sincerity. Do not overlook the indirect benefit of the higher criticism, which has given us a clearer view of the supreme or religious aspects of the Bible and made us affirm more vigorously its sacred message.

"If you, to you, prove all things; cling to what has been proved good, although they are old. Nature is old, faith is old, love is old. The gospel that you are called to teach is the old, old story of Jesus and His love, which existed when the morning stars sang together, and the Son of God shouted for joy. Be ready to receive the new, but never imagine your selves poor while you hold fast to what is proved, though it is as old as the sun or the sea."

Federation of Women's Club.

A notable event in Newton the past week was the consummation of an ennobling scheme evolved from the word spoken in season by one thoughtful woman in our midst.

The occasion was that of the first annual meeting of the Newton Federation of Women's clubs, an article of whose constitution thus defines its organization: "This Federation shall be neither sectarian nor partisan, but hospitable to all thought affecting the welfare of the city and the interests of humanity. Its object shall be to secure more thorough acquaintance, and in case of need, united action among the women's clubs of Newton."

Through the courtesy of the Woman's Educational club the meeting was held in the Unitarian church, West Newton. Mrs. Walton opened the meeting with words of welcome, and introduced Mrs. Baker, president of the Social Science club, which club took the initial steps in the movement. Mrs. Baker, president, said that in all things there should be unity, and stated that eight clubs, differing in aims and methods, were to form an organization for unity, and predicted that this union may prove a power, light and inspiration in the vicinity.

The balloting for officers resulted in the election of Mrs. Phipps of Newton Highlands to the presidency; Mrs. Walton of West Newton, Mrs. Sawyer of Chestnut Hill and Mrs. Peloubet of Auburndale as vice presidents; Miss Worcester of Newtonville, secretary; and Miss Ellis of Newton Centre, treasurer. These, with a council composed of the presidents of the clubs and one member for every fifty members, or fraction thereof, to be elected by the clubs themselves, shall together constitute the executive board.

Mrs. Phipps expressed the honest surprise at learning that "lots were cast" and to her had fallen "a lot," the honor and responsibility of which she appreciated.

By special request Mrs. Phipps read her paper on "The Real Use of Clubs," in which she had already sounded the keynote for united action among the women's clubs of Newton.

Bad Condition of the High School Building.

To the Editor of the GRAPHIC:

Your admirable editorial on the need of better school houses in Newton, leads me to ask for space in your columns to call to the attention of those parents, whose children are to enter the High school this autumn the exceedingly overcrowded and unsanitary condition of a part of our High school building.

This year the classes have been so full that forty pupils in the lowest grade have been obliged to sit in the art room, lighted only from the top, and with no ventilation.

That part of the High school, familiarly known as the "old building," ought never to be used for school purposes again. Last summer many leaks in the plumbing were found, and patched up, only to be found anew this year; while headaches are the constant companion of pupils who occupy that part of the building.

Dr. H. D. Chapin says "There is no subject of greater importance than the health of the rising generation. Of the many influences that affect it, the hygiene of our schools holds a prominent place, but it does not receive the attention it deserves. The school, quite as much as the home, is responsible for a great deal of ill health."

If every parent in Newton would read the May Form, the article from which

I quote the above, "Crowded Schools as Promoters of Disease," also "The Criminal Crowding of Public Schools," and then visit our High school, he or she would receive an object lesson which would need no further comment.

YALE SCORES MOST POINTS.

REDPATH SHOWS UP WELL IN HARVARD T. A. C. COMPETITIONS.

The fifth annual games of the University Track Athletic Cup Association, between Yale and Harvard, were successfully run off on Holmes' Field last Saturday afternoon. Yale won by a score of 65 points to 47, a first place counting 5, a second 2, and a third 1. Yale's margin was rather larger than what was generally conceded to her in the predictions as to the score.

Harvard's failure to win may really be ascribed to the wonderful performances of Richards of Yale, who won first in both the 100 and 220 yard dashes. He was a sprinter of very ordinary calibre last year, but this year, it seems, has been running in 10s, in practice, and was a dark horse that Yale hadn't been saying much about. Harvard expected to break even with Yale on the sprints, and knew that she would have to win either the mile walk, the mile run, or the two-mile bicycle. She lost all of these, although Elliott was picked as the favorite for the bicycle race, and Coolidge for the mile run.

At about 3.30 o'clock the games opened and the trial heats of the 100-yard dash were run off. The first heat was a pretty race. The Yale men seemed to get the best start, but Brewer of Harvard finished an easy first, with L. W. Redpath of Harvard, a Newton boy, second, and Burnett of Yale third. The second heat brought out Richards, who won out from Gonterman by a foot in an exciting finish. Bigelow of Harvard got a place for the finals. This put four Harvard men in the final heat and two Yale men. The time for both heats was 10.25s.

Richards won the finals in the same time, beating Redpath by a foot, and Gonterman came in a close third. Score—Yale, 5; Harvard, 3.

Both trial heats of the 220 ft. were pretty races. Richards of Yale easily won the first in 23s, with Gonterman, his old rival, second, and Redpath third. Marshall of Harvard fairly walked away from the field in the second heat, and won in 33s, the same time as the first heat. Byers of Yale ran prettily and took second place, and Storrs of Harvard third place.

The final heat was another victory for Richards, who finished strong and in excellent form in 22.2-5s. Redpath took second and Storrs of Harvard managed to get a place by good work. Score—Yale, 20; Harvard, 33.

Dogs and Fowls.

To the Editor of the GRAPHIC:—The time has arrived when the city council should pass stringent methods to make some of our citizens either train their dogs to be less noisy or do away with them. Then also the noisy fowls in the morning disturb the peace of many a sleeper. We are becoming too thickly settled to stand the disturbances raised by dogs and fowls.

THERE would seem to be no need of any man being without work in Newton
this year, as the highway department posted up placards this week calling for 400 able-bodied men to work upon the streets. Evidently work is to be pushed in the highway department, and there is no question but there is need of a good deal of work if our streets are to be kept up to their former high reputation. The laying of sewers put all the streets in disorder, from which they have not recovered, as the excavations had to be given time to settle, before it would be of any use to spend any great amount in repairing them. Besides, the new boulevard has taken a good deal of money
and attention, but that ought to be finished soon. The building of a thoroughly good road bed is a work that requires time as well as money, and from present indications it will be a long time yet before the section of the boulevard from Centre street to Washington is ready for public travel. Washington street, from Newton to West Newton, is in bad condition, and shows the effect that giving up the best part of a street for railway tracks always has, but as the street is soon to be widened, it would not be worth while to waste any money upon it.
Above West Newton, street railway tracks are soon to be laid, so that the same condition applies there. As the street is a main thoroughfare, and every one has occasion to ride or drive over it,
it is responsible for most of the complaints about the bad condition of our streets, and people must have patience
until these improvements are completed.

THERE is one reform connected with the amendment of Boston's charter, which we would do well to imitate in Newton. That is, elect the Mayor for a term of two years or more, and it would not be a bad idea to choose the members of the City Council for the same term.
This would give some permanency to the policies followed in city affairs, and the officials would have time to develop and carry out the improvements they have begun. The city would be the gainer, financially and in other ways.
Of course, the present policy of giving an official a second term has practically the same effect, but the official would feel more secure with a longer term, and there would not be the danger that now exists, that some combinations of local bosses could combine and defeat him, if he did not yield to their demands. Such an effort has been made in the past, generally without success, it is true, but as the city grows larger, the chances for manipulation would be greater. Take the case of the present mayor, for instance, he should be kept in office until the widening of Washington street is completed and the grade crossings are abolished. Some people may think this would mean a life term, but there really has been great progress made since the beginning of the year, as the results will show a few months hence, but at the end of the year the work will be right in the middle, and the city ought to be sure of having Mayor Bothfeld for another year, at least, so that the present
plans could be carried out, and the work
pushed forward as rapidly as possible.

ONE of the newcomers to Newtonville says that he came here for peace and quiet, but what with his neighbors' numerous dogs and their still more numerous fowls, he finds very little of either.
He is evidently unfortunate in the neighborhood he has chosen for his residence,
as there are portions of the city where neither are troublesome. If he has not purchased his house he might move to Newton proper, where there is nothing but peace and quietness, or he might in self defense keep more dogs and roosters than any of his neighbors, being careful to get the barking and crowing varieties of each, and if these are not sufficient he might buy a French horn, and practice on it late at night and very early in the morning. When the noise of others disturb a man and prove an unbearable
nuisance, it is sometimes very soothing to the nerves for him to make more noise than the others, and many attacks of nervous prostration, the doctors say are averted by these methods. We believe also, that there is a law against keeping fowls in certain sections of the city, if they are complained of as a nuisance, and perhaps the law would also cover the case of noisy and ill-bred dogs.

The decision of the supreme court on the income tax had some surprising
features, in its disregard for precedents,
the sudden change of mind of one of the justices, and the some what heated contrary opinions of the minority. Fortunately the justices were not divided politically or sectionally, but if the opinion of the majority is to stand, the government is left in a pretty weak condition, and without the means to support itself in any sudden crisis. Theoretically, nothing could be fairer than a tax on incomes, as the burden would fall on those best able to pay it, and on those who make the greatest demands on the government for protection. Justice Harlan's remarks had a good deal of foundation to rest upon, and the decision may tend to aggravate the present feeling, in certain bodies of men, that the government is run in the interests of the rich, who want the poor man to pay all the taxes. The burden falls on those least able to bear it, and this is the great difficulty with our present system of taxation, and which the income tax was designed to remedy. The statement that some of the majority members of the court are so old that they cannot be expected to live much longer, and that new men would reverse this decision, is hardly calculated to increase the respect

felt for that body.

THE changes in the Metropolitan water supply bill were of such a nature that it was finally decided to allow Newton to remain in, unless some radical amendments were made on its final passage. The first assessment Newton will have to pay will be from $2,300 to some unknown larger amount in 1898, and a small increase each year after that. The chances are that the cities that stay out will be
"roasted," when they do need water
and apply for admission, as the matter of cost is to be left to a jury made up of those cities that went into the scheme on its inception. It will be only fair to expect this, and it was judged to be much better to pay the small yearly assessment until we do need water, rather than run the chance of having to pay some exorbitant price at that time. Cambridge, Brookline, Waltham, Quincy and Milton, are the chief places that have been left out of the bill, and they may find it was a short sighted policy.

GOVERNOR GREENHALGE has grown a good deal in the estimation of citizens of all parties by his judicious use of the veto power. It took a good deal of courage to veto the unalloyed for Holyoke and Woburn police bills, in opposition to the politicians of his own party, but the governor had the courage, and he also was sufficiently in touch with public sentiment to know that the people would sustain him
Holyoke and all other cities should work out their own problems without outside help, and the experience of Boston is hardly such as to suggest that outside interference would be of any benefit.
Outsiders should pattern after Newton's model government, and avoid all politics
in choosing its city officials, and deciding upon local questions. Find the best men who can be induced to accept office,
and then elect them, without asking what their politics are, that is the way
we do in Newton.

THE shifting about of the police force,
and the sending of so many of the best men on the force to Nonantum, shows that Mayor Bothfeld is in earnest in his effort to break up the illegal liquor selling in that district. The co-operation that is given by Father Dolan and the law-abiding citizens of his parish, ought to be of great aid to the police, and give hope that the district will be effectually cleared out. It is quite an honor to the policemen who have been selected to take charge of the work, as it shows that they are men of proved ability, and that the authorities have confidence in them. The policeman's lot in Nonantum may not be a happy one, but they will have the satisfaction of knowing that there is plenty of work to be done
and if they succeed it will be greatly to their credit.

It is said that wheelmen are to engage in a general crusade against street watering in the early morning and late afternoon, and petitions are to be presented to the boards of aldermen in all cities, asking that no street watering shall be done before 8:30 a. m. and after 5 o'clock
p. m. As about everybody is now riding a wheel, what the wheelmen ask for will probably be granted. In Newton, famous for its smooth streets, there is quite a demand for a little more "sand-papering" especially around the sewer manhole covers, and to have the streets approach somewhat nearer to the perfection of the finished sections of the new boulevard, which are the admiration
of wheelmen from all sections.

THE hustlers for office have one advantage in Montana over those in other states. They had a contest over the office of attorney general recently, and the two leading candidates were a Mr.
Haskell and a Miss Knowles. Things got rather exciting, until the woman unexpectedly withdrew, and the man was chosen. Now the two are going to be married and they say that was the condition of the withdrawal. How much better this is than the disgraceful squabble between two men, and the charges of fraud and trickery when one of them wins. Let us hope Mr. and Mrs. Haskell will live happy ever after.

IN Worcester, last year, they took in $5,000 from a tax of $1 each on bicycles, and this year they expect to receive nearly double that. Bicyclists are clamoring everywhere for good roads,
and costly improvements, and it is only fair that they should help to pay for these things. Most of them, however, would be glad to contribute a reasonable amount towards better road beds. There is no tax yet in Newton upon wheels, and the authorities are overlooking an important source of income. The assessors might get enough out of such a tax
to make one first-class road bed through Newton.

THE decision of the supreme court in regard to the income tax is welcomed by all the wealthy New York newspapers except the World, as a defeat for socialism, and a great relief for the country, and it is interesting to compare their views with the way the matter appears to outsiders, who may be expected to be without prejudice. The London Chronicle, one of the leaders of English opinion, says: "The millionaires have escaped and the people generally will have to make up the deficit. It is a strange comment both on American democracy and the limits of the American constitution."

CITY TREASURER KENNICK sold $172,- 000 of 4 per cent bonds yesterday at a premium of 1.0655, the highest price paid for bonds for a long time. There were twelve bidders, and the highest were Lee, Higginson & Co. and N. W. Harris & Co. The latter bid the highest for $40,000, and Lee, Higginson & Co. took the rest. The high premium will make the interest to the city about 3.12 per cent, which shows how high Newton's credit stands in the financial world.

THE POET'S GIFT.

The poet looks with unseeing eyes
Upon the ever-changing scene.
The vale and mountain, plain and brook
He reads like pages of a book.

His ear attuned, earth's melody,
The zephyr and the morning sea,
The bird's song and musician's art,
All find an echo in his heart.

He feels the charm and subtle power
Contained in every wayside flower.
He is akin to all things wild,
For he is nature's simple child.

All living things to him are dear,
And God is ever very near.
To poets only this is given—
To find on earth a part of heaven.

—Henry Coyle.

A FEUD.

"I'll tell you, Frank, it's got to the point where something must be done," said Mrs. Burnett, and as she spoke she rapped at the small knuckles that were moving toward the sugar bowl. Morton, aged 9, jerked his hand out of the way and laughed at his mother, who pursed up her lips to conceal a smile.

"Don't do that, Morton," said Mr. Burnett. Then, turning to his wife, he asked, "What have they been doing now?"

"That boy and some more of his crowd put tin cans along the top of the fence and then threw at them to knock them off. About every other stone went over the top of the fence and went sailing across our back yard. If one of them had struck anybody, he wouldn't have known what hurt him."

"What did you do?"

"What did I do? I went out and told them if they didn't stop I'd send for a policeman. I said to that Deakin boy, 'It's a shame your mother can't teach you to be a little better than a savage.'"

"Maybe she didn't know they were doing it."

"I do believe she puts 'em up to it. That boy's enough to try the patience of a saint."

"Next time he comes into our yard I'll bet I throw something at him," put in Morton, whose chin was dripping with a mild mixture of milk and coffee.

"You leave him alone," said the male parent. "You get into enough fights already."

"Well, Frank, these boys are forever picking on him," said Mrs. Burnett.

"Boys are a good deal alike," responded her husband. "I'll bet when he gets out he's the same as the rest of them."

Morton grinned and said nothing.

The only member of the Burnett family who had not joined in the arraignment of the neighbors was Alice, 6 years of age. She knew all about the feud and shared in the suspicions of her mother, but at present she was too busy with her supper.

The Deakins lived next door, and although there was a dividing fence it had not kept the two families apart.

In the year during which the two households had dwelt side by side there had been a growing enmity. Yet Mrs. Burnett had never spoken a word to Mrs. Deakin, and her husband knew nothing of Mr. Deakin, except that he worked with his hands for a living and spent a great many evenings at home.

It would have been rather difficult for either the Burnetts or the Deakins to explain how the feud started, but it was operated from the first through the children.

There were two Deakin children—Lawrence, or Larry, aged 10, and little Willie, who, at the tender age of 3, had learned to regard the Burnett tribe with scorn and hatred and suffer to some degree under the indignities heaped upon his family by that arch fiend of juvenility, Morton Burnett.

For when the Deakins sat around the supper table and cast up the accounts of the day it was Larry who posed as the persecuted and abused child, while Morton Burnett was pictured as an infant of dark intents, headed straight for the brideveil.

"If I was a man, Tom Deakin," said the wife, "I'll warrant you I'd go over to that house and give notice that things are simply going too far. Today that boy got up on the fence and called Lawrence all kinds of names."

"He said that his mother had said that ma didn't have clothes fit to wear," suggested Lawrence, who had begun to breathe hard during the recital of his grievances.

"Anyway, I don't try to make myself look like a peacock every time I start to church," said Mrs. Deakin.

This comparison of Mrs. Burnett to a peacock tickled the children, and they laughed immoderately. Tom Deakin restrained them with a quiet "Tut, tut!" and said that the proper way to get along was to pay no attention to the neighbors.

"I'd like to know how you can help it," said his wife. "That boy is up to some mischief every hour of the day, and his mother seems to encourage him in everything he does. He throws things over into our yard, teases Willie and makes faces at him."

"Next time I see him pick on Willie I'll give him another licking," suggested Larry.

"You'll do nothing of the kind," exclaimed his mother. "Don't you remember the talking to I gave you the other time you had that fight with him?"

Lawrence remembered the mild rebuke, and his inward resolution was not changed. Tom Deakin went for his pipe, oppressed with the thought that he had been very unlucky in his selection of neighbors.

These complaints had come to him day after day from the downtrodden members of his family.

The feud had grown from a thousand aggravating circumstances.

Suppose Morton Burnett to be on the fence. His mother would open the back door and say loudly enough to make herself heard through the open windows of the Deakin house: "Morty, get down from that fence! Haven't I told you about that?"

Mrs. Deakin would hear and understand. Then she would wait her opportunity to appear on the back stoop and retaliate.

In summer time, when both women were out of doors much of the time, they occasionally exchanged glances which were more significant than anything they could have said.

When Mrs. Burnett put out her washing, she knew that Mrs. Deakin was watching her and counting the number of pillow slips and tablecloths.

When Mrs. Burnett came to the back door and called out, "Come, Alice, dear, and practice your music lesson," it was equivalent to saying to Mrs. Deakin, "Aha, we have a cottage organ in our house, but you haven't any in yours."

Mrs. Deakin had frequently informed Tom that the Burnett organ was a cheap secondhand thing.

One day, when Mrs. Deakin came home from a funeral in a covered carriage, there was consternation in the Burnett family, and accounts were not fairly balanced until a new coat of paint was put on the Burnett house.

The Deakin children told the Burnett children all that their mother had said about the probable character of Mrs. Burnett. Likewise the Burnett children repeated to the Deakin children all that they heard at the supper table.

Mrs. Burnett knew that she was being reported to Mrs. Deakin, and Mrs. Deakin felt it her duty to learn what the viperish thing had been saying. Frank Burnett and Tom Deakin became convinced each that the other's family was probably more to blame over the fence, clothes-line and garbage box issues.

Allie Burnett started to run across the street one day in front of a delivery wagon. She fell, scrambled to her feet again, and the horse's knee struck her in the back. She fell on the truck pavement and lay quiet.

Mrs. Deakin saw it all from her front window. She ran into the street and gathered the muddled child in her arms. The frightened driver had left his wagon, and he followed her timidly to the front door of the Burnett house.

Mrs. Burnett screamed, and then began to cry.

"Run for a doctor, you loony!" said Mrs. Deakin to the driver as she placed the limp little body on a bed and then ran for cold water and cloths.

When the girl opened her eyes, she found her mother on one side, Mrs. Deakin on the other, while a reassuring physician smiled at her over the footboard.

"She's a little jolted up and bumped her head when she fell, but it was mostly shock," he said.

"Law me," gasped Mrs. Deakin; "when I saw that child fall, my heart just went into my throat! Don't cry, Allie; you ain't a bit hurt. The doctor says I can put some more poultice on your bad old bump."

"I'll get it," said Mrs. Burnett.

"No; you sit still. You are as pale as a ghost."

That is how it happened that Frank Burnett, coming home from the works by the back way, found in his kitchen the hated vixen, the trainer of criminals, the woman without character—Mrs. Deakin.

She told him what had happened and begged him not to frighten his wife, as there wasn't any real danger.

Mr. Deakin was likewise surprised upon arriving home. Supper was not ready, and his wife had gone over to the enemy. He went after her and was taken in.

Mrs. Deakin told him she couldn't come home because Mrs. Burnett was all upset, and some one would have to take care of the child. So Mr. Deakin and his two boys ate a cold lunch with Mr. Burnett and his boy.

Mr. Burnett sent Morton out to get two cigars, and while the women sat by the bed in the front room the men sat in the back room and smoked, while the three boys, awed by the revolution, kept very quiet.

"If Morton ever bothers you, Mr. Deakin," said Mr. Burnett, "you just let me know, and I'll tend to him."

"I was just going to say to you that Larry's apt to be too gay now and then, and if I ever hear of him picking on your children I'll make him remember it."

In the front room Mrs. Burnett was thanking Mrs. Deakin, who was hoping that her children had never bothered Mrs. Burnett very much. The little girl went to sleep, and the Deakin family went home.

That was the end of the feud. In each household there was a general order that in case of a neighborhood riot punishment should be visited upon those nearest at hand.

Those two houses, side by side, became the peace center of the west division.

The Deakin children were at liberty to go over and thump on the Burnett cottage organ.

But who ended the feud—the men, the women or the 6-year-old?—Chicago Record.

Runaway on the Ocean.
A runaway steamer must be an exceedingly unpleasant sort of sea serpent for the passengers on board her. The steamer Marchioness of Breadalbane, while making the passage from Rothery to Gourock, met with an accident to her machinery, and the engineers were unable to stop her. The captain therefore took her out into midchannel and spun round in a circle till the steam was nearly exhausted, when the runaway was headed for Gourock, where she was secured by ropes and the rest of the steam run off.—London Graphic.

Positive as to One of Them.
"What lessons should we learn, Wendell," asked the Sunday school teacher, "from this story of demoniacal possession?"

"One of the lessons we should learn from it," replied the little Boston boy, "is that the word demoniacal is accented on the antepenultimate."—Chicago Tribune.

"It is with pleasure and grateful heart that I write these few lines. I am very sorry that I cannot tell all I feel in regard to Hood's Sarsaparilla, Hood's Ointment and Hood's Pills. They have done so much good in my family."

I cannot do without any of them. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla after the grip when I was so weak and good for nothing that it tired me to see any one move. It made me well and strong as ever. My little daughter 18 months old had a bad swelling

On Each Side of Her Throat. I began giving her Hood's Sarsaparilla and rubbing the swelling with Hood's Olive Ointment. In a short time one swelling broke and discharged and both Assessors' Notice.

The inhabitants of the City of Newton, and all other persons liable to pay taxes therein, are hereby required to bring in to the Assessors of said Newton, on any day from

May First, to the Fourteenth Day of June Next,

true lists of all their Polls (MALES 20 YEARS OLD AND UPWARD), and schedules and estimates of their personal estates, not exempt from taxation.

ASSESSMENT OF POLLS AND REGISTRATION OF WOMEN.

SECT. 16, CHAP. 417, ACTS OF 1893. Amended
by SECT. 1, CHAP. 268, ACTS OF 1894.

The Assessors, by one or more of their number,
or by one or more Assistant Assessors, shall, in the month of May or June, in each year, visit every building in their respective cities and towns, and, after diligent inquiry, make true
lists containing, as near as they can ascertain,
the name, the name, age, occupation, and residence, on the first day of May in the current year, and the residence on the first day of May in the preceding year, of every male person twenty years of age or upwards, residing in their respective cities and towns, liable to be assessed for a poll tax; and shall inquire at the residences
of the women voters whose names are contained in the list transmitted to said assessors by the registrars, according to the provisions of section
forty-five of this act, whether such women voters are resident thereat, and shall thereupon make a list of the women voters so found by them.

TRUST ESTATES.

Persons holding estates in trust, whether for minors or otherwise, are particularly requested to furnish the Assessors with statements in relation to such estates.

When estates of persons deceased have been transmitted to said assessors, the Executors, Administrators, Trustees, or other persons interested, are required and warned to give notice of such change; and in default of such notice will be held to pay the tax assessed, although such estate has been wholly distributed and paid over.

Returns of Property Held for Literary, Benevolent, Charitable, or Scientific Purposes.

In accordance with the requirements of Chapter 217, Acts of 1892, all persons and corporations are hereby required to bring in to the Assessors of Newton on any day from May first to the first day of July next, true lists of all real and personal estates held by such persons and corporations respectively for literary, benevolent,
charitable, or scientific purposes, on the first day of May, 1895, together with statements of the amount of all receipts and expenditures by such persons or corporations for said purpose during the year next preceding said first day of May;
such lists and statements to be in such detail as may be required by the tax commissioner.

SHIPPING.

Shipping and business income are not taxable
to a firm, but each resident partner must include these items in his individual return. Owners and agents of ships and vessels engaged in the foreign carrying trade, are referred to Sections 8 and 9 of Chapter 11 of the Public Statutes, for the form of return required to obtain exemption
from taxation upon the valuation of such property. Said returns to be made to the Assessors on or before June first.

Any person bringing in a list of all his taxable personal property will be assessed upon the valuation thereof, and any person neglecting to furnish the Assessors with such list within the time above specified, will be deemed at a legal meeting of the Board of Assessors as assenting to the laws of this Commonwealth.

All persons will take notice that statements of personal property must be in writing and subscribed under on or before the first day of June, or on or before the fifteenth day of June, and that the Personal Property of all taxable persons must be estimated by the Board notwithstanding any verbal statement or informal written communication to any one or more of the Assessors. P. b Stat. Chap. 11, Sect. 39 and 41. When a person has failed to bring in a list or schedule of all his taxable property, in conformity to this notice, no
abatement of a tax assessed on Personal Estate
such person can be granted, "unless such tax exceeds by more than fifty per cent. the amount which would have been assessed to that person on Personal Estate if he had seasonably brought in said list; and if said tax exceeds by more than fifty per cent. the said amount, the abatement shall be only of the excess above the said fifty per cent."—Public Statutes, Chapter 11, Section 73.

Blank schedules will be furnished on application at the office, or to either of the assessors.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

TREMONT THEATRE.—On Monday occurs
that long awaited, much heralded event, the opening of Mr. Harry Askin's second annual festival of comic opera at the Tremont Theatre, when, for the first time on any stage, will be presented the new opera "The Sphinx" by two Boston gentlemen, Messrs. Wm. Browne and Lewis S. Thompson. The Tremont will have on its holiday dress, a more beautiful one than ever it wore before, in honor of the event. Especially will it be beautified for the first night, which is Harvard night, when hundreds of college men will be present, and the entire Hasty Pudding Club will attend in a body. Of his new opera Mr. Askin has the highest hopes. Not only is he satisfied with its novelty, the brilliancy of the book, the tunefulness of the music and the magnificence of the production will have their effect, but the admirable cast
he has secured will, he is sure, astonish
those who are accustomed to summer opera. "The Sphinx" was the name of a burlesque produced by the Hasty Pudding
club three years ago, for which Mr.
Thompson wrote the music and Mr.
David Grey the book; but it has nothing
in common with the present work except so far as the retention of a few of the composer's best musical numbers,
and the name "The Sphinx." Mr.
Browne has written a very clever book,
and has made out of the cold, stone Sphinx a beautiful being, on whose existence hinges a very funny plot. Mr.
Thompson's new music is said to be infinitely better than even the best numbers kept from the first "Sphinx" and if this be so there can be little doubt of the excellence of the score. Mr. Askin has placed the scenery in the hands of Mr.
Chas. W. Witham. The opera demands three entire sets, the first showing a school yard and school in the suburbs of Cairo, the second midnight at the foot of the Great Sphinx, and the third the camp of the Bedouins in the desert.
Mme. Bryce Gammel has made the costumes, and it is claimed that nothing has been seen in Boston for a long time to compare with them. The beautiful garb of the Egyptian maidens, the romantic attire of the Bedouins, and the fantastic dresses of the other characters
have given great opportunity for effectiveness. The company secured by Mr.
Askin includes Mr. Edwin Stevens, the well known comedian, Mr. Walter Allen, late of Thomas O. Seabrooke's company,
Mr. J. Aldrich Libby, the famous baritone,
Miss Christie McDonald, Miss
Nannie Morse, and the great favorite,
Mrs. Laura Joyce Bell. For his prima donna, Mr. Askin has engaged Miss Marie Millard, a daughter of the famous song writer, Mr. Harrison Millard, who has returned to America, from a long course of vocal study in Paris. She is a beautiful girl, and possessed of what everyone who has heard her, calls a remarkable voice.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—William Barry
for his second engagement of the season
at the Grand Opera House next week brings with him a troop of assistant merry-makers. His comedy is "The Rising Generation," written by William Gill, author of Dixey's "Adonis" and other successes. The piece is in its second season, but has far from exhausted its welcome, for in addition to his own comicallities and songs, we have Lynn Barry, a pleasing contralto, James Manning, a comedian second only to the principal, Lizzie Conway, quartets, sets of singers and dancers, and an abundance of specialties. The forthcoming presentations of "The Rising Generation" are the last which Mr.

Barry will present in this city, and during the engagement on Tuesday matinee will be given. On Tuesday evening a testimonial benefit will be tendered Wm.
L. Malley (formerly Mr. Barry's manager) by Wm. Barry and Messrs. Man-field and Magee. Decoration Day, Thursday, May 30th, there will be a gala matinee given, the seats for which are now on sale.

BOWDOIN SQUARE THEATRE.—"Little Lord Fauntleroy" will be the attraction at the Bowdoin Square Theatre for the week beginning Monday, and the fascinating play will be presented in handsome shape by a most competent company. Mrs. Burnett's romance, as is well known, has been dramatized in a manner fully in keeping with the spirit of the story, and it is constantly interesting. No more charming or helpful play has been presented to ladies and children. The little ones especially are captivated with the speech and experiences of the real lord and they watch
the movements of the actor of this part with bated breath and eager eyes. No more enjoyable treat could be given good little boys and good little girls. Manager Atkinson is making a special effort
to have this revival prove a phenomenal artistic and financial success. There will be an extra matinee on Memorial Day.

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE.—The last week of "1492" as well as of the season
at the Hollis will begin Monday. "1492"
has never been better run than at present and Miss Vaughn, Mr. Jones, Mr.
Harlow and the rest are proving themselves as acceptable as ever. The burlesque on Tribby is most amusing and the Kilany living pictures are marvels of artistic beauty. An extra matinee will be given on Decoration day in addition to the regular Wednesday and Saturday
matinees.

BOOKS AND MAGAZINES.

HARBERS.

Harpers for June is profusely illustrated and opens with a striking portrait of Nicholas I. of Russia. There are illustrated articles by Julia Ralph, by Richard Harding Davis, George Forsyth, W.
D. Howells, William Hamilton, and William Sharp, and other writers, the illustrations being drawn by famous artists. The Personal Resolutions of Joan of Arc continue to suggest the best work of Mark Twain, though he still refuses to confess that he is the author. Thomas Hardy's second novel, a most absorbing interest, and there are a number of excellent short stories, and poems by Louise Imogen Guiney and others.

THE MARRIAGE OF ESTHER.

This story of two friends in Australia has comparatively little of the local coloring which should expect from a writer like Mr. Guy Boothby, who has published a book of his travels in that far-off country, and there is an atmosphere of unreality about the characters
that is even less conducive to the illusions of verity. We meet the friends first at the bar of a hotel, where one is drunk and the other fights for him. They have lost money, friends, and reputation
and are at the lowest ebb of respectability. The story tells of their reinstatement to places of trust, of the love story
of one and the self-sacrifice of the other,
and this with certain complications that add to the interest of the story.—D. Appleton & Co. 50c.

Literary Notes.

Messrs. D. Appleton & Co. announce for immediate publication: Handbook of Birds, by Frank M. Chapman, of the American Museum of Natural History, with many illustrations; Master and Man, the new work of fiction by Tolstoy, with an introduction by W. D. Howells;
The Story of Primitive Man, by Edwin Clood; a new volume in the Library of Useful Stories; European and American Cuisine, by Mrs. Gesine Lemcke; In the Fire of the Forge, a romance of old Nuremberg, by Dr. George Ebers; The Art of Newspaper Making, by Charles
A. Dana; The Vengeance of James Van-stank, a novel by Mrs. H. Newell;
and a Study in Prejudices, a striking novel by George Paston, author of A Modern Amazon.

The latest success of the London literary season seems to be The Gods, Some Mortals, and Lord Wickenham, the novel
by John Oliver Hobbes. Mr. G. W.
Smalley devotes much space to this novel in a recent cable dispatch, and he declares that the author has secured permanent fame.

Count Tolstoy's new work of fiction is entitled Master and Man, and the American publishers are D. Appleton & Co.
It is described as a story of great power
and perfect simplicity.

Agreeably Surprised.

"I had a very severe cold on my lungs
that caused much soreness and gave me
considerable uneasiness in regard to the
result," says Mr. T. E. Smith, of Bil-
lerica, Mass. "A local druggist called
my attention to Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and on his recommendation I gave the remedy a careful trial. The
result surprised me; I recovered entirely
in three days." 25 and 50 cent bottles
for sale by Arthur Hudson, Newton;
E. W. Keves, Auburndale; B. B. Buck, Newton Centre; E. F. Partridge, Newtonville; B. Billings, Newton Upper Falls; H. Green, Newton Highlands; Druggists.

Political and Otherwise.]

It is rumored that the police committee struggled with some of the inconsistencies of the civil service provisions, if picking out three men from a list of five for police appointments can be properly attributed to that cause.

When a man has the temerity to suggest the advisability of requiring private corporations to pay a trifle for valuable franchises, there comes forth such a torrent of eloquence from the lawyers, having for its object the pointing out of the absurdity of the proposition, that one can almost detect the scent of the retaining fee. The legislation up to date seems to be altogether in favor of railroad companies occupying the major portion of streets or stretches of territory through towns and cities. We need a few laws in this state in the interests of the people.
In our adherence to aristocratic notions,
that necessity is frequently forgotten.
More light upon this subject is imperative, and in securing it why not follow
the suggestion of Alderman Green,
so far as some of our principal highways
are concerned, and get the needed illumination without expense to the municipality?

Police men assigned for duty on the patrol wagon, it is whispered, have a fat snap. It looks a little that way, judging from the adroitness of some of them.
The best cure for increasing weight is little boys and good little girls. They are, according to the testimony of those who are qualified to give an opinion on the subject.

Speaking of experiences, newspaper men could narrate some that would prove interesting. One would hardly believe in this enlightened age that people could be small enough to persistently work the local and Boston papers for notices and then expect them to buy their tickets and furnish a gratuitous "write-up" of a column or so. To adhere strictly to the truth, the newspaper man rarely meets that type, but if he does there is never any doubt in his mind as to its antecedents.
Immediately when he meets that distinctive pattern of pure and unadulterated shoddy among the polite and refined set. It seems too bad that such mushrooms ever acquire means enough, (their assurance is never lacking), to force self-respecting people to put up with their society.

Double toed Bill, a well known character about town, is in trouble. He claims that luck is against him inasmuch as the deformity of his pedal extremities prevents him from entering the competition for the Tribby slipper.

It does not follow, because one purchases a lawn mower that the grass
about his premises will always be neatly cut. His wife may be lazy.

A pretty girl in bloomers, minus the conventional leggings, may be an advance step in woman's disinclination,
but it nevertheless appears to be a curious ailment of the notions of modesty that have rendered her so attractive in skirts.

Man is a slave to habit. The fellow who beats his fare on the street railway cars seldom drops a nickel in the contribution box.

Whist playing in a promiscuous company is one of the greatest incentives of silent profanity that the red-costumed
"gentleman" ever invented.

Kissing is unhealthy. So is cigarette smoking. There don't appear to be any diseases, however, in the popularity of either custom.

Some men give away family secrets
under the influence of intoxicants; others
make a practice of peddling out the same information when they are perfectly sober.

A subscriber complains because the local papers do not advocate putting all wires underground. What's the use of destroying a chance for a prospective
item in a place where news is a scarce article. Following a storm, the overhead wires are liable to take a tumble and the telephone and telegraph service is sure to be knocked out. That furnishes an opportunity for an enterprising reporter
not to be despised. Business is business and the editors of suburban publications must be left some little foundation of fairy tales.

Pulmonary consumption, in the early stages, may be checked by the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It stops the distressing cough, soothes irritation of the throat and lungs, and induces much-needed repose.
Hundreds have testified to the remarkable virtues of this preparation.

How She Obtained Relief.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

"Nearly all last winter I was sick in bed, and was attended by different physicians; none cured me, none helped me very much. When I attempted to get up, it was always the same story; my back would ache, I was dizzy and faint, the bearing-down pains were terrible. I also had kidney trouble badly. I knew I must have help right away. I resolved to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.
The results were marvellous. I have gained in every way, and am entirely cured."—MRS. MARTIN HALE,

—Unitarian church, Sunday, May 26—Services at 10:30, sermon, "A new statement of an old question." Sunday school at 12. H. H. Union at 7:30. Mrs. Bernard Whitman of Boston, secretary of the Lord a Hand club, will give the address. The public cordially invited.
—The cycle track is the rendezvous every night of a large number of youthful wheelmen who indulge in rivalry trials of speed. The races, at least some of them, have been hotly contested and a few of the boys apparently belong in the "flyer" class. There have been a few mishaps—such as leaders and tumbler, the result of a collision, but up to date no one has been seriously hurt.
—Somewhat residents secured the impression that there was a scheme hatching for another string of poles on the boulevard. The incentive for that belief was the petition of the Newton & Waltham Gas Light Company for locations there. It was simply a means of calling attention to the company's rights and to provide a means of running its wires. The gas company did not desire, really, an additional line of poles and knew perfectly well that any request of that character would be denied. What it did want to do was to impress the city council with the importance of an arrangement with the street railway people to carry certain of its wires by means of cross-arms, the usual method adopted where all wires must be run from a single line of posts.

—The N. A. C. ball nine is in good fortune this season and is made up of a strong aggregation of amateurs capable of giving some of the good teams a hustle. It is not alone fortunate in fielding talent. It possesses also a combination of young men who know where to find the ball and who can hit it hard.
—The stormy weather of the past two weeks has greatly delayed the contractors who are at work on the new N. A. C. field and as a result the baseball management has been obliged to cancel what was to have been the opening game with Marlboro, May 25th, and instead will play the Portsmouth, B. B. C., at Portsmouth, N. H., Saturday. The team will take a special train from the Union station and will be accompanied by quite a delegation of rooters.

NEWTON HIGHLANDS.

—Services at St. Paul's next Sunday at 9:45, 10:45 and 7.
—The Chautauque circle will meet next Monday with Mrs. Richards.
—Mr. W. E. Parker of Bowdoin street is removing to Newton Centre, and has taken one of the new houses on Oxford road.

—Mr. J. H. Wentworth of Elliot has purchased a lot of land of Mr. Dickerman, fronting on Harrison street, and plans are being prepared for a house, to be built this summer.
—A tennis court is being graded on a lot of land fronting Bowdoin street, to take the place of the court formerly located at the corner of Columbus and Forest streets, as that lot of land has been sold.
—Newton Highlands was distinguished last week at the meeting of the Federation of Clubs at West Newton, by having its honored citizen, Mrs. Kathleen M. Phipps, elected president of all the federated clubs.
—Every one interested in Brook Farm will be glad to hear the paper which Dr. John T. Codman will read at the annual Afternoon Tea of the Ladies' Reading circle, in the parlors of the M. E. church, on the afternoon of Friday of next week, at 3 o'clock.
—The next meeting of the Monday club will be with Mrs. Pollard, Bowdoin street. This will be the last meeting for the season, and it will also be the annual meeting for the election of officers. It will be noticed that the time for the election of officers has been changed, on account of the fact that the Federation of Clubs. A full attendance is desired.
—Newton Highlands is to be further beautified by the laying out of a small park on land belonging to the city of Boston, on the aqueduct, between Bowdoin and Hillside street. The work of grading is to be done by the city of Newton, and the subject for same to be given by residents in the neighborhood. The Highlands Improvement Association will ornament the grounds with trees and shrubs.
—The annual meeting of the West End Literary club was held May 20th. The list of officers for the ensuing year is as follows: president, Mrs. J. R. Smith; vice-president, Mrs. W. H. —Mr. H. S. Hiltz, the station agent at Elliot, has sold his house on Harrison street to Hon. Thomas Weston of Newton, who has purchased Mr. Weston's two lots of land on Richmond road, and will build a house on one of the lots in the near future. On the Weston lands 4 fine houses have been built, and the grading of several lots has been going on which is bringing these lands into notice.
—At a meeting of the Congregational church, held in the chapel on Friday evening last, it was voted to give the pastor, Rev. Mr. Havens, an additional vacation of three months, making a summer vacation of three months. Mr. Havens will make a trip to Europe and will be absent about ten weeks, and expects to be in his pulpit again the 2nd Sunday in September. An appropriation was made by the church for the pulpit supply.

—At the Methodist church, corner of Erie avenue and Hartford street, on Sunday, May 26, morning service at 10:30 (instead of 10:45 as formerly); sermon by Rev. T. L. Hunt of Boston University, subject, "Hope." In the afternoon at 3 o'clock a service will be held to inspire patriotism and good citizenship. Rev. C. H. Hanaford of Allston will speak on the subject of "America's Foes and How to Meet Them." Evening service at 7, sermon by the pastor, subject, "Bugle Blasts after the Battle, or the Wisdom of War"—keeping in mind the fact that this is Memorial Sabbath.

Y. M. C. A.

Meeting for boys next Sunday at 3 p. m.
—Mr. S. R. Chapman of People's church, Boston, who so ably conducted the men's meeting last Sunday afternoon, will give a special talk to young men next Sunday at 4 p. m.
—Rev. Dillon Bronson gave his highly interesting illustrated lecture on "Japan" before the boys' department last Thursday evening.
—Next Tuesday evening from 8 until 10 o'clock the Women's Auxiliary to the Newton Y. M. C. A. will render its first reception to young men the association rooms. Refreshments will be served.
—Last Wednesday evening the Newton Y. M. C. A. chess club visited the Waltham Y. M. C. A. and although they did not win the victor's wreath the evening was most enjoyable one to all, 8 games were played, 6 were won by Waltham, 1 by Newton, and one draw. Next Wednesday evening they will play at Newton and it is hoped that a better showing will be made.

Hotel Nantasket.

Mr. E. F. Sturgis, proprietor of the Hotel Nantasket, who has made that a favorite place for visitors to the most famous shore resort in New England, will open the hotel and the Rockland Cafe on June 15. He has engaged Mr. F. W. Murdoch, the well-known newspaper man, who will have charge of the office and will be assisted by a competent staff. Visitors to the shore will find their wants carefully attended to at the famous hotel, which is one of the features of Nantasket beach.

NEWTON LOWER FALLS.

—Two new houses are completed and ready for occupancy on the Indian Springs park property. The houses are advertised for sale.
—Mr. E. T. Rice is having his front lawn made more attractive by the removal of trees and the substitution of shrubbery and flowers. Mr. Geo. Smith has the contract.
—At a meeting of the board of aldermen, Monday evening, Henry F. Tibbitts was appointed patrolman. Andrew E. Hayden was appointed captain of Hose Co. 6, vice Bernard Early resigned. Owen McCourt was appointed hoseman.
—Mr. Ed. Jennings had two of his milk delivery wagons smashed by the horses running away from him, occurring within a week of each other. Both wagons were handsomely and newly painted and had just come from the carriage trimmer's hands.
—Officer Cunningham of the Wellesley police force ran across a gang near the depot station early last Sunday morning, whose actions and the hour they were about caused the officer to think a break was contemplated. After calling on them to halt, he fired a pistol shot in the direction; they escaped through the woods situated west of the depot. As the morning was very dark and foggy it was an easy matter for them to get away safely.

Use It in Time.

Catarrh starts in the nasal passages, affecting eyes, ears and throat and is in fact, the great enemy of the mucous membrane. Neglected colds in the head almost invariably precede catarrh, causing an excessive flow of mucus, and if the mucous discharge becomes interrupted the disagreeable results of catarrh will follow, such as bad breath, severe pain across forehead and about the eyes, a roaring and buzzing sound in the ears, and oftentimes a very offensive discharge. Ely's Cream Balm is the acknowledged cure for these troubles.

THEOLOGICALS ALUMNI EXERCISES.

ADDRESS BY REV. GEORGE E. MERRILL ON INDIVIDUALISM.

Wednesday was alumni day at the Newton Theological Institute, and more than 200 graduates, many of whom are leading clergymen of the Baptist denomination, returned to visit their alma mater and attended the exercises of memorial week.

The morning and early afternoon hours were devoted to meetings of the different classes, nearly 30 of which were represented, and at 3:30 o'clock the formal meeting of the alumni association was held in the First Baptist Church.

The principal speaker was Rev. George E. Merrill of Newton, who delivered an address on "Individualism." He said among other things that one of the tendencies of our time is to obliterate the individual. The consideration of the race problem is too vague among us, and social organization is the watchword of our time. The public school is a vast and hard system, which often acts to the detriment of the individual pupil. Corporations have taken the place of partnership, and we see combination in everything. "Altruism is now the socialistic generalization for the scriptural 'Love thy neighbor as thyself.' In the church, also, there is talk of ecclesiastical unity. It is my belief that there is danger in all this largeness. Every single vote has its place, and the time is come when we should strike the discord that will bring home this fact to us.

We are bound to study social problems. The church has not failed in this, and is moving constantly forward. Our zeal should be more active. Our religion in its essential principles is antagonistic to the socialism of books. It is opposed to the church unity. No social solidarity can perfect the content, faith, hope and charity which are necessary to complete social regeneration."

The necrology was next read by Prof. Brown.

At 5:30 o'clock the annual alumni dinner was served in Sturtevant Hall. After the material comfort of the guests had been amply provided for brief addresses were delivered by President Hovey, Rev. B. A. Greene, D. D., of Lynn; Rev. H. Hinckley, Rosindale; Rev. N. J. Wheeler, Tarrytown, N. Y.; Rev. T. S. Samson, and Rev. W. S. Ayres, Portland, and others.

The evening, an address was delivered by Rev. H. A. Hixcox of Malden. The annual graduation exercises were held yesterday morning in the First Baptist church.

The essays of the class were of an unusually high order of merit.

They were delivered as follows:
"The Attitude of the Preacher Toward the Questions of Marriage and Divorce," Neil Andrews, Jr.
"Doctrinal Preaching Promotive of Christian Activity," Arthur Ernest Harriman.

"The Need of Missionary Training for Pastors," Albert Edward Hyman.

"Romanism and How to Meet It," James William Hilsley.

"Christian Service a Means of Sanctification," Condillac Jean-Jacques.

"A Minister's Duty to Himself in His First Pastorate," Clarence Reginald Minard.

"Denominational Loyalty," Henry Franklin Tibbitts.

"The Pastor's Authority," Arthur Locke Winn.

The address to the graduates was delivered by Prof. Rush Rhee of the institutions.

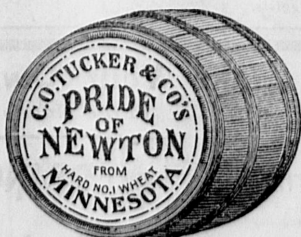

Diplomas were awarded with a brief address by President Alvah Hovey as follows.

English department—William Samuel Braddon, Colorado Springs; Francis Clayton Briggs, Cambridge; Lyman Eugene Carter, Rowley; Harry Willard Buchanan, Orange; Willard Colby Cooke, Newton Centre; Frank Day, Lockport, N. Y.; Albert Palmer Fox, Richmond, Arthur Ernest Harriman, Sterling; David Mount Lockrow, Albany; Arthur Locke Winn, Winchester.

NEWTON.

—Pianos, Farley, 433 Washington St., N.
—The Newtonian Cycle club will make a run to Salem, Sunday.
—Dr. Clara W. Reed has returned from New Hampshire.
—The far famed Fowler bicycles can be seen at W. A. Hodgdon's, 326 Centre St.
—Mr. Fred A. Gay and family left yesterday for a month's stay at Ft. Allen.
—Fine complicated watch and clock repairing at W. A. Hodgdon's, 326 Centre St.
—Centre street, which has been in bad condition since the drain was laid last winter, is being put in shape again.
—Dr. and Mrs. Kenelm Winlow are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son.
—Dr. and Mrs. William Z. Ripley are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter.
—Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Loring and Master Raymond Loring will sail for Europe the fifth of June.
—Mrs. J. S. Edmonds gave a luncheon to a party of sixteen ladies last Wednesday afternoon, after which whist was enjoyed.
—Mrs. E. C. Fitch and Miss Helen and Master Charles Fitch have sailed for England, leaving New York on Wednesday of this week.
—Mr. Hiram Simmons of Waverley avenue, is building a handsome residence on the corner of Hunnewell avenue and Copley street.
—Brigadier Brewer of the Salvation Army, will conduct the Y. M. C. A. service, Sunday, at 4.30. Harry Inman, cornetist, will assist.
—Miss Annie Richardson, who has been ill with rheumatic fever at the home of her cousin, Mrs. C. R. Young, of Washington street, was taken yesterday to the hospital.
—A fashionable dress maker of experience would like a few engagements. Cutting and fitting a specialty; satisfaction guaranteed. Miss McGill, 3 Fayette street, 34 2t.

—The Afternoon Whist club held its last meeting for the year at the residence of M. S. Elms on Arlington street. There were the usual number of tables and the prizes were very beautiful.
—At the Methodist church on Sunday next, Rev. Mr. Bronson will speak in the morning on "I am the good Shepherd." Prof. Geo. K. Morris will preach in the evening. All cordially welcomed.
—A company of local business men went fishing, yesterday, and had a fine trip, starting from Manchester. The extent of their catch has not been reported by any of the party.
—Members of a Hunnewell Hill Whist Club drove to Concord last Saturday for a four-in-hand, and spent the day at the camp owned by Newton gentlemen on White Pond.
—Ten thousand or more wheelmen attended the Waltham races, yesterday, to see the famous Zimmerman and the other scorers. In the one-mile open, Murphy won by a duke, Porter of Newton being a close second.
—Shelves have been placed in the delivery room of the Free Library, where the new books will be placed, so that they can be examined by those who wish. This will be a very popular feature as desired has often been expressed for something of the kind.
—Miss Wilder of Fairmont avenue gave a largely attended reception, Monday afternoon, for Mrs. Wolcott Calkins, at which most of the members of the Newton Science Club, and many members of the other Women's clubs in the city were present.
—Bicycling is becoming such a popular sport now that the two largest factories cannot fill the large orders on hand, for the city. They are taking orders with the understanding that a delay of six weeks or more is necessary. Every one seems to be riding a bicycle, and the proper caper is to get in line with the rest.

—R. K. Sheppard of Newton was the orator at the "Tech" class day, yesterday, and was elected secretary and treasurer of the class. E. H. Huxley had the honor of being given one of the commencement parts, and at the Tuesday exercises read a paper on the "Pass of a right-wheel passenger locomotive."
—A little girl of about twelve or so was seen riding along the other day on a wheel, screaming for help at the top of her voice. The mystery was solved when two boys ran out and grabbed her, as seems the beginning of a new craze for riding wheels. She couldn't stop it. Older beginners, who have trouble in keeping their wheel upright, rather envied her experience, as they are never troubled in that way.
—Waverley avenue is believed by bicyclists to be the "death road" and a serious accident happened there this week. A cyclist was following a team, which suddenly turned into private grounds, and in the collision that followed the wheelman was thrown under the horse's feet, and his wheel badly damaged. Fortunately he was only stunned by the fall, and was able to go on his way after a short time.

—Music for Grace church Sunday night: SPECIAL SERVICE OF SONG.
Processional, "Rejoice ye pure in heart."
Gloria in Excelsis, Magnificat,
Nunc Dimittis,
Anthem, "Hear my prayer."
Anthem, "The Lord is great."
Anthem, "Be merciful unto me, O God."
Te Deum,
Anthem, "Come Holy Spirit."
Recessional, "Jerusalem my happy home."
—Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Davis gave an informal reception Mr. and Mrs. Waldo Claffin of Philadelphia, on Tuesday evening, at their charming home in this city. Members of the Willoughby Lake party of Appalachians were invited and were delighted to meet the Philadelphia friends. The pink hawthorne blossoms and snowballs made a pleasing house decoration, and a delicious collation was served. A bright talk on the attractions of Seal Harbor, Mt. Desert, and a short paper on the history of the Willoughby Lake trip last October, added to the interest. Mr. and Mrs. Claffin have been visiting in Boston for the past few days, and will leave for Philadelphia tomorrow morning. They are both graduates of the Willoughby Lake party.

—A Herald dispatch from Lincoln says that four young men from Newton, with a wagon filled with liquor, came out there and spent Saturday night in carousing, and were caught Sunday morning by four more young men, and in the afternoon started out looking for trouble, and had a fight with some bicyclists in front of St. Ann's Episcopal church. After being routed, the crowd drove to Concord. The story may be true save in the statement that the young men came from Newton, which is a liberal on their steady-going and respectable population. There are no such young men here, and they probably came from either Waltham or Watertown. Any disreputable crowd that goes out from those places usually gives out that they are from Newton.

—The girls of the Pomroy Home enjoyed a trip to the great volcano of Kilanea on Hawaii, last Saturday. Manager Sessor of the immense cyclorama of the volcano, now at the old Gettysburg building on Tremont street, invited Mrs. Matron Green and the girls to visit the world's wonder. It is needless to state that the occasion was very highly enjoyed. It is made a most instructive lesson, not only to the eye but is educational as well and richly repays a visit. We hear a report that the famous Hawaiian singers may soon be heard in Newton some Sabbath evening.
—Residents of Brighton have developed a scheme for a boulevard, to commence below Oak square, and continue across the open country to Commonwealth avenue. Plans have been prepared and submitted to the Citizens' Improvement Association of the ward, which referred the entire matter to the board of survey. The plan is to have a 60-foot street, for driving purposes only. There would be no car tracks. It would start at Tremont street, Oak square, and crossing the Dunklee estate, follow the line of Faneuil street for some distance, and then "cut across lots" to Market street, crossing Henshaw street and Cambridge streets at a point near Sparhawk street; thence through Warren street, which would be widened to 100 feet, to Commonwealth avenue.
—During the past week an elderly man, fairly well dressed, smooth shaven, and apparently about 60 years of age, has been around town. He claims to be a retired school teacher and stated that he was an agent for Mr. Lamson of the Boston Journal Encyclopedia Co. To some citizens and business men he represented that he was wealthy. When introducing himself to one man here he said that he had purchased a horse and wagon from a local grocer, who states that he never saw him. A local jeweler told a GRAPHIC reporter that he had a visit from the school teacher, and that he had indicated that he desired to make some purchases and would call again. He gave as reference some well known business men who deny his acquaintance. One young man says he was solicited for a loan of $2. The police are making an investigation.

—As illustrating how a trifle will cause an infinite amount of trouble and annoyance when all the circumstances are favorable, the loss of an axle nut from one of Parsons' express wagons last Friday afternoon, put a stop to the operation of several street car lines and delayed the movements of hundreds of people for half an hour. After the nut was gone the wheel held to the axle until crossing the Huntington avenue track at the junction of Dartmouth street, when it slipped and down went that side of the heavily loaded car. Before it could be raised about 150 cars had been brought to a halt. These were cross-town, belt line, Huntington avenue, Longwood and the other line cars going that way in double strings out of the city. The cars were held up for some time, and the express and street car men were doing their best to get out of the mess, even to sending for a West End emergency repair wagon that came with the horses on the run too late to be of service. When the axle had been picked up, the wheel was replaced, and as the nut had been found there was no further delay.
—The first reception of the Women's Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A. of the young men of the association, Tuesday evening, was indeed a success and a President J. R. W. Shapleigh said in his address the evening will surely prove a red letter one in the history of the association. The rooms underwent a transformation in the hands of the ladies, lace curtains hung at the windows, handsome rugs covered the floor, palms and potted plants with other attractive decorations adorned the rooms. The president, Mrs. E. M. Sprinzer with the officers and other members of the auxiliary, received in the parlor until 9.30 when all adjourned to the hall where an elaborate spread had been provided. J. R. W. Shapleigh, president of the association, addressed the gathering and Mr. McNichol led in prayer. After partaking of the refreshments laid before them, the company listened to some excellent singing by Mr. Bacon, some very clever readings by Mr. Conkey and a very interesting address by Hon. John D. Gilman. The evening is to be considered a fair sample the addition of a Women's Auxiliary is one of the greatest benefits the association has yet received.
—A pretty home wedding occurred on the 22nd inst. at the residence of Mrs. F. E. Hamilton, Channing street, the contracting parties being Miss Laura Mae Brooks and William B. Jones. Miss Jennie Brooks, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid and John W. Cahill was best man. The bride was attired in white, muslin cut en train, with veil and orange blossoms, the groom wore the conventional black suit. Rev. Geo. W. Shinn, D. D., rector of Grace church, officiated in his usual pleasing manner. There were friends present from Barnstable, Roslindale, Watertown and the Newtons. After the ceremony refreshments were served, furnished by Paxton. The gifts were numerous and costly. The ring presented to the bride was a diamond ring; a silver cake basket from Mr. and Mrs. Frank Spear of Roslindale; silver butter knife from J. W. Cahill; hand-carved silver fork and steel from H. D. Allen, Newton; silver tea spoons from the bride's sister, Miss Jennie Brooks; Dresden china vases from Mrs. Mack of Watertown; a lovely album from the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Brooks; silver from the groom's sister, Mrs. James Harvey; china fruit dish from Mrs. Nilsson; oval receiver from Mr. Stacy, West Newton; vases from Mr. Stacy, West Newton; dinner set from the groom's mother, Mrs. F. E. Hamilton; hand painted plaque from H. C. Hamblin, brother of the groom; hand painted vase from Miss Bennett Baker; cup and saucer from Marion E. Harvey, the little niece of the groom. Mr. and Mrs. Jones will reside at 24 Channing street, where they will be "at home" to their friends on Wednesday in June.

MEMORIAL DAY EXERCISES.

PARADE OF CHARLES WARD POST AND MILITARY ORGANIZATIONS—INTERESTING OBSERVANCES AT THE CEMETERY—GRAVES OF DECEASED SOLDIERS AND SAILORS RECEIVE FITTING DECORATION.
Memorial Day and its hallowed memories. It never shone brighter than on yesterday when members of the G. A. R. everywhere were paying fit tribute to the nation's heroes.
The graves of deceased soldiers and sailors in the several cemeteries in this city were decorated by details of Charles Ward post in the morning.
In the afternoon, the post and escorting military organizations formed in Newtonville square for the march to the Newton Cemetery and from there to Newton Centre, where the dress parade took place. The line moved shortly after 2 o'clock in the following order:
Platoon Police, City Marshal Richardson
Garden City Band, J. T. Hall leader.
Newton High School Signal Corps, mounted on bicycles, Sergt. A. S. Bullens commanding.
Chief Marshal, D. Tripp.
Chief of Staff, Col. A. M. Ferris, Adj. Gen., Col. L. F. Kingsbury, Asst. Adj. Gen., Maj. G. H. Benyon.
Col. H. Haskell, Maj. R. D. Morehouse, Capt. Charles W. Hunt, Lieut. Albert C. Warren, Lieut. Robert B. Edes, Lieut. E. Hosmer, Hammond, Prof. C. C. Bragdon, Mr. Robert H. Gardiner, Rev. P. H. Callahan, Mr. C. Bowditch Coffin, Mr. W. E. Webster, Mr. Henry H. Hunt, Mr. W. W. Palmer, Mr. E. Sands, Maj. S. A. Ranlett, Capt. S. E. Howard, Asst. Master F. A. O'Connor, Lieut. Fred P. Barnes, Lieut. C. B. Filiebrown, Lieut. Samuel Hobbs, Mr. J. D. Wellington, Mr. Frank L. Nagle, Mr. Nathl. T. Allen, Mr. E. W. Bailey, Mr. Frank Edmonds, Mr. N. H. Chadwick, Mr. Wellington Howes, Mr. G. D. Gilman.
Claffin Guards, Co. C 5th Infantry, M. V. M. Capt. J. Albert Scott as escort to the Post. Charles Ward Post 62 G. A. R., commander Samuel S. Whitcomb.
Barge containing disabled veterans.
J. Wiley Edmonds Camp 100, Sons of Veterans, Capt. J. Fred Ramsdell.
Barge containing Mrs. A. E. Cunningham Tent No. 2, Daughters of Veterans, Miss Ella Jensen, President.
Newton High School Drum Corps, John F. Carney, leader.
Newton High School Battalion.
A Co. Capt. Hollings, D Co. Capt. Huxley, B " " Kimball, E " " Nickerson, C " " Wakelind, F " " Soule.
Artillery detachment, Lieut. C. V. Moore, Commanding.
His Honor, Mayor Bothfield, City Council and Guests in carriages.

At the cemetery very impressive and interesting exercises were held at the Soldiers' monument, in which the Sons and Daughters of Veterans and the Lasell Seminary young women's military battalion participated, the latter representing the 45 states. There was an immense concourse of spectators and this entirely new and impressive feature of the day's commemoration certainly gave its inspiration of love and patriotism for the country. To be an American—what greater privilege could one enjoy, with all the nation's glowing record of history, in part a marvelous chapter of heroic sacrifice for the perpetration of our free institutions represented in government by the past and the present.
The dress parade was a successful finale and the military organizations acquitted themselves creditably. In fact, the marching during the procession to the cemetery and on the parade field, the best seen in recent years here. The N. H. S. battalion made a fine showing.
The platoon of police attracted much observation and many favorable comments. The men were steady and particularly clever in wheeling.
The route of the procession from the cemetery to the parade ground was through Walnut, Beacon, and Centre streets, Commonwealth avenue, Grafton and Homer streets, to Newton Centre playground.

N. H. S. Notes.
The battalion was photographed on the south lawn, Wednesday morning. The boys were all attired in duck trousers and presented a fine appearance.
The annual outdoor Interscholastic Athletic Meet will take place at Holmes field, Cambridge, Saturday, June 15th. Newton High under the leadership of C. V. Moore, will enter men in several events.
The German students of the High school will give an entertainment in the gymnasium, Walnut street, Tuesday afternoon, June 4th, at 4 o'clock. The proceeds will go to the German department.
The "D. G. B." '95, enjoyed a river party on Wednesday afternoon, through the kindness of Mr. Kimberly.
The pupils of the school were addressed, Wednesday morning, by several G. A. R. veterans, who gave some interesting reminiscences of the civil war.

The annual drill of the High school battalion will take place on south lawn, High school grounds on Saturday, June 5th. The concert from 1.30 to 2.30 by the famous Salem Coast band will draw a large audience. A good chance to see and hear may be had from Walnut street and Elm road.
The ball game was defeated Wednesday by the Roxbury High at Franklin Park, by a score of 18 to 3, Roxbury making nine runs in the first inning.
On Friday, the nine defeated Brookline High at Newton Centre in the best played game of the season. Score, 6 to 4. Tuesday the return game was played in Brookline and Newton again won 13 to 10.

Co. C (Fifth Regt.) Gossip.
The company attended memorial services in Grace church last Sunday evening. The command numbered about 40 men.
On the afternoon of Memorial Day the command acted as escort to Charles Ward Post 62, G. A. R.
The fine collation served in the Armory Thursday afternoon was heartily enjoyed by "the boys."
A week of hard work is expected at Muster, and only campaign uniforms will be worn. The dress uniforms and hats will not see Framingham this year.
The company will go to the muster field July 23.
Thursday afternoon, Lieut. H. B. Inman acted as adjutant in the dress parade following the Memorial Day exercises.

BUSINESS WAS RATHER SLIGHT.

CITY FATHERS HAD A QUIET AND EASY TIME MONDAY EVENING—VARIOUS POLE LOCATIONS GRANTED AND MORE PROGRESS MADE IN THE COMBINATION SYSTEM OF CARRYING OVERHEAD WIRES—BOND ORDER PASSED FOR COMMONWEALTH EXTENSION.

Both branches of the city government were in session Monday evening.

In the board of mayor and aldermen two jurors were drawn for the next session of the superior court in Cambridge, commencing June 1.—William E. Jacques of Eldredge street and Francis W. Tyler of Central street.

On recommendation of Supt. Elder, H. M. Beal was granted a permit to erect a building for storage purposes at Newton Highlands. A petition of George H. Loomis for renewal of auctioneer's license was also granted. Sundry petitions were received accompanied by orders relative to appointment of a jury to award damages for land taken on Elm street. The petitions were signed by John H. Robbins and a number of others. A petition from C. F. W. Johnson for an arc light on Lincoln street was referred to the street light committee. A petition of Thomas Clark for renewal of license for a fire and drum corps was granted. A petition of George A. Blaney, for continuance of sewer from its present end in Prince street to Chestnut street, referred to the committee on sewers; Lawrence Barry was granted a license to run an express wagon.

Hearings having been given, the N. & W. Gas Light Company were granted locations for poles and wires on Faxon, Centre, South and other streets.

On recommendation of the committee on fire department an order was adopted authorizing the laying of 1150 feet of six-inch pipe in Union street, at a cost of $1300.

On recommendation of the committee on military affairs, it was voted to exempt members of Co. C, 5th Regt., M. V. M., from jury duty.

The following orders were adopted: Authorizing the water board to lay 2025 feet pipe in Appleton street, 250 feet in Beethoven street, 225 feet in Chesley road; authorizing the completion of Commonwealth avenue from Washington to Auburn street, at an expense of $80,000, to be provided for by the sale of bonds; granting permit to New England Telephone Company to attach its wires to the poles of the Newton & Watertown Gas Light Company on Carlton avenue, Morton street and Highland avenue; granting the gas company relocations on Park, Tremont and Hartford streets, Middlesex and Bradford roads; granting the telephone company a location on Boylston street; permitting the gas company to attach its wires to poles of the telephone company on Crafts, Concord, Washington, Watertown, Sargent, Elmwood and Valentine streets, Auburndale avenue and Hunnewell terrace; granting the necessary authority to N. E. Telephone Company to attach cross-arms to 6 fire alarm poles on High street and 5 on Parsons street; providing for the construction of sewer in Appleton street from present terminus to Commonwealth avenue; appropriating $300 for expenses of city solicitor on account of city business; granting New England Telephone Company locations for poles and wires on Turner street, between Central avenue and Walnut street.

A petition of Y. A. Puta, et al., for gravel sidewalks, west side of Rowe street, was referred to the highway committee.

The board took a recess and after re-assembling, there being no further business, it was voted at 8:45 o'clock to adjourn.

In the common council, concurrent papers were acted upon.

It Did The Business.

Mr. J. H. Cobb, publisher of the Mirror, at Broomfield, N. Y., says: "For nearly two years the Mirror has been published the advertisements of Chamberlain's Remedy. A few days ago the writer was suffering from a bowel trouble and resorted to an old remedy which did not prove efficacious; finally he tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and two doses did the business, checking it completely. For sale by Arthur Hudson, Newton; E. W. Keyes, Auburndale; B. B. Buck, Newton Centre; E. F. Partridge, Newtonville; B. Billings, Newton Upper Falls; J. H. Green, Newton Highlands, Druggists.

The Author of America.

Bud Brier in the Globe has the following in reference to an interview with Dr. S. F. Smith: I rode out to Newton last evening with Dr. Smith, the author of our national anthem, "America." The venerable gentleman was in splendid health and spirits, and as he introduced me to his gracious helpmate, Mrs. Smith, I rejoiced in knowing such sweet old people, and I felt, more than ever, honored in being a fellow-resident in the garden city with this distinguished patriot. We chatted particularly about poetry, a field of conversation upon which Dr. Smith is charmingly at home.

"Do you know," he remarked, "I was surprised to learn from the editor of my works that he has found among them 70 poems of patriotic tendencies. I had no idea that I had written so many patriotic lyrics."

"They are but the patriotic effusions of a patriotic heart, doctor," I replied. "Your mind and heart, constantly inspired by patriotic motives naturally found expressions in your famous lines. The fact that you breathed forth this patriotic spirit, often unconsciously, only proves the patriotism all the deeper."

The grand old man modestly bowed, and said a loving "I thank you."

Agreeably Surprised.

"I had a very severe cold on my lungs that caused much soreness and gave me considerable uneasiness in regard to the result," says Mr. T. E. Smith, of Billerica, Mass. "A physician suggested that my attention to Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and on his recommendation I gave the remedy a careful trial. The result surprised me; I recovered entirely in three days." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Arthur Hudson, Newton; E. W. Keyes, Auburndale; B. B. Buck, Newton Centre; E. F. Partridge, Newtonville; B. Billings, Newton Upper Falls; J. H. Green, Newton Highlands, Druggists.

Mr. Mann—"And so you have been established in this town for several years? "Have you had many cures?" Dr. J. H. Green—"No; but, you see, I've not got along so far as that yet. I'm only practising just at present."

FAIR LASSELL SOLDIERS.

THE SEMINARY GIRLS DRILLED ON THE GREENSWARD.

It was sunset when the stalwart girl soldiers of Lasell Seminary finished their field sports, Saturday, and the gay assemblage of friends cheered them to the echo.

The anti-suffragist man who declares that woman cannot shoulder a rifle doesn't know the army in training at Auburndale.

What matter if their rifles and bayonets were make-believe ones? The practical demonstration of a military training was there, and the food father's breast swelled with joy as he beheld the exactitude, the precision and the force with which his daughter went through her evolutions.

It was the annual drill of the school battalion on the lawn.

Not only did the weather man smile on the seminarians, but the boys of Harvard came a long distance to join in the fun, wearing flaming crimson bows on their coat lapels.

Appropos of the colors, the lawn was elaborately festooned with bunting, and as the drill was a competitive one between companies A and B and a bayonet drill by company C, the colors of these, viz., yellow, blue and red, floated from the tops and huge letters in the windows of the school indicated the company to which the occupants of the rooms belonged.

In short, the houses, trees and electric poles closely resembles the black-board in primary school, with their alphabetical decorations.

The only sounds that broke the summer air were the voices of the officers as they shouted their commands, and the "Hip! hip! hurrahs!" of the annex girls when one of their room-mates scored a victory.

The dark blue regimentals of the girls were in fitting contrast to the garden paths and summer gowns of the lady visitors, while the seniors were in their caps and gowns of sombre hue.

Flags floated in careless freedom from the summer house and piazza.

Bugler Thomas Henry sounded the calls for the coming and going of the different companies.

The three judges stood on the hillside with pencils and cards in hand, looking very wise and equally severe. They were Lieut. Frank L. Locke, adjutant 1st cavalry, M. V. M.; Lieut. Herbert A. Clarke, company 1, 5th infantry, M. V. M.; Lieut. W. W. Wade, company G, 5th infantry, M. V. M.

Later in the afternoon Lieut. Locke spoke to the regiment congratulating them on their excellent work and the state in having so many 20th century girls to take up arms in her cause.

In the competitive drill between companies A and B, for the blue silk banner, emblazoned with the word "Lasell," and fringed with gold, company A carried off the prize.

In the individual contest between the best of both companies for the senior medal of oxidized silver, suspended from a rifle bearing the letters, "L. S.," Sergt. Fennell of company B, won the trophy, and the junior prize, a silver matted cross, was captured by Corp. Horton of company A.

Honorable mention was given Miss Alice Andressen of company C, and Corp. Watkins of company B.

The entire battalion was reviewed by the judges at the close of the drill, while the bugler played "The Star Spangled Banner."

Maj. George H. Benyon has been the military instructor of the battalion for eight years and has many good things to say of his girl regiment.

The boys of the Newton High school regiment did escort duty on the lawn.

The roster of the battalion and companies were as follows:

Battalion—Acting major, Capt. Florence A. Ray; acting adjutant, Lieut. Gertrude M. Bucknum; acting sergeant, Priv. Alice Andressen; acting color sergeant, Corp. Edith V. Watkins.

Company A—Capt. Florence A. Ray, Ottawa, Ont.; Lieut. Mabel W. Sawyer, Dexter, Me.; 1st Serg., Annie E. Richards, Weymouth; 2nd Serg., Emma H. Goll, Chicago, Ill.; 3d Serg., Mary B. B. A. A. WILL HAVE ITS BRIDGE.

THE IMPROVEMENT OF THE GROUNDS NEAR RIVERSIDE WILL NOW GO ON.

The management of the Boston Athletic Association has been relieved from further speculation relative to the means to be adopted to connect its grounds at Weston with Riverside by some suitable approach. The only feasible way, of course, to get across the Charles river and touch the Riverside shore was by the construction of a bridge. That was the plan originally decided upon, and it was proposed to locate it west of the clubhouse of the Newton Boat Club. Just as soon as that fact leaked out, an obstacle appeared in the shape of an emphatic protest from the members of the Newton Boat Club, who made every effort to prevent the consummation of the scheme. The objection was that it would cut off the view from the boat-house down the stream, and practically destroy the half-mile racing course.

The B. A. A. tried next to locate the bridge east of the N. B. C. clubhouse. That plan failed to work on account of the great expense involved. The land necessary for an approach to the bridge in Riverside was held at a figure far above its actual valuation. So it seemed practicable only to locate the bridge west of the N. B. C. building. The land on one side of the river was owned by Mr. Francis Blake of Weston, who was willing to sell a strip to the B. A. A. He agreed, also, to furnish the funds necessary for the construction of the bridge, and had plans prepared of a substantial iron structure having a way 20 feet clear, wide enough for carriages, beside providing ample room for pedestrians.

The next move of the Newton Boat Club was that of interesting the city council in the matter. A petition, largely signed, was drawn up, urging the municipal authorities to seize a strip of Mr. Blake's land bordering on the river for park purposes, partly with a view of the improvement of the shores of the stream. The petition was influential enough to accomplish its object, and the city notified the owner of its intent to take the land for park purposes.

Visions of the bridge vanished into the thinnest air, and there the situation has hung for several months. Now, however, comes the announcement that the city will not take the land after all. There have been so many big outlays of late for boulevards and other highway and general improvements that it has been decided unwise to assume the responsibility of the improvement of the shores of the river at this time.

The way is now clear for the bridge and it will become a reality as speedily as possible. Its location will be west of the N. B. C. clubhouse, but whether extremely close to that structure or a bit farther down stream is something that is not generally known. The Newton Boat Club members hope that it will be considerably below that building, but they are inclined to believe that it will be a pretty near neighbor.

The bridge will help out the B. A. A. amazingly, as it is the only direct method that can be employed to reach its grounds. Now that it is settled that it shall be built, the work of laying out the tennis courts, cricket crease and running tracks will probably be hastened.

It is a great mistake to suppose that a simple tonic gives strength; it only stimulates the stomach to renewed action. To improve the stomach, the food must be purified and enriched, and this can only be done by such a standard alternative as Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

At the last annual meeting of the Newton Cemetery Corporation in February, they voted to change the date and place of their annual meeting from February to June, and to hold it in the chapel at the cemetery grounds, instead of at the City Hall, with a view to interesting the lot owners and representatives in the improvements and changes that are constantly being made in the grounds.

The trustees hope to see this change strongly endorsed by the presence of a large number of ladies and gentlemen at the meeting called for, Wednesday, June 12th at 3 p. m., to hear the report of the trustees for the past five months as the change in the month of the annual meeting necessitates a report for this short term.

WENT TO SCHOOL AGAIN.

FORMER PUPILS OF WEST NEWTON ENGLISH AND CLASSICAL SCHOOL TAKE UP THE WORK OF THEIR STUDENT DAYS—SOME OF THE BIG BOYS AND GIRLS DETECTED WITH WHISTLES AND THE STARTLING DISCOVERY MADE THAT THEY WERE ENGAGED IN THE DELECTABLE PASTIME OF CHEWING GUM—ALUMNI MEETING FOLLOWS ROUTINE WORK IN SCHOOL ROOM.

Two years ago, the alumni association of the West Newton English and Classical school was organized. Its third annual re-union was held in the old schoolhouse, corner of Washington and Highland streets, last Saturday. It is a building with a history and a landmark that many hope will long withstand the ravages of time. May it not be sacrificed then, even for sake of wide roads and their modern environment. The first normal school building owned by an American state and the first permanent normal schoolhouse for girls in the world is surely worthy of preservation.

The structure was erected in 1832 by the town and was known at that time as the Fuller Academy, a legacy of Judge Abraham Fuller having furnished the incentive for its construction. A few years later through the efforts of Horace Mann, it was secured for a location for the Massachusetts normal school for girls, Hon. Josiah Quincy giving his check for the purchase money. When the normal school was moved to Framingham in 1853 Mr. Nathaniel T. Allen purchased the building and it was opened under its present title of the West Newton English and Classical School. Since that time it has undergone only unimportant changes. It has not aged rapidly, for it was built well and strongly and bears but little evidence of decay. Mr. N. T. Allen still its principal and his brother, Mr. James T. Allen, is the associate principal.

It seems strange that so many years were destined to slip by before the organization of the alumni association. Such, however, is the fact, but it has its advantages in a vigor of youthfulness that gives many fair promises of a sturdy growth and development.

Upwards of 300 former pupils from nearly every state in the union attended the alumni exercises this year, a larger number than at the re-union observances a year ago, when the lads and lassies representing the classes from 1833 down to the present day met to talk over student experiences and join in social festivities in the state suite of the Hotel Vendome.

The alumni met in the old school house at 4 o'clock and an hour's amusement was furnished by going through the school exercises of 30 years ago. The "Lessons" were conducted by the Messrs. Allen, and the program comprised problems in arithmetic and geography, composition, declamation and the reading of the "Journals," which the rules of the school have required of pupils since its establishment. Various youths and maidens were called upon and expected, of course, to be thoroughly prepared. They acquitted themselves for the most part, excellently.

One poor fellow had a terrible hard time of it drawing a map and seemed rather mixed up on boundaries and other details of like importance. Was rusty, does his wife assume the responsibility of mapping out his affairs in this period, hailing the dawn of the new woman?

Another pupil, well versed in law, failed in a French lesson and her best effort was only a three-line in which some license in pronunciation was noted. Miss Thurston "make a noise," but was dreadfully frightened. Possibly, it was owing to the tooting of whistles making such a din now and again that the teachers were obliged to swing the menacing ferul and talk plain United States in efforts for the restoration of order.

There were those of both sexes a bit confused in their recitations who were detected cheating. Others abstracted their lumps when the eagle eye of authority seemed to be resting upon them and deposited them temporarily in a convenient crevice in their desks or "neath the benches where it could be rescued when the opportune moment arrived. Notwithstanding the customary antics of the frolicsome pupils, the visitors seemed to be impressed with their varied accomplishments. One old lady was heard to remark, "Dearie me, that Eddie Burrage is a big boy now; how he has grown, and 'Gene Fay too—why he's as tall as the chimney on his father's house."

A school must be dismissed sometime and that is just what happened in the case of the one referred to in this article when the hands of the clock had worked around to the right hour. From that time until 6 o'clock, it was a scene of assembly with President Eugene F. Fay presiding over a meeting of the alumni association. First in the order of business came the reports, that of the secretary stating that the organization had gained considerable strength during the past year. The treasurer's report showed that the finances were in a very satisfactory condition. These officers were elected:

President, Eugene F. Fay; sec'y, Florence L. King; treas., Edward C. Burrage; executive committee, Elizabeth Thurston, Mrs. W. H. Gould, Miss Annie M. Kittridge, Mrs. Florence L. King, Eugene F. Fay, Edward C. Burrage, George T. Davis, Henry M. Nourse and Miss Mollie P. Metcalf.

Business matters over, there was an adjournment to the supper room in the school house where an excellent collation was served. A reception was held in the City Hall at 8 o'clock followed by dancing, the torchlight procession concluding shortly after 11 o'clock. The receiving party comprised the Messrs. Allen and their wives, Mr. Henry M. Nourse, Miss Elizabeth Thurston, Miss Annie M. Kittridge, Mrs. W. H. Gould, Miss Phoebe, Miss Jennie Allen and Mr. S. S. Whitney.

The music for the evening exercises was furnished by the American (Walsham), Watch Company orchestra. The following poem, written by "Nemol" had no part in the exercises, but as it emphasizes the writer's views, so far as the preservation of the old normal school building is concerned, it seems appropriate to append it to an account of the very interesting events held there last Saturday.

An earnest citizen of this good town,
Who passed the century point of earthly years,
Went, when the great day brought crashing down
The leafy roadside sentinels, his tears
Were born of sympathy, an old time plaint
Which has been banished by the country's decess
As an old-fashioned virtue, crude and quaint,
And as much out of place as were the trees,
This is the day of boulevards and wires.

Of habitations on a sinuous plan,
Of bloomer-crowned and rubber-cushioned tires,
Of a machine propelled and guided man,
What ails it, that like a crumbling tower
Our memories invest with deepest love
The timber structure round whose facade twines
The strands which bloomed "neath the glad light above.
It is not chic, nor Tudoresque, nor florid,
They have not even modernized the shingles.
Is a garb of reality really "horrid,"
And so red paint with its exterior mingles,
Yet, hold, as I survey this throng of men,
And mark the silver threads about each brow,
The past revives and fills my pen
With reminiscent thought; Fuller and Howe, Peirce, Sumner, Parker, Davis, Perkins, May,
A host of worthies throng about the scene
Where earnest sons of Massachusetts Bay,
The tree of knowledge reared and kept it green,
A bulwark of the liberty we prize,
A fortress to maintain the precious leaven,
With loving and loyal hearts they saw arise,
Its ridge upreaching toward the blue of heaven.
On this foundation so securely laid,
Mans found a shrine for heaven prompted thought,
And "neath the stern New England roof trees
The problem of the normal school was wrought,
We, of more recent time, recall the hours
Pleasant spent in Allen's famous school
Where seeds of knowledge blossomed into flowers
And system grew beneath benignant rule,
Thanks to the earnest brothers, we survey
With clearer vision nature's boundless scope
And loving thoughts, quick cluster on the way
Which led to duty, heralded by hope.
Must all our monuments be doomed to fall?
Must every shrine be shattered? Are the days
Of memory numbered? Shall we all Forget the sturdy father's sturdy ways?
I would not give one stately forest tree,
One shaded, sweet-ferned, quiet, winding way,
For all your stately pavements to me.
The home love which was brought across the sea
And sanctified and hallowed our western shore
Thrives not amid pretension—to be free
A people must commune with nature more,
Preserve these homely monuments and trees,
Let in the future, as we tremble pass,
Your modern innovations stern decrees
Keep wearied feet forever, "Off the grass."
Honored alumni, teachers, schoolmates, friends,
Let not New England's sturdy glory wane,
Her relics faded to inglorious dust,
Her virtues lost in fanciful, heedless reign,
Let us clasp hands with stern resolve to save
Our ancient structures and the tale they tell
For those who follow us, when from the grave
These relics sanctify our last farewell.

ADIEU TO OLD CHURCH.

FINAL SERVICES IN WASHINGTON STREET HOUSE OF WORSHIP OF CENTRAL CONGREGATIONAL SOCIETY—CHARLES WARD POST AND J. WILEY EDMANDS CAMP, S. V., ATTEND INTERESTING EXERCISES IN THE AFTERNOON—PASTOR DUTTON SPEAKS OF THE MARTYR SPIRIT.

It was planned to hold services Sunday in the new church building of the Central Congregational Society, located on Walnut street, Newtonville. It became evident toward the approach of the Sabbath, however, that this would be impossible, for the work upon the interior could not be completed in time.

The old church home on Washington street was, therefore, the scene of the customary gathering of worshippers yesterday morning. The audience room was well filled, and the exercises were of an especially interesting character, partaking somewhat of the nature of a leave-taking.

The pastor, Rev. J. M. Dutton, spoke of the relation of law to the development and destiny of man.

Whence, said he, comes our knowledge of law? We discover some things through experience; some things through history; some knowledge comes to be through revelation. We come into the knowledge of laws by degrees, by successive steps, by observation. We develop an impetus to hold us to the law itself. Man must hold himself in relation to being, and to the law. Law is in every thing, in every destiny; it pertains to every individual life.

In God's laws, the revelation comes to the soul. It is the thought of God made known to us in word. The sphere of God's law is universal. It is in matter, in mind, in the present and in the future, in our temporary, or worldly career and in the eternal life. God is over all and in all. He is with us here on earth; He is in heaven—God is law. Existence without law would be only chance, without purpose. It has come to me that the authority of God's law is in Him who is the light and the life. There is no authority in the world unless there is a God. God is back of law and the author of it. His law is blessed because it establishes our relation with God and destiny. God's revelations to man are revelations of love, the unfolding of his destiny. The law under which we live, in its universal character, is God's schoolmaster to bring us to Christ.

In the afternoon memorial services were held in the old church home. Every seat in the audience room was occupied, those in the centre being reserved for the members of Charles Ward post 62, G. A. R., J. Wiley Edmands camp 100, S. V., and the officers of the Newton high school battalion. The pulpit platform had an ornate of palms and a background of flags and gracefully festooned bunting.

Rev. Mr. Dutton, delivered an appropriate discourse, taking for his topic, "The World's Debt to the Martyr Spirit." The world's greatest lessons have been learned and its greatest victories won, said he, where men have forgotten self. It is when the spirit of heroism, born of self-forgetfulness, is demonstrated that deeds of self-sacrifice and valor are recorded, to be written, perhaps, on the pages of history. Every step in the progress of science is illustrated for men who fought for the right to think, for the right to express truth. It was progress made in defiance and disregard of the power opposed to it. So it is in all human progress. It is the heroism of manhood and womanhood that has given us liberty. It is heroic, Christian endeavor that has enabled us to rejoice in the religious freedom of today.

The martyr spirit was displayed in the time of the nation's peril. It laid close to the hearts of our heroic sons, daughters and mothers. What does martyr spirit mean? It means to think more of others and country than of self. The martyr spirit, with all its halo of living power, is our blessed heritage today.

IN GRACE CHURCH,

DEAN HODGES SPEAKS OF FALSE FRIENDS OF THE GRAND ARMY OF THE REPUBLIC AT THE MEMORIAL EXERCISES SUNDAY—LARGE ATTENDANCE AT THE SERVICES.

Rev. George Hodges, dean of the Episcopal Theological Seminary, concluded his memorial sermon to members of the Charles Ward Post 62 G. A. R., Sunday evening in Grace church, with a word of warning to the comrades. He said, in part: The nation calls upon you, men of the Grand Army, with your brave record of devoted service, with the strength of your upright lives, to stay still in the field and to be as patriotic today as you were when the forces of rebellion confronted you upon the field of battle.

Let me warn you plainly of two false friends who are already doing your organization much discredit.

One of them is the politician, who would transform your broad, national patriotic society into a partisan club for his own gain. He would buy you, body and soul, in such fashion that you would not know that you were bought till the bargain was completed. He would put his hand in the public pocket to pay you for your votes. He would use you as an instrument to destroy that system of civil service which is at the same time the bulwark of the interests of the community and the barrier against political corruption. Some of you do not know what the politicians are attempting to do today in your name in this commonwealth of Massachusetts—how they are trying to make a law that you shall have employment in the offices of the state upon demand, and regardless of your qualifications; that the business of the state shall be transformed into a lame charity.

Because they are professing to do this in your name, in a name splendid with the heroic and unselfish achievements of the past, and held in pride and honor by us all, we are reluctant to speak out. It is for you, men and veterans, to refuse to be made the pretext for an attack upon this state which you once defended.

The other false friend is the pension agent. You know well how he has done and is still doing to make the sight of a man in uniform an offence in the eyes of every patriotic citizen. There ought to be pensions. The state is glad to pay them. Every man who lost his ability to earn his bread in consequence of his devotion to his country ought to be supported, and is supported, with gratitude and gladness by the country in whose service he suffered. But the present system, which the pension agent has built up in your name and for his gain—I do not need to modify the adjectives which belong to it; you yourselves will agree with me in shame and sorrow that it is notorious the world over for its greed and its fraud. One bears occasionally of the frank speech of good citizens who declare that they will rejoice when the Grand Army of the Republic is disbanded and the last veteran soldier is dead; that we may be free from these liars and thieves in uniform whose names stand beside your worthy ones on the long lists, who appear to have saved their country only for the purpose of plundering it.

A GREAT MAN GONE.

The death of Secretary Gresham is a serious loss to the country, as there are too few men of his upright character and unquestioned honesty, with courage to follow after abstract right and justice in the face of petty partisan slanders and misrepresentations. He was never popular with the politicians, partly because he lacked tact, but chiefly because he showed too openly an honest man's scorn of their petty tricks to deceive the people. That cost him a nomination to the presidency, in the estimation of many people, although his righteous decision as a judge against the Gould-Sage crowd of railroad wreckers in the famous Washburn receivership case had undoubtedly something to do with it. He was absolutely uncorruptable as a judge, and that and his other sterling qualities made him popular with the people, who know an honest man when they see him. His independence in politics accounts for a good deal of the petty and spiteful criticism that has been showered upon him as secretary of state, and whatever he might have done would have been received in the same way. Such criticism is taken up and echoed by unthinking people, who accept as gospel facts whatever they see in their party organs, but it only lasts for a day, while the real character of a man or an official becomes a matter of history. Nevertheless it takes a brave man to wait for the future to vindicate him, but Mr. Gresham's bravery was unquestioned. After all the partisan clamor has died away it will be seen that Secretary Gresham's conduct of the state department has been wise, dignified and statesmanlike, and that the reputation of the country has been enhanced by his conservative course. It is easy for men out of office to bluster and brag, but office has a sobering effect, as was seen in the case of Secretary Blaine, who had no such difficult questions to deal with as has beset the present administrator, but who disappointed all his friends by his good sense and conservatism, and his failure to "twist the tail of the British lion" or any other animal in the foreign menagerie. As a general rule, one administration is very like another in the conduct of our foreign affairs, there is only one course that can be pursued without damage to the national honor and welfare, although of course the opposition faction always tries to make out the contrary, until they are in office, when the scream of the eagle is changed to a modest murmur and other nations are treated in a gentlemanly manner. There is always a faction in a nation who think their selfish private or political interests would be advanced by a war, but fortunately they never have gained control of our national affairs, although they are able to make it very unpleasant, oftentimes, for those who do. Now that he is dead the greatness of Secretary Gresham will be generally acknowledged, and due honor accorded him. It is a great thing in this age, when money controls so many public officials, to have left a spotless reputation for honesty and integrity, for courage to have followed out one's convictions of duty, and to have kept strictly to the path of rectitude in all things. It is a record that many of our shifty politicians may well envy.

THE SILVER ISSUE.

The currency question is the leading issue throughout the country at present, and the Forum gives both sides of it in the June issue. It has succeeded in getting a serious statement from the author of "Coin's Financial School," which was evidently not intended to be taken seriously, and this statement is entitled "The Free Silver Argument." This paper is answered directly, statement by statement, by Hon. John DeWitt Warner, a member of the Coinage Committee of the House of Representatives, and a leading spirit of the New York Reform Club. This debate of free silver is one of the features of this number, and however impatient sensible men may be with the free-silver mania, it is worth while to see what the sufferers from that delusion have to say for themselves. The question will probably be one of the issues in the next presidential campaign, and several of the leading aspirants to the presidency have records which would occasion a good deal of uneasiness in financial circles, were they to succeed in their effort at capturing the nomination McKinley has coveted with the free-silver crowd, and could hardly be called a sound money man, however sound he might be on other questions. President

Harrison, when in office, was not regarded as an obstacle in the way of a free silver bill. Congressman Tom Reed is believed to be all right, although it is hardly politic for his friends to say too much on the subject in advance, and the lesser candidates are all more or less in doubt. Of course there will be a great effort by the high-tariff people to avoid the silver question altogether, and others who have axes to grind will follow their example, but all the same the greatest danger that threatens this country is the election of a silver inflationist for president.

FINE weather for Memorial Day could not have been desired, and everyone joined in observing the holiday. The exercises in the afternoon were witnessed by thousands of people, all anxious to do honor to the veterans, whose numbers grow fewer year by year, but who are a living reminder of the days when devotion to country meant something.

The Senate still seems to be favorable to corporations and has defeated the Free Transfer bill, as the West End Co. desired.

Annual Meeting of the Newton Woman Suffrage League.

The annual meeting of the League was held Wednesday evening, May 22, in the parlors of the Unitarian church, West Newton. Mr. Kimball, the president of the League in the chair. The report of the Secretary, Mrs. Anders, was read and approved. Officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: President, Edwin Kimball; Vice-presidents, Mrs. E. N. L. Walton, Mr. N. T. Allen, Mrs. J. K. Tolman; Recording Secretary, Mrs. D. A. Sargent; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. H. F. Bond; Treasurer, Mrs. T. E. Stutson; Directors, Mrs. Chas. Davis, Mrs. Kate A. Mead, Mrs. J. M. Hastings, Mrs. G. D. Gilman, Mrs. G. H. Brown, Mrs. Louise Chapman, Mrs. S. E. Howard, Mrs. E. D. Sampson, Mrs. N. T. Allen, Mrs. Ellen P. Perrin, Mrs. Anna Langley, Mrs. Susan Whiting. A vote of thanks was passed to Mrs. Anders, the retiring secretary. The subject for the evening, "Woman Suffrage" was opened by Miss McIntyre of Cambridge, an opponent of the cause. Her antagonist, Miss Alice Stone Blackwell, answered the points in question in a clear and logical way. In the discussion that followed many participated. A vote of thanks tendered to Miss McIntyre and Miss Blackwell for their able and courteous defense of their positions was followed by light refreshments and a social hour.

ANNUAL REPORT.

Another year has come to a close. It has not been a very eventful one for our cause but much active work has been done to forward the interest of Municipal Suffrage for Women.

Our League has helped in many ways. Last autumn the committee chosen by you met and worked for the Woman's Suffrage Fair held in Horticultural Hall resulting in a financial success.

Under the auspices of our League Mrs. Priest gave a reading of Tennyson's "Elinor," a real classical enjoyment which added a small sum to our treasury.

At the last election the Republican caucus failing to renominate Mrs. Martin, who for years so ably filled a place on the Newton School Board, our League decided to co-operate with the other women clubs of this city, thus accomplishing a re-nomination and election on the Citizens' ticket with an overwhelming majority of votes for Mrs. Martin. This clearly shows what can be accomplished by the earnest work of our suffragists.

We have had successful parlor meetings. At Mrs. Crosby's of Newton, the first of these meetings was held. Both of our Newton representatives, Mrs. Hollis and Mrs. Harwood, were invited. Mr. Hollis was prevented by illness from attending while Mr. Harwood kindly met us and proved open to conviction.

When the vote was taken at the State House, Mr. Harwood voted for us and Mr. Hollis voted against us. This must impress us with a strong determination to interview future candidates for the Legislature to commit themselves to Municipal Suffrage for Women before they may count upon the endorsement of our husbands, brothers and sons in their election.

In the endeavor to gain our rights we require to be governed by a non-partisan spirit and simply appeal to the open mind for justice from the candidates.

Another meeting was held at the house of Mrs. Mead of West Newton. The first of our discussion was "Our Annual Defeat! What next?" Rev. Mr. Lorenzo Hayes of Waltham was the speaker of the evening, treating the failure of Municipal Suffrage for Women at the hands of the present Legislature in a very able and humorous vein.

Mrs. Walton, Mrs. Davis and others followed with short remarks, refreshments and a social hour closed the evening's program.

Letters of thanks have been sent to all members of the Legislature who so ably supported our Suffrage cause this year. Mitre boxes were distributed to all members to drop in a small sum of money from time to time to help to defray the expenses of the Mass. Woman's Suffrage Association. In this way we hope to avoid the necessity of holding an Annual Suffrage Fair, which causes a great deal of hard labor to some of our earnest suffrage workers.

Admission cards have been mailed to all our League members for fortnightly social meetings held at the Woman's Journal rooms at No. 3 Park street, Boston.

The object of these meetings is to encourage and enlarge the interest in our suffrage work. They have been well attended and it is to be hoped that the interest in them will be kept up.

At our last executive meeting it was voted to have a prize contest for a Mary Livermore Silver Medal, High school pupils giving recitations under the tuition of Mrs. Rogers on Woman's Suffrage topics. Mrs. Davis was chosen with full power to make arrangements for the foregoing contest.

May the coming year find us ready to take up this work with new energies to crown our efforts with success.

COLLISION OF ELECTRIC CARS.

TWO LADIES THROWN FROM THEIR SEATS AND HURT—OTHER PASSENGERS SHOOK UP.

There was a collision of two electric cars on the Newton & Boston Street Railway line yesterday afternoon and two passengers were injured as a result of being thrown from their seats into the road. The accident occurred near Clyde street in Newtonville at about 4.35 o'clock. Both cars were making the return trip from the Upper Falls with a large number of people on board. Many of them were on their way home from the Newton Cemetery, where they had been attending the Memorial Day exercises.

Coming down grade toward Clyde street, the forward car, (a box), stopped to let a passenger off. An open car in the rear was but a little distance away when the one in front came to a standstill, and although the motor man put on the brakes and shut off the current, he was unable to avert a collision. There was a crash and the box car was propelled forward. The passengers in the open car were thrown violently forward when the two cars came together and two elderly ladies were pitched over the foot board into the street. One of them, Mrs. Horatio Carter of Newtonville struck her head on the cover of a man-hole and received a scalp wound, from which the blood flowed profusely. Mrs. Casmay of West Newton also struck on her head and received, singularly enough, a similar wound. Both ladies were bruised, shook up and badly frightened. They were assisted to the house of Mr. H. E. Sack on Walnut street, near the scene of the accident, and after receiving medical attendance were conveyed in carriages to their respective homes. The lady who was getting off the box car was upset by the force of the collision and somewhat bruised as a result of her fall. Some of the other passengers claimed to have been injured, but they were, apparently, not of a very serious character. Many of the ladies were quite faint from fright and the affair caused a good deal of excitement and attracted a big crowd anxious to obtain particulars.

The open car was running not faster, it is thought, than it was an hour. It had been necessary through the day in order to accommodate the traffic to make frequent trips and run the cars close together. Opinion varies as to the responsibility of the accident. Some claim that the break of the rear car failed to work, but the superintendent of the road says that there was no difficulty of that character. Another statement is to the effect that it is unusual to stop at Clyde street and that the motor man of the rear was not anticipating it as it was contrary to custom and not a place regarded as a station.

NEWTONVILLE.

—Pianos rented and tuned, Farley, Newton.

—Go to Walcott & Pratt to have your furnace cleaned.

—H. H. Keith has been appointed local agent of the New England Coal Company.

—Mr. George Leonard and family formerly of this place have moved to South Boston.

—Miss Payne and Miss Mary Payne have returned from a visit to Concord, New Hampshire.

—Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Denison of Walnut street arrived home this week from Europe.

—Henry B. Wills, a former resident, now located in San Francisco, is in town this week visiting friends.

—The Central Congregational church has requested the Ladies Aid Society to sing the musical part of their Sunday services.

—Miss Lucetta E. Hannah of Ohio, a pupil of Mrs. H. E. H. Wright, has been engaged as contralto at the Universalist church.

—At the convocation of Gethsemane commandery, F. O. A. M., Tuesday evening, the Red Cross degree was conferred upon 14 candidates.

—Ex-mayor Kimball was among those who accepted invitations to attend the memorial exercises at the cemetery with the members of the city council.

—The executive committee of the Newton Club has arranged for four concerts to be given on successive Wednesday evenings in June. The Salem Cadet Band is announced as one of the instrumental attractions.

—Mrs. Mary Martin, secretary of the Associated Charities, was one of the delegates from this city at the annual meeting and festival of the N. E. Woman's Suffrage Association, which opened in the vestry of the Park Street Church, Boston, Monday evening.

—The Dalhousie Male Quartet sang at the memorial exercises in the Central Congregational church last Sunday. At the morning service plans of the new church building were distributed, with an estimate of the cost of the sittings.

—An alarm was rung in from box 23, Saturday, for a slight fire on the roof of a building occupied for a bicycle repair shop in the rear of Tremont Hall block. It caught fire in the rear of the building, but was quickly extinguished by the fire department.

—Rev. Mr. Hamilton, pastor of the Methodist church, delivered the first in his series of popular Sunday addresses for young people last Sabbath. His topic was "My Country." The pulpit platform was appropriately decorated with flags and bunting and groupings of palms and cut flowers. He will speak next Sunday evening on "Miriam, the Timbrel Maid."

—The following music will be given at the Universalist church, Sunday morning: Soprano solo and quartet, "Ariel's Chorus." Alto solo and quartet, "O Taste and See." Alto solo and quartet, "Heaven is my Home." —Marston

—At the Methodist Episcopal church, the pastor will preach Sunday morning at 10:45 on "Miriam," the Timbrel Maid, a familiar tale from the Bible, and a familiar tale from the Bible, and a familiar tale from the Bible. There will be a solo besides special music and all seats free. This is the second in Mr. Hamilton's Sunday evening lectures.

—The Newtonville Cycle Club has had a large number of communications from wheelmen's organizations in this vicinity requesting permit to participate in the "horrible" parade on the morning of July 4. According to present indications an affair of unusual interest will be developed. The plans already provide for a parade of considerable magnitude. There will be a large number of cyclists in line, and many unique costumes will be worn.

—The "Treble Clef," has received many compliments for its excellent work at the afternoon musicale given under the auspices of the Woman's Guild. It is a double quartet of ladies and has had the advantage of excellent training under the direction of Prof. J. W. Davis. Individually the voices are far above the average, every member of the organization being a competent soloist.

—Rev. F. W. Gunsaulus of Chicago who delivered the sermon at the Congregational exercises in the new Congregational church took the text from which he preached when he began his pastorate at Newtonville ten years ago, and from which he preached his farewell sermon two years later—"A Day of Zion it shall be said this and that man was born in her; marvel not that I said unto thee ye must be born again." He said that the church must be under the influence of the place of manhood. Every such place, he added, should be the birthplace of the divinity and nobility in human nature. It is the spot of all spots where the infinite seems near.

—Mr. John Robertson, a resident of Newtonville died at the train Monday morning on the way to Boston. The train left Newtonville at 8:30 o'clock and when it arrived at its destination, a railroad employee noticed that the deceased had not left his seat, went up to arouse him, and found that he had expired. Death was caused, it is thought, by sudden failure of the heart brought on by apoplexy. Mr. Robertson was about 70 years of age and had lived in Newtonville only a short time. He was in the provision business in Boston for many years and a partner in the firm of Pigott & Robertson, located on Charles street. He was a widow and a daughter and son survive him.

—On Wednesday, the 22nd inst., Mrs. Fayette Shaw gave another of her delightful afternoon teas at her home on Harvard street, where a number of her friends were entertained by recitations interspersed with music by a mandolin and guitar club, from Boston. Mrs. Shaw gave several selections from the old Greek poets, and one or two from the Persian, but her selections from the Hind, showed a thorough knowledge of the subject. In Hector's parting with Andromache before going to battle, and the prayer addressed to Jove, she was especially good. Refreshments were served informally in the dining room, halls and library.

—Henry E. Grozier was in town this week in the interests of a syndicate looking for a location for a manufacturing plant. It is the second visit made by him with that purpose in view, and seemingly a new industry will be located on Watertown street or in its vicinity if the land can be secured at a reasonable figure. Watertown street land commands good price and there is a strong opposition to the part of residents to the location there of anything of the character of a factory. A site there is not likely to be taken, first because the cost would be too great, and secondly, because the street is too narrow, and the resulting in an improvement that would undoubtedly further increase the expense.

—It is said that the Newton Club was largely instrumental in bringing about the change made by the governing board of the Mass. Bowling League in reducing the spacing between the pins from 12 to 11 1/2 inches. The object is that of increasing the scores. While there are probably a good many bowlers who believe that the narrower spacing will accomplish that result there are, at least, as many others who regard the change as a retrogressive one, calculated to decrease the skillfulness of the game. It will benefit most the inexperienced bowler. Nearly all the bowlers were satisfied with the old frame. Scores last season decreased not on account of the spacing between the pins, but owing to the fact that the use of paraffine was given up. With a paraffine surface, the alleys were very slippery and the pins fell easier. —Miss Edith Kimball gave a reception last Saturday evening in honor of Miss Myrtis Barton, formerly of Auburndale, who is here from the west on a visit.

—Rev. Franklin Hamilton, pastor of the Methodist church, has just been offered the chair of philosophy in one of the leading western colleges, but has declined and will remain in charge of his church here.

—There will be a grand rally and platform meeting in the interest of the Christian Endeavor Convention in the Methodist church in the evening of Wednesday, Sunday in July. There will be several live and eloquent speakers from the convention and the service promises to be one of great interest.

—The Y. P. C. U. of the Universalist church will continue this summer their Flower Mission to the Newton hospital. Friends are requested to leave flowers at Newtonville station before nine o'clock on Saturday mornings. This mission begins the first Saturday in June and ends the last Saturday in September.

—John Grant, one of the oldest residents of Newtonville, died at the family residence on Nevada street last evening after a brief illness. Mr. Grant was born in Lunenburg, N. S., 73 years ago. When a young man he came to Boston and engaged in business. He had resided in Newton more than 40 years. He leaves a widow and one son and a daughter.

—Patrolman Soule found a child about 3 years of age Saturday evening and discovered that the little one had wandered from home. She said her name was Alice something or other, but what the latter was, the officer could not tell, as she could not speak very plainly. Ex-Councilman Fernald happened along while the officer was endeavoring to solve the mystery of her pronouncement and identified the girl. She was the daughter of Philip Gibson of Watertown street, and when that fact was ascertained, no time was lost in restoring her to her anxious parents who had instituted a search for the missing one.

—During the shower Monday evening, one of Newell's hacks, driven by Tom Irving, got hung up on the Walnut street crossing. Irving had just started from the depot with four passengers and while passing over the B. & A. tracks, one of the horses slipped and fell, throwing the other. The pair got partially detached from the harness, but could not clear altogether, as their legs got twisted up in the harnesses. One of the animals in its endeavors to regain its feet, got rid of three shoes. Irving was thrown over the footboard and was kept up, constantly, spectators who witnessed the accident assisted in straightening matters out and the carriage was soon drawn away from its certainly undesirable position.

REAL ESTATE NEWS.

Elliott J. Hyde of Hyde's Real Estate Agency, reports a sale to a syndicate of Newton capitalists of a tract of between 300,000 and 400,000 feet of well located land on Eliot street, Newton Upper Falls, and known as the Wetherell home-stand. The estate is to be at once laid out in moderate sized lots, and the syndicate will sell them at auction through Mr. Hyde on the 17th of June. The price paid is not reported, but was considerably in excess of the tax valuation.

Mr. Hyde also reports the sale of a lot of land of 68,372 feet on the New York & New England railroad at Newton Highlands to Henry W. Crowell, to be used by him in his business of grain dealer. The side tracks for this and the coal yard property sold by this agency recently are to be completed at once.

Wiley S. and Frank Edmand report considerable activity in Newton Realty. Having negotiated sale of Mayor Bothfield's former residence, corner of Haverhill avenue and Copely street, to a Boston party for investment, and have the property in hand for rental, assessed value is $6,000, particulars of sale withheld. They have also negotiated for investment, residence of Mr. H. S. Hiltz, Harrison street, near Eliot street, being a new house, and 6000 ft. of land. Also negotiated sale to Mr. Prescott of Chelsea, a building lot of 15,000 feet, of 100 feet frontage on Chesley road, Newton Centre, for improvement, and in connection therewith effected sale of the 4 story brick and brownstone apartment house, 21 Oak street, Boston, at a high price.

Advance over the assessment of $10,000; also for Mr. James F. Hennessey to Mr. William Cahill of Auburndale, house and 6,000 ft. and vacant lot of 4,000 ft., for home improvement, located on Chapel street, Newton. The same brokers have made further sales on the choice tract of Mr. Thomas Weston's, on Woodward street, near the Eliot station, Newton Highlands. This tract has been regraded and offers some of the most highly desirable and cheapest lots available for first-class residences. The sale was of two lots, of about 3,000 feet each, to Mr. H. S. Hiltz, who will at once erect a fine semi-colonial house on the Bradford road lot, and will improve the Endicott street lot later. The Edmands also report the following rentals:

The house on the Eliot estate, on Huntington avenue, opposite Gramercy street, formerly occupied by Mr. Wells, to Dr. E. R. Wiswall. Also the house of Mr. J. D. Burrows, on Washington street, corner of Worcester avenue, to Thomas Waterman for the summer. Also at Newton Highlands, the handsome, new cottage just being finished by Mrs. A. M. Cobo, Hillside road.

Mr. F. D. Sibley of Boston, who will occupy it about June 15th.

Alvord Bros. & Co. have sold to W. E. Parker, treasurer of the Library Bureau, a former resident of Newton Highlands, the house No. 22 Oxford road, corner of Browning road, Newton Centre. The house has 11 rooms and the lot contains 7,500 feet. They have sold to Chas. A. Swin of the Bank of Redemption of Boston, the new house No. 7 Oxford road, with 7700 feet, having 70 feet frontage on the street. Mr. Swin and his family will occupy the house about the middle of June.

WATERTOWN'S STREET RAILWAYS.

SERIOUS OPPOSITION TO THE SCHEME FOR A NEW LINE THROUGH BEMIS VILLAGE.

At a meeting of the Watertown selectmen Tuesday evening, Horace B. Parker, president of the Newton Street Railway Company was present in the interest of the line he desires to build from Waltham to Newton by way of Pleasant street, in Bemis, a part of Watertown. In this village the street is narrow, and the railway must cross a narrow bridge across the Charles river to get into Newton.

Mr. Parker presented a petition signed by 201 residents in the vicinity of Bemis, asking that a franchise be granted. Mr. Parker claimed that the proposed line would accommodate 10,000 people in Waltham, Watertown and Newton.

The Watertown selectmen, however, do not believe the people of Bemis are anxious for the road, and, furthermore, nearly every street in Watertown, travelled to any extent, has a street railway running through it, and many citizens are objecting to giving so much territory gratis to corporations.

Then a company with which Mr. Parker is connected has an uncomplicated line running down North Beacon street in the direction of Boston, the line having been in this state and unused for over a year. The town has also had trouble with the Newtonville Street Railway Company, of which Mr. Parker is also president, regarding the removal of their tracks on Watertown street, and also the lowering of the flange of a curve at the corner of Glen and Watertown streets.

At this point a little over a year ago a man was thrown from his wagon and injured. He sued the town, and was awarded $1750 for damages for a defect in the highway. The selectmen claim the accident would not have occurred if the high flange had not been there, and they have made repeated requests on the company to lower the curve. The company has promised to obey the request several times, but have failed to comply.

Now the selectmen say if the rail is not lowered they will order it taken up. All these things do not favorably impress the selectmen, and it is extremely doubtful, unless the company shows a more agreeable spirit, if their latest request will be granted.

Our Unrepaired Streets.

To the Editor of the GRAPHIC:—

My head gardener gets $3000 per year yet he neglects to repair the principal and greatest used path through my domain and has fixed up at great expense those which are least used and made new ones with great outlay. Now after the severe winter many holes and bad places necessarily gets scraped out in clearing off ice and snow, yet no notice has been taken of this and in driving from my corner to my city hall, a path named after the Father of our country, the ups and downs I get in life surpass at one ride all my former experience. A gentleman friend burst the front wheel of his bicycle last week and a young lady near my Almshouse was thrown in the sand and the bad state of this highway. What can I do, Mr. Editor—Why advertise in your valuable paper for a new man.

Wanted—A practical gardener for the Garden City. Must be well recommended from former place, salary not so much an object as an expert man of business. Apply, NEWTON.

The "head gardener" only does what the Highway Committee orders him to do, and so if there is any blame it should be laid to that committee, and not to him. [Ed.]

A BROKEN LETTER.

"Is his lordship waiting breakfast, Perkins, or has he already begun?" cried Lady Evesham, rushing like a whirlwind in a riding habit into the great, cool, pillared hall of Evesham house one fair May morning.

"His lordship is not yet down, my lady, but Leon has been with him three-quarters of an hour," answered Perkins. "Then serve breakfast. His lordship won't be long." And Lady Evesham betook herself to the sunlit, flower decked snugery where she and her husband always had their first meeting of the day. From there she turned to the breakfast table and ran through her morning's correspondence.

"What a dull post! I wonder if John has got anything better?"

Her white fingers wandered among the pile of letters by her husband's plate. "From the steward; from Jenks, the trainer; from the lawyers. Three with the city postmark, five from clubs. That one is from Lady Janet Stepmey, I know—begging, of course, for her orphan or orphans or indigent mothers; that's from Bertie Stanhope—what a nigger he writes—and, oh, this must be what they call a typewritten thing."

Lady Evesham picked from the scattered pile a common square envelope bearing an east end postmark and addressed in type to "The Viscount Evesham, Evesham House, Park Lane."

"How queer it seems that a machine should write all that so straight and neat! I had no idea it looked so tidy and businesslike. I think I'll make John buy me one to write to my dressmaker with. Typewriting looks so awfully fierce." She scrutinized the letters still closer. "This one isn't quite faultless, though. There's something wrong with the capital E. It's got a white spot—Ah, John, at last!"

She dropped the letters among the others and ran to greet her husband, who stooped from his superior height and kissed her lovingly.

A year ago society had called John, Viscount Evesham, aged 45, a fool to saddle his wealth and his freedom with a mere girl as a wife, but his bride had been so sweet, so gracious, so innocent, so pleased with her new surroundings and so unaffected that at the beginning of this her second season the most cynical had voted the marriage a success and the young viscountess an acquisition.

Lord Evesham adored his wife, yet with that tentative worship, that love tinged with doubt, which must always be where the adorer is speeding swiftly down life's hill and the object of adoration is every day growing more lovely and more desirable.

His first few months of married life, when, a bride, Lady Evesham had won widespread and open admiration, had been torture to him. Even now his self-depreciatory doubts were only lulled to slumber by the perfectly blameless conduct of his wife.

"I'm sorry to have kept you waiting, my dear," he began, with old-fashioned courtesy, "but the morning was so fine I made sure you would prolong your ride."

"So I might have done, for Mr. Leighton—he has constituted himself my cavalier servant in the Row—was most amusing, but Kittle Hamer joined us, and it's horrid riding three abreast—one has to shout so. I left them at the top of the Row and—"

"Leighton rides with you, does he?" queried Lord Evesham, looking over the top of his letters.

"Yes, dear, almost always." And then an utterly unaccountable blush came over her until her throat, ears and cheeks were alike bathed in the crimson tide.

"Hum!" said his lordship, while Lady Evesham, furious with herself at the trick her unruly self-consciousness had played with her, took refuge in her breakfast. Silence reigned, broken only by the faint tinkle of the silver and china and by the rustle of Lord Evesham's letters.

Suddenly he started, grew pale, then red, looked from his wife to a slip of paper in his hand and back again.

"What a strange coincidence! 'Watch your wife!' in typewritten characters, stared from the paper before him. Opposite was the downcast face of his wife—the face which had been but a moment back dyed with a guilty blush at the chance mention of the name of a mere acquaintance.

The next moment he gathered up his letters and left the room. Lady Evesham, too, sprang from her chair.

"Why was I such a fool?" she cried to herself in a tall mirror. "What made me do such a hateful, stupid, underbred thing as to blush like a gawky school-girl—and at Rupert Leighton's name, too—a man who—"

She did not speak the words that rose to her lips. Only the faint, coquettish smile—the smile of a woman who is beautiful, who is flattered, who is beloved—dawned again in the misty depths of her eyes.

Before Lord Evesham's eyes and in his ears were ever the words, "Watch your wife!" A younger man, one surer of his hold upon a woman's heart, would have shown her the shameful thing. But he was afraid. He tried to keep the burden of doubt and disbelief to himself, yet Beatrice Evesham guessed at its existence, though she knew neither its origin nor reason. Only she felt that there was no love behind his courtesy, no warmth in his kindness, no faith in his generosity.

"Watch your wife!" Lord Evesham watched, and Lady Evesham knew it. One night, at Hurlingham, her wounded pride found vent. Rupert Leighton, ever, was by her side as she strolled to the river's edge, and with the petulance of a spoiled child for the first time gave words to her trouble. She was overwrought, and for a few moments she spoke hysterically, incoherently, scarcely reckoning that she had a listener. Then, with a little sob, she dropped her head on her arms and began to cry, as an angry woman will.

"Lady Evesham, what you tell me shocks me terribly! Are you sure?" "Am I sure? I am dogged at every hour of the day. I am questioned about my movements, then doubted to my face. It is most shameful!" "It is most cruel," said Leighton slowly. "Pardon the question, but have you given him any cause?" "Mr. Leighton, how dare you!" flashed from her through the cobalt summer night.

He bowed humbly before he spoke again.

"Then to what do you attribute this change? Has any other woman?" She shook her head.

Suddenly through the shadows Rupert Leighton's hand stole to Beatrice Evesham's arm, and he drew her so close to him that his breath fanned her hot cheeks.

"Lady Evesham, I have an idea. What if your husband is carrying on an intrigue with a woman? What if he fears discovery and subsequent proceedings and is even now making every effort to trump up a counter charge against you?"

"Ah! Mr. Leighton, how horrible, how cruel to ruin one woman, and that his wife, at the expense of another!" "Whom he loves," whispered Leighton. "Do you not see, can you not believe that this is the truth—that he is tired of you; that your youth and innocence and beauty are not for him? Ah! Lady Evesham—Beatrice—let me convince you—let me find proof that what I say is true."

"Mr. Leighton, I cannot, dare not, ask you to interfere in this most terrible difficulty. You've been my friend, and I believe you have my happiness and welfare at heart, but—"

"Beatrice!" he murmured hoarsely. "I have no friendship for you. Love and admiration fill me. If I can convince you of the truth of my suspicions, give me yourself."

She slipped from his grasp and fled down the dim pathway.

"Where have you been all this time?" said her husband's voice through the dusk. "The horses have been waiting for half an hour."

"I am ready to go," said Lady Evesham, and looking neither to the right nor to the left she swept before him to her carriage.

Lady Evesham slept little that night. Her shattered faith in her husband's loyalty and trust, Leighton's love, her own unhappiness, jostled in her brain the weary hours through, and it was a very ghost of Lady Evesham who slipped her chocolate next morning and broke the seals of half a dozen letters.

Suddenly the blood rushed to her pale face. A common envelope, bearing a typewritten address, quivered in one hand; a slip of paper was in the other.

"If you would have a proof, be in room 3 at the Imperial cafe today at 4 o'clock."

"No signature, no address," cried Beatrice Evesham. "But the envelope is enough. The E's are broken like those on that other letter which came five weeks ago. Ah! who can be so base, so wicked, as to wish to wantonly destroy the happiness of two lives?"

The big clock over the Imperial cafe had barely struck four when a woman, whose perfect toilet was marred by the singular thickness of her veil, glided into the doorway, and scarcely had the lady disappeared when Lord Evesham passed into the building and followed in the fair one's footsteps.

His lordship moved quickly, but in spite of his efforts only arrived in the corridor in time to hear the sharp click of a closing door, followed by an exclamation in a voice he knew too well.

The sound came from room No. 3. Lord Evesham looked around. Lunches were being served, dinner not yet begun. He was alone, and in another second was pressing his eye to the keyhole.

"You here, Mr. Leighton!"

It was the voice of Lady Evesham, and before her question could be answered she displayed her surprise and disfavor in bitter tones. She continued: "I understand all now. A light breaks in upon me. It is you—you—a gentleman, a friend, who sent the letter to my husband which has nearly broken his heart and wrecked my life—you who have woven a tissue of lies about me and have spread a net for me today into which my feet have almost strayed. The reason I came here today was to discover the identity of the person, man or woman, who sent those two letters to my husband's house. I find you, whom I believed to be a friend, whom I now know to be a foe. I flung out her hands. 'Ah, that I were a man to punish you as you deserve!'"

Her prayer for a righteous revenge was answered. The door opened a little space, and the tall, spare form of Lord Evesham slipped into the room.

"John! You here?" cried Lady Evesham, laying her fingers across her mouth to stifle the little scream of joy that rose in her throat.

"Stand aside!" said his lordship. Then, with upraised arm, he advanced on the culprit.

Twice the wretched victim cried for mercy, and twice Lord Evesham muttered, "Coward!"

When at last the heavy walking stick snapped in two, Lord Evesham, without casting one look at what lay at his feet, turned to his wife and led her from the room.

Once outside in the dim silence of the corridor Lady Evesham raised her husband's hands to her lips and kissed them.

"Thank you—thank you a thousand times! But, oh, my dear, why did you not trust me?"

Lord Evesham bowed low before her. "Dear wife, I cannot regret what I have done today! I shall trust you to the last hour of my life!"

Then her ladyship reeled a little. "John, dear, take me home quickly. It was an awful sight. I feel—rather—faint!"—London World.

"O. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass."

"Dear Sirs—I gladly state what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for me. About six years ago he fell down the cellar stairs. He did not seem to be much hurt at the time, but two or three weeks after, he began to have pains in his right knee so badly that we called a doctor and he Termed the Trouble Rheumatism, but his treatment did not seem to do the boy any good. He kept complaining more and more, and we had several doctors treat him, but they did him no good, and his trouble continued to grow worse. He became so lame that he could not walk. A prominent physician in Boston was consulted and he termed the affliction contraction of the muscles. His treatment also failed. As his leg began to cramp up besides, he was taken to New York where he was examined by two physicians, and they pronounced it

A Case of Hip Disease. We had a brace made to keep the leg from cramping, and upon the doctor's advice we again took him to Boston, this time to the Children's Hospital. He was there three months during which time they made an operation on his leg and did all they could for him, but they did not effect a cure. When we brought him home he was running sores on his leg. He could not put his foot on the ground. At last we were advised to give Hood's Sarsaparilla a trial. This was about a year ago. The boy seemed to gain after the first bottle and today he can walk, run and play as lively as any boy, the sores having all healed up, and he is

Assessors' Notice.

The inhabitants of the City of Newton, and all other persons liable to pay taxes thereon, are hereby required to bring in to the Assessors of said Newton, on any day from

May First, to the Fourteenth Day of June next,

true lists of all their Polls (MALES 20 YEARS OLD AND UPWARD), and schedules and estimates of their personal estates, not exempt from taxation.

ASSESSMENT OF POLLS AND REGISTRATION OF WOMEN.

SECT. 16, CHAP. 417, ACTS OF 1893. Amended by SECT. 1, CHAP. 268, ACTS OF 1894.

The Assessors, by one or more of their number, or by one or more Assistant Assessors, shall, in the month of May or June, in each year, visit every building in their respective cities and towns, and after diligent inquiry, make true lists containing, as near as they can ascertain the same, the name, age, occupation, and residence, on the first day of May in the current year, and the residence on the first day of May in the preceding year, of every male person twenty years of age or upwards, residing in their respective cities and towns, liable to be assessed for a poll tax; and shall inquire at the residences of the women voters whose names are contained in the list transmitted to said assessors by the registrars, according to the provisions of section forty-five of this act, whether such women voters are resident thereat, and shall thereupon make a list of the women voters so found by them.

TRUST ESTATES.

Persons holding estates in trust, whether for minors or otherwise, are particularly requested to furnish the Assessors with statements in relation to such estates.

When estates of persons deceased have been divided during the past year, or have changed hands, from other causes, the Executors, Administrators, Trustees, or other persons interested, are required and warned to give notice of such change; and in default of such notice will be held to pay the tax assessed, although such estate has been wholly distributed and paid over.

Returns of Property Held for Literary, Benevolent, Charitable, or Scientific Purposes.

In accordance with the requirements of Chapter 217, Acts of 1882, all persons and corporations are hereby required to bring in to the Assessors of Newton on any day from May first to the first day of July next, true lists of all real and personal estates held by such persons and corporations respectively for literary, benevolent, charitable, or scientific purposes, on the first day of May, 1895, together with statements of the amount of all receipts and expenditures by such persons or corporation for said purpose during the year next preceding said first day of May; such lists and statements to be in such detail as may be required by the tax commissioner.

SHIPPING.

Shipping and business income are not taxable to a firm, but each resident partner must include these items in his individual return. Owners and agents of ships and vessels engaged in the foreign carrying trade, are referred to Sections 8 and 9 of Chapter 11 of the Public Statutes, for the form of return required to obtain exemption from taxation upon the valuation of such property. Said returns to be made to the Assessors on or before June first.

Any person bringing in a list of all his taxable personal property will be assessed upon the valuation thereof, and any person neglecting to furnish the Assessors with such list within the time above specified, will be deemed at a legal meeting of the Board of Assessors to assent to the laws of this Commonwealth.

All persons will take notice that statements of personal property must be in writing and subscribed under oath before one of the Assessors, on or before the fifteenth day of June, and that the Personal Property of all taxable persons must be estimated by the Board notwithstanding any verbal statement or informal written communication to any one or more of the Assessors.—P. b Stat. Chap. 11, Sect. 39 and 41. When a person has failed to bring in a list or schedule of all his taxable property, in conformity to this notice, no abatement of a tax assessed on Personal Estate to such person can be granted, "unless such tax exceeds by more than fifty per cent. the amount which would have been assessed to that person on Personal Estate if he had seasonably brought in said list; and if said tax exceeds by more than fifty per cent. the said amount, the abatement shall be only of the excess above the said fifty per cent."—Public Statutes, Chapter 11, Section 73.

The Assessors will be in session at their office, in the City Hall, in the City of Newton, on the 9th, 16th, 23d, and 31st days of May, and the 7th, 14th and 21st days of June next, from 9 o'clock P. M.

Blank schedules will be furnished on application at the office, or to either of the assessors.

80 ACCLIMATED HORSES.
The very best that hard work and money could secure. One of our firm has been in northern New York almost constantly the past four months; 17 years' experience has taught us to buy only the best. These horses consist of coach, driving, family and saddlers, single and in pairs.
Now is the time to get the first selection and choice, acclimated horses must be higher. We intend to keep throughout this coming season, as usual, the largest stock of choice horses in Boston. All horses warranted as represented. J.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

BOSTON THEATRE—The season of "Tribe" at the Boston theatre is still as prosperous as ever, and the judge from the ever-increasing attendance, it is apparent that the engagement might continue indefinitely. The original intention was to have Mr. A. M. Palmer's company remain not more than two weeks, but last week the time was extended six days, and now, in response to the pressing demand, a still further extension has been decided upon. This means that the engagement will end on Saturday evening, June 8. It is an interesting and somewhat curious fact to relate, and one that speaks volumes, not alone for the enduring popularity of "Tribe" the play, but for this present company at the Boston theatre, that many people attended the show again and again, finding new aspiration and new features to applaud at each successive performance. It is especially noticeable in this second production of "Tribe" in Boston that the scenic effects are far more elaborate, more complete and artistic than would be possible on a small stage, and the result is a perfect reproduction of the scenes and situations in the Latin quarter of Paris. This week and next will prove the red letter periods of the engagement, significant as they do the souvenir performance.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE—Auber's "Fra Diavolo" will be given with a stunning "Castle Square Production" next week. With music sparkling, melodic and dramatic, the dialogue exuberant in fun and satire, it is not surprising that this has entrenched itself as one of the very best of comic operas. It was a stock opera with such companies as the Boston Ideals and Emma Abbott's. It was sung in Boston, as a grand production by the Mapleson company. The Castle Square Company can be depended upon to give this opera a splendid presentation, even excelling its efforts of the past week and another remarkable success is predicted. Patrons should bear in mind that good seats must be secured in advance, because the 25, 50 and 75 cent schedule for all reserved seats is attracting a throng nightly. A special effort is made to push the performance along smartly every night so that suburban trains may be caught without leave taking before the final curtain. The powerful cooling apparatus of the playhouse is working perfectly and the temperature never rises above 72 degrees.

A Remarkable Cure of Rheumatism.

David Lewis, who has been afflicted all winter by rheumatism, is out again and all due to one of the medicines advertised in our columns. After trying everything possible, he used Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which has relieved him of all pain, from which he was a constant sufferer and promises to make him fit for duty soon. We know David has been a great sufferer and is glad to see him around again. For sale by Arthur Hudson, Newton; E. W. Keyes, Auburndale; B. B. Buck, Newton Centre; E. F. Partridge, Newtonville; B. MADE FARRAGUT FAST.

ADMIRAL KIMBERLY SAYS JOHN KNOWLES LASHED HIM TO RIGGING.

S. S. McClure in a copy-righted article in the Sunday Globe gives the facts of the incident, now famous in American history, connected with the entrance of Admiral Farragut and his fleet into Mobile Bay during the war of the rebellion. After considerable search and inquiry, he says, he found that several claimed the honor of lashing Farragut to the rigging of his flagship, the Hartford. From the best testimony available, he goes on to say, it appears that the man entitled to the credit of the act was Quartermaster John H. Knowles, who died on April 9, last, and was buried with naval and military ceremonies in the naval cemetery at Annapolis. In explaining the affair, Knowles in a letter written a short time prior to his death, said:

"On the 5th of August, 1864, about 9.30 or 10 o'clock in the morning, Lieutenant Watson, (captain now) asked Lieut. Kimberly (admiral now) if it would not be a good plan to pass a rope around the admiral and he (Kimberly) asked the captain, P. Drayton, and he said yes. And then Lieut. Watson gave me the order.

"The admiral was then about half way up the main rigging. I was chief quartermaster and near Mr. Watson. He told me to go up and pass a rope around the admiral. I picked up a piece of lead line and ran up the main rigging after the admiral.

"By the time I got to him he was close up under the top, back to me, and I made one end of the rope fast to the buttock shroud and around the admiral, and made it fast on the other side.

"He said to me, 'What are you doing?' I said I was making a rope fast around him, and he said, 'O nonsense!' I stayed there with him about five minutes. Then I came down and left him. He must have cast himself loose, for he got down again all right. He must have been up there fully 20 minutes. He was not in full uniform. It was a place of danger. In fact, any place that it took about two minutes to make him fast. All of this happened in the hottest of the battle."

In corroboration of the above Admiral Kimberly of this city sent the following communication:
May 16, 1894.
Dear Sir—Your letter of April 25 I have just received, as it was misdirected. The man who lashed Admiral Farragut to the rigging was the signal quartermaster, John H. Knowles.

The lashing was made fast to the main shrouds, just below the buttock shrouds, on the port side, and the admiral stood on the ratlines with the light of the lashing, and it was not made fast to him in any way, but if he had slipped or fallen it would have supported him, and prevented him from falling either overboard or on to the deck.

His object in going aloft was to get above the smoke, and to take the ship up the channel through the lines of torpedoes and into the confederate squadron, which he did, defeating and capturing it.

Trusting this reply to your questions will prove satisfactory, I remain respectfully yours,
L. A. KIMBERLY,
Rear Admiral U. S. N., Retired.

Capt. Watson substantiated Admiral Kimberly's statement and Loyall Farragut, a son of the Admiral, clinches the matter by saying in a letter written upon the subject that the name of the sailor who went up the rigging and passed the rope around Admiral Farragut is John Knowles.

"Trust those who have tried."

Catarth caused hoarseness and difficulty in speaking. I also to a great extent lost hearing. By the use of Ely's Cream Balm dropping of mucus has ceased, voice and hearing have greatly improved.—J. W. Davidson, Atty at Law, Newburgh, N. Y. I used Ely's Cream Balm for catarrh and have received great benefit. I believe it a safe and certain cure. Very pleasant to take.—Wm. Frazer, Rochester, N. Y. Price of Cream Balm is fifty cents.

Oak Square and Faneuil.

[From the Brigatien Item.]
It seems that the recent cleaning out of the brook running in the rear of the new Oak Square School has not removed the source of complaint. The reason given for the non occupancy of the building is still the condition of that polluted stream and the matter has now been taken up in earnest by the Improvement Association. The president visited the locality this week, and his investigation shows that something should be done at once. Several houses are still emptying their drains into this brook, and the appearance of the water plainly noticeable from the street, is enough to call for immediate action. There is no doubt that an early remedy will be applied.

There have been a number of complaints about the wretched condition of Tremont street, from Oak Square to the Newton line. Investigation shows that the trouble is caused by the recently constructed sewer and entrance to the same, the surface having caved in many places, making hollows and ditches that are dangerous to driving and teaming.

The contractor, T. J. Young, is responsible. It leaves the system in natural condition after its use. We sell it. Arthur Hudson, Newton; Bernard Billings, Upper Falls; Walter P. Thorn, Auburndale.

The Newton Athletic Association ball team shut out the Portsmouth club of New Hampshire on the latter's grounds Saturday last, in a game marked by the sharp flooding and clean hitting of the visitors.

Jack Highlands pitched a fine game and was ably supported by Cushing, who distinguished himself by catching a difficult foul fly. Besarick pulled down a liner in right field, which looked good for three bases.

Ailments of Women.
It will cure the worst forms of female complaints, all ovarian troubles, inflammation and ulceration, falling and displacements of the womb, and consequent spinal weakness, and is peculiarly adapted to the change of life.

Every "me it will cure"
Backache.
It has cured more cases of leucorrhoea, removing the cause, than any remedy the world has ever known; it is almost infallible in such cases. It dissolves and expels tumors from the uterus in an early stage of development, and checks any tendency to cancerous humors.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills work in unison with the Compound, and are a sure cure for constipation and sick-headache. Mrs. Pinkham's Sanative Wash is frequently found of great value for local application. Correspondence is freely solicited by the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., and the strictest confidence assured. All druggists sell the Pinkham's remedies. The Vegetable Compound in three forms,—Liquid, Pills, and Lozenges.

—Miss Bessie Boyd, formerly of Warren street, has removed to West Newton.
—Miss Laura Merrill has returned to her summer home in Etta, Me.
—Rev. Mr. Boyington and family returned this week from North Scituate.
—Prof. and Mrs. Hovey of Summer street are out of town for a several days' stay.

—A daughter of Louis Murphy of Pleasant street is seriously ill with scarlet fever.

—Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Greene of Centre street left here Monday for a trip south.

—Mr. George Sherman of Richardson's market has returned from a trip to Philadelphia.

—A gasoline engine has been put in position in the rear of Bray's block to operate the cold storage system.

—J. J. Johnson has a contract for a new dwelling house to be erected at the corner of Ward street.

—Mr. Fred Lesh of Beacon street is expected home from Europe this week. He has been abroad a year.

—Councilman Butts and family of Summer street left here Monday for North Scituate, where they will pass the summer.

—Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Souther (Miss Turner) of Chestnut Hill, are at Hull for the summer, where they are occupying the new Dunn house on the hill.

—There are letters in the postoffice for Mrs. C. Edwards, Geo. W. Steves, Mrs. B. S. Wolcott, Mrs. Chas. O. Gall, and James Irmide.

—Extensive preparations are being made for the production of the cantata of "Ruth" in the Congregational church, Wednesday evening, June 5th.

—An extra train was run out from Boston yesterday afternoon to accommodate those desiring to attend the memorial exercises under the auspices of Charles Ward Post 62, G. A. R.

—Mr. Asbell of Maple park entertained a company of friends Monday evening. The occasion, of a delightful, informal character, was thoroughly enjoyed by those present.

—James Philbrick, it is said, holds the medal for slaughtering rodents. One afternoon this week he shot the rats at the piggery off Parker street. His achievement approaches the record claimed for "Rough on Rats."

—The seminary is now nearly deserted, nearly all the students having departed for their homes. The great majority left soon after the completion of the commencement exercises. Several of the young theologians will, however, pass the summer months at the Institution.

—Mrs. Charles A. Clark is entertaining her cousins, Mrs. M. B. Conrad and family of Helena, Montana. Mrs. Conrad has secured a charming residence at Eastern Point, Gloucester, where she expects to pass the summer and early fall months.

—Mrs. C. A. Clark, Cypress street, has been entertaining her cousin, Mrs. M. B. Conrad and family of Helena, Montana. Mrs. Conrad has secured the beautiful estate, Finisterra, Eastern Point, Gloucester, and intend remaining there during the summer and fall months.

—In the M. E. church, Monday evening, Rev. Conti, an Italian missionary of Boston, addressed a large gathering of his countrymen. The gathering for the most part was made up of laborers employed on the boulevard and sewer work.

—One of W. E. Armstrong's horses, left standing with a light delivery wagon on Ashton park, was frightened by boys last Saturday afternoon and run away. The animal was headed off on Commonwealth avenue, fortunately before any serious damage had resulted.

—Work is progressing rapidly on the widening of In-titulation avenue between Centre and Union streets. It is expected now that the improvement will be completed in another week. It will be a piece of road and will be entitled to be numbered among the beautiful streets of the city.

—Rev. Mr. Noyes of the Congregational church has added a somewhat novel class to the Sunday school department. It is for all the young couples married within the last year. It would be interesting to know just what sort of instruction he proposes to give them. Possibly he might suggest that it was the husband's duty to spit words and make the morning fire and possibly, in that event, there might be a wave of trouble in the family.

—Rev. Dr. Montague, pastor of the Baptist church, read his letter of resignation last Sunday, the same to take effect July 1. He was induced to take the step because of his failing health, and a desire, on that account, to be relieved from the duties of his pastorate. As the spiritual head of the first Baptist parish his executive ability and unflinching zeal were conspicuous features of his ministry. He is greatly beloved and respected by his congregation and the resignation is received with sincere regret. It has not yet been accepted.

—The Newton Athletic Association nine had an easy thing with the Beacons of Waltham here yesterday morning. It looked for five innings as if the visitors would be given a coat of whitewash, but in the sixth a wild throw to the home plate allowed Dunn to score on his three-base hit. Fitz, the Newton High school pitcher, was in the box for Newton, and struck out 12 men. The fielding of the visitors was rather ragged, and Calhoun, the former after the liquor had been delivered in two instances. The case was worked up by Patrolman Fletcher, who's suspicions were first aroused by seeing Hendricks making trips from a house in this place to the stable where he was employed. Upon each occasion, he had a covered basket with him. The officer was led to believe that it contained liquor, and upon investigating he found that his surmise was correct. The next step was that of summoning Hendricks to appear before Judge Jendry, with the result previously stated, a fine being imposed and the other cases of sales being placed on file to be held against him in the event of any further repetitions of the offense.

—Mrs. Dr. Fessenden and son are at Ransley Lakes for the warm months, the Dr. remaining here to attend to his patients.

—The medals given by Col. E. H. Haskell to the Gloucester High school battalion, were awarded on Wednesday after a spirited contest.

—Services at the Unitarian church next Sunday 10.30. "What we stand for and what we teach." Sunday school at 12. Address to young people at 7. All are invited.

—At the Methodist Episcopal church on Sunday the pastor, Rev. Edwin H. Hughes, will preach morning and evening. The evening theme will be "How to Receive Criticism."

—Mr. Nathaniel Faxon of Longley road will soon return to his farm in Exeter, N. H. Mr. Wm. S. Hamm of Pelham street will take the house which he will vacate owned by Mrs. Fay.

—An enjoyable party was given last evening by a party of ladies of this place for the benefit of Newton Lodge No. 3204, G. V. O. of O. F. Dancing was enjoyed, about fifty couples participating and a collation was served. Quite a neat sum realized.

—One of the most charming events to the music loving people of Newton was the organ recital given by Mr. Moritz Hauptmann Emery in the Methodist church Tuesday evening. Mr. Emery showed that he had great talent and won continuous applause from the audience. He was assisted by Miss Alice G. Holmes, contralto; Mr. Wolf Fries, violinist, and Miss Bertha Forbes, pianist. Miss Holmes, who has a very beautiful contralto voice, sang in a charming manner.

—Mrs. Sarah H. Trowbridge of this place was 88 years old on Sunday, and on Saturday her many friends fittingly celebrated her by giving a party in her honor, at her daughter's residence on Ballard street, where she resides. The lady was the recipient of a number of presents and the congratulations of about 80 friends who came to wish her health and prosperity for many years to come. There was a reception from 4 until 5.30 o'clock. The afternoon followed by a collation and general good time. Mrs. Trowbridge was supremely happy at the attention paid her, and she joined in a merriment with much spirit. Although 88 years of age she is in the full enjoyment of all her faculties, and her health is excellent. She was born at Grav, Me., and is the only survivor of a family of five children. She is the daughter of Dea. Moses Humphreys, a prominent citizen of that town. She was married in 1831, in Portland, to Mr. Charles Trowbridge, who has since died. She is the mother of five children, three of whom, two daughters and a son, are living. Her daughter, with whom she is living, is the wife of Mr. George A. Ward, who has been prominent in connection with the construction of the beautiful boulevards in this city.

—A lot of pretty girls and a lot of pretty songs! When these ingredients are mingled by a genial "bar-keep" like Sam Shannon, and enhanced by such a plump strawberry as Mrs. Fox-Allen and a sprig of mint like Mrs. Burpee—and Rosalind, who's she? oh, the sugar of course!—why there you have the julep for a warm spring evening to be sure! This is just what was served up to the Centurians in the hall, last Thursday, nominally for the benefit of the Fresh Air Fund, but really for the delectation of the good people of Newton. The new name for the Young Ladies' Double Quartet is a graceful tribute to that sterling artist, Mrs. Abby Clark-Ford. It is not to the purpose to review the program at length. The young ladies improve with every year, and one or two new faces are seen. The gem of the evening was unquestionably the Slumber Song of Newcomes, and the tenderness with which the sensitive poetry was voiced was worthy of any concert room. Buck's fantasia on the familiar "Robin Adair" was a much more ambitious effort, and plenty of painstaking rehearsal was necessary to render the final verse with its severe transposition into the relative minor. The second alto did strong work in the marked descent by chromatic intervals in the "Highland Laddie," and the whole quartet are to be especially congratulated on the unification with which they told the story of the little "Dutch Dolls," really the tenderest of all good part singing. The quartet as now organized is: First Soprano, Marian Randall Haskell; Mary Louise Gerrish; Second Soprano, Lillian Gray White; Gladys Fulton Smith; First Alto, Clara Orissa Bond; Gertrude Nelson; Second Alto, Margaretta Palmer Logan; Fannie Ray Edwards; Miss Burpee, the reader, who is a new acquaintance, and the reader who she is affected the young men in her tale of "Country Sleighing." We've all been there! Mrs. Allen has often been heard with the Appleton quartet, and Miss Gish is a household word in Newton Centre.

NEWTON HIGHLANDS.

—Miss Hollis is improving slowly.

—Miss Merriam of South Framingham will give her illustrated lecture on "Fables" in the Congregational church, next Sunday evening at 7.30 o'clock. This lecture is highly recommended. Public are invited.

—The death of Mrs. S. W. Cobbett occurred on Friday, after a long illness. Funeral services were held at the Congregational church on Monday, at which Rev. Mr. Haven and Rev. Mr. Phillips officiated. Interment at Newton cemetery.

—John Driscoll of Needham was driving at Newton Highlands yesterday afternoon when the horse became unmanageable and ran away. Mr. Driscoll was thrown out and struck on his head. He sustained a severe cut on the temple. He was taken to the Newton Hospital, where he lies in a critical condition.

—The pupils of Miss Mary L. Stone gave a piano forte recital on Wednesday evening at the residence of Mrs. E. W. Warren, Lincoln street. Both Miss Stone and all who took part on this occasion are to be congratulated on the success of this entertainment. Mrs. Warren's apartments were pleasantly decorated with flowers and palms, they were filled with the large company of friends of the pupils of Miss Stone, who were enthusiastic in their expressions of delight in the occasion.

—Services as usual at the Methodist church next Sabbath. Preaching service at 10.30; sermon by the pastor on "Hagar's loneliness and God's comfort." Sunday school at 12 m.; Epworth League at 6 p. m. evening service at 7 p. m., preaching by Rev. Dr. George M. Steele of Amherst, followed by holy communion.

—At the last meeting of the Monday club for the season held at the home of Mrs. Pollard, the following list of officers were elected: President, Mrs. Nickerson, 1st vice, Mrs. Strong; cor. sec., Mrs. Luitwiler; sec., Mrs. C. Stone; treas., Mrs. Gitt; board of directors, Mrs. S. C. Cobb, Mrs. O'Connor, Mrs. Robinson.

—The patriotic festival to be held under the auspices of the Congregational sewing circle will take place at the chapel on Wednesday, June 6th, instead of Thursday, June 7, as announced last week. The program for the occasion will consist of war reminiscences by members of the G. A. R., recitation and music of a patriotic nature, with strawberries, ice cream, etc., as an accompaniment. Rev. S. P. Smith may not be present in person but will be in spirit. Make sure to come and help sing his hymn "My Country."

NEW CENTRAL CHURCH.

BEAUTIFUL EDIFICE DEDICATED TUESDAY EVENING—INTERESTING CEREMONIES—DESCRIPTION OF BUILDING AND SOME INTERESTING FACTS CONCERNING IT GLEANED FROM REPORT OF THE BUILDING COMMITTEE OF WHICH DEAR SHERMAN IS CHAIRMAN—LARGE ATTENDANCE AT THE EXERCISES.

The building is designed in a simple form of romanque and is constructed of gray New Hampshire granite, with the roofs and rear gables covered with a slate of greenish gray color. It has a frontage of 120 feet on Walnut street, and occupies the centre of the lot. It has a tower 104 feet high and 23 feet square. Two main entrances lead through large vestibules to the main auditorium, 57x90-1/2 feet, which seats about 800 persons. At the centre of the end opposite the entrances there is a wide arch over the chancel. On the left of the chancel is the minister's room, having toilet apartment and convenient entrances. At the right is the organ. In the rear of the organ is a choir room, opening out upon a rear porch.

The chancel is 29 feet wide and 15 feet deep. On the left is the pulpit, and on the right the choir seats. At the centre front of the chancel stands a reading desk. Against the rear wall, between stalls ranged on each side, stands the communion table. The pews are spread in six rows, with three aisles. The arches and their finish are of hard pine and cypress. The other finish of the auditorium is of polished oak. There is a gallery at the end over the front entrances, reached by two broad and light staircases, opening from the main auditorium. It seats 125 persons.

The Sunday school rooms occupy the south side of the building. They are entered from the south, main entrance and consist of a large room, a chapel, 40x53-7-10 feet, a second room, 25x37 feet with a library room at the left of the larger room and another room in the tower on the first floor.

The main vestry room is finished into the roof, with an additional Sunday school room upon either side on the second floor. These rooms are reached by separate staircases. This part of the church is finished in white wood.

In the basement, directly under the audience room, is a large supper room, 57x 60 feet. At the east end of the basement the kitchen and serving room are located, having an outward entrance.

The basement is reached by two staircases, one from the main hallway of the church; the other from the eastern end, near the rear entrance. On either side of the hall of the basement, the ladies' and men's toilet and cloak rooms are located. The boiler room, coal bins and cellar are situated under the chapel.

All the windows of the church proper are of stained, cathedral glass. The interior decorative treatment is extremely tasteful, with prevailing light tones and ornate in gold and warmer coloring.

The indirect ventilating system has been adopted. The heating and plumbing fixtures are first-class. In all respects, in fact, the latest addition to Newton's list of churches furnishes an example of stability and beauty that appeals to one's taste of the substantial and artistic in architecture and general treatment.

The new church enterprise received its first substantial aid, according to the report of the building committee, from the ladies' aid society, April 5, 1890, when the purchase was made of a parcel of land on which the building now stands, with money which they had been industriously raising for several years.

The ladies, the report goes on to say, in the inception of the enterprise, and ever since, have been the most enthusiastic and efficient promoters of the project. The remaining portion of the land was purchased in July 1890. Following the purchase of the land, a building committee was chosen, and it has labored for two years upon the problem given it to solve, that of building a church adapted to the needs of the society, and in accordance with the moral ideas of a church home, at a moderate cost. It is the universal opinion of the members of the society that the building committee faithfully and successfully accomplished its task. The details of the cost of land and building, furnishings, etc., are as follows:

The piano for the new church was purchased by the young people, and the carpets, pew cushions and furnishings were provided by the ladies of the society, who have assumed the responsibility, also, of the payment for the organ. Several gifts have been donated, including a beautiful baptismal font, presented by Mrs. Howe, in memory of her husband, the late Rev. E. Frank Howe, a former pastor of the church. Another gift is a reading desk presented by the congregation in memory of Rev. Mr. Taylor, also a former pastor.

The order of exercises of the dedicatory service was as follows: Organ Prelude; Call to Worship, congregation rising, with response, "O, Lord, open Thou my lips and my mouth shall show forth Thy praise;" Doxology and Apostles Creed; Invocatory prayer, Rev. F. E. Hamilton, pastor of the Methodist church; Te Deum, B. choir; Reading of Scripture, Mr. Winthrop P. Greene; Anthem, "I was glad when they said unto me, we will go into the house of the Lord;" choir; Report of the building committee, Dea. A. G. Sherman; Selection, "Remember now Thy Creator," vocal quartet; Sermon, Rev. Frank W. Ganealus, D. D., of Chicago; (a former pastor); Dedication Covenant, read by pastor and congregation; Dedication prayer, Rev. Henry J. Patrick, D. D., pastor emeritus of the Second Congregational church, West Newton; Response, "Harken thou the application of Thy servants' prayer;" Dedication hymn, choir; Prayer and Benediction, Rev. J. M. Dutton, pastor.
